By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 14.

VIENNA REPORTS from Graz, Austria, one of the greatest landslides in history. An entire mountain side, covering nine square miles, is sliding toward the village of Wienen, and authorities believe the village is doomed.

That is far from us, but it may interest our descendants millions of years hence.

Mountain sides and mountain tops are constantly slipping down, the crumbling effect of frost and erosion helping the work.

A million streams wash soil into the ocean, gradually filling those depths. Volcanic eruptions and land upheavals do little to counteract this eternal "leveling power."

IN TIME, within the few hundred million years that men still have to go on this earth, their planet may become absolutely round and smooth.

If that happened, the oceans would cover the earth miles deep everywhere, and men could take their choice of living afloat, eating sea food, or digging canals big enough to hold the oceans and lakes.

Some scientists believe that the inhabitants of Mars, a planet 500 million years older than the earth, have already done that. They think they see Martian canals as straight lines in the telescope.

THERE IS happiness somewhere on earth, praise Heaven. H. E. Dugan writes from Glendale, Cal.:

"I have just returned from a trip through the Mother Lode mining section of California and gold sections of Nevada and Arizona. And does it look like 'old times' in these places? I'll say so.

"The large properties are daily adding miners and many have given each miner a Christmas bonus in advance and extra dividends to stockholders.

"The hills, rivers, old workings are crowded with 'young America,' all hoping to get rich. Many are making good wages. NOT A SPECK OF DEPRESSION in the many mining towns."

ALL ALONG the railroad trail across the continent, there are bright spots. Sidney Kring, manager of the Chamber of Commerce in Corpus Christi, Tex., says they have nothing to complain of there.

If you want to enjoy yourself you can get the "finest duck and geese shooting in this country."

If your mind is bent on recovery, you should see the progressive program under way at Corpus Christi "challenging the communities of the nation."

OFFICIALS interested in efficient, honest management of cities, might learn of something to their advantage by communicating with William Sydow, director of public service in the city of Miami.

Unlike some "highly civilized" northern cities, that dump sewerage and garbage into the ocean that their citizens may bathe in it, Miami has long got rid of garbage by burning.

At first, burning cost money for fuel and labor. Then, Mr. Sydow, who is a competent engineer and a public-spirited man, attached to the burning garbage steam boilers for production of power.

WITH THE steam thus supplied, Miami pumps its water supply, saves the cost of power for that purpose, saves also all that it formerly cost to burn the garbage.

True, there is "nothing in it" for politicians, but there is something in it for taxpayers, and they may be interested.

MRS. DOLLY GANN, sister of former Vice President Curtis, says if you want to write a book "just jot down notes, whenever you think of anything interesting, then make the notes into a book." That is one way, and simple. There are other ways.

An able Frenchman who wrote "The Three Musketeers" could dictate two novels at once to different secretaries, shifting from one secretary to the other, picking up the different characters.

Goethe spread the preparation and writing of "Faust" over a generation. He was past seventy when he wrote the second part.

Montesquieu spent thirty years writing his "Spirit of Laws" and devoted only a few weeks probably to his "Persian Letters." Perhaps one hundred read the "Persian Letters" for one that read "The Spirit of Laws."

IT IS said that Shakespeare, who paid little attention to his own writings after he left London and returned to Stratford, never bothered to put them in book form or seemed to think much of them, would scribble on a stray piece of paper additional lines and hand them to an actor on the stage.

COL. LINDBERGH with his wife, "riding on the tail of a tropical storm," landed his red flying ship at Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, having flown eleven hundred miles in 9 hours : 39 minutes from Brazil. His next stop will be Porto Rico.

WHO WILL build the ship to fly the continent comfortably

8 PUPILS DIE WHEN TRAIN HITS BUS

Many Injured in Crash; Victims Scattered Along Tracks

CRESCENT CITY, Fla., Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Eight elementary school children were killed and approximately 30 others injured, some of whom were expected to die, when a freight train crashed into a school bus six miles south of here this morning in a heavy fog.

The dead were William Smith, 12; Evelyn Smith, 9, and Frederick Smith, children of Mrs. Bennie Smith, a widow; Hazel McGrady, 13, and Eddie McGrady, 10; Elsie Bertha Gorton, 15; Louise Hardy, 8, and Willard Owen.

There was wildest confusion with cries of parents mingled with screams of the injured children.

All available ambulances from Palatka, Deland and Crescent City rushed to the scene, loaded quickly with dead or injured and hurried away to hospitals, complicating a quick check of the casualties.

The bus had a capacity of 40 or 50 children.

Atlantic Coast Line freight No. 212 crashed into the bus broadside. The bus was en route from the southern portion of the county with the young children.

Dr. E. M. Zeagler, owner of the Glendale Terrace Hospital, where four of the injured were carried, said he had never seen such horrible injuries.

Louis Leach, proprietor of the Crescent City Motor Company, who was one of the first to arrive at the scene of the wreck, described it as "the most horrible scene imaginable."

Engineer R. A. Howell and Conductor W. J. Morrison reported to their headquarters that the train approached the crossing with the whistle wide open and bell ringing in an effort to attract the attention of the bus driver, who was described at Atlantic Coast Line Railway headquarters at Jacksonville as "an elderly man."

COACH FOUND DEAD ON BEACH

CHATHAM, Mass., Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The body of Richard J. (Young) Dick Glendon, Columbia crew coach, was found covered with snow on the beach here today. He had been missing since he left his South Chatham home yesterday on a hunting trip.

Police were unable to determine immediately whether Glendon died of drowning or perished from exposure in the storm, which raged during the night.

An element of mystery was added to the disappearance of the crew coach when his father, former Navy coach, reported to police that he found a letter in his son's room. The contents of the letter were not disclosed, but a policeman who was in the house at the time it was found, said the elder Glendon hurried down the stairs from his son's room, exclaiming:

"He's done. We've got to keep looking now until we find him."

LINDYS ARRIVE IN PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 14. (AP.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here after flying the 753 miles from Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, at 1:35 this afternoon.

The Lindberghs had covered the distance in 5 hours, 40 minutes. They took off from Port-of-Spain at 7:55 a. m. (eastern standard time).

Now only 1,180 miles lies between them and Miami, the northern terminus of the Pan-American Airways route which they followed today from Trinidad.

In San Juan, the flying American couple were to be the guests of Acting Gov. Benjamin J. Horton and Mrs. Horton.

M'NAIR RAGE MARKS TAX VICTORY

Mayor-Elect Seizes Photographer at Council Meeting

Mayor-elect William N. McNair, in an embattled frame of mind against his political enemies, vented his spleen against the poor photographers and reporters at today's budget session of City Council.

McNair came to the meeting to have Council pass a resolution putting that body on record as opposed to the sale of the people's personal property to pay delinquent taxes on real estate during the present administration, an objective he has ascribed to former Mayor William A. Magee, with whom he is having numerous differences. Council passed the resolution.

LEAVES IN RAGE

He left in a rage that had brought him, a moment before, to the point of assault on a photographer who snapped his picture.

When Council met to resume its study of the budget McNair was there. He said:

"No pictures. There's been enough of that."

Then to Councilmen:

"That newspaper photographer goes out or I don't make a statement."

At the suggestion of a Councilman the members adjourned to the Mayor's conference room for half an hour. McNair led the way out. A cameraman took his picture. The Mayor-elect shouted:

"All right. That's the last picture you're going to get. I'm not going to talk any more to you fellows. I'm a private citizen and I've got some rights."

SEIZES CAMERAMAN

He started to leave. As he reached the door a photographer made a picture of his back. McNair turned and ran back, seizing the photographer by the throat. Big Moses Jacobs, the patrolman assigned to protect members of Council, separated them. The Mayor-elect, taking his leave, thus admonished the offending photographer:

"You've got to quit that. You fellows will regret that."

Councilman-elect William A. Magee today said he had told Council of the existence of an act by which the city might obtain judgment and execute against the goods of tax debtors, but had not advocated such action.

M'Nair Real Estate Tax Plan Passes in House

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—By a vote of 147 to 7 the McNair five-to-one real estate tax plan passed the House this afternoon.

Only two Allegheny countains, Frank Hoffman and James K. Ruby, voted against the measure.

Two Girls, Men Sought In Oil Operator's Death

CLARION, Pa., Dec. 14.—Officers from three counties today searched for the killers of Clark N. Witherup, 52, Kennerdell oil lease operator, whose body with a shotgun wound in the head was found frozen in Little Canoe Creek, near Knox, last night.

He disappeared last Saturday with $100 in his pockets.

Police are holding Robert Miller, 23, no home, after Sheriff E. M. Voorhies, of Venango County, said Miller knew of "visits" to the lease house Witherup occupied. He probably will be released.

Witherup was shot in the back of the head. It is believed he was killed in an auto and his body hurled from a bridge into the stream where it was found. State police are looking for two men and two women who are said to have visited Witherup at his lease last Saturday.

Walter Witherup, 19, son of the slain operator, told a Coroner's jury in Shippenville today that two men, one tall, the other short, and two girls, rather tall, visited his father's lease house below Kennerdell after 10 o'clock Saturday night.

As they entered, he said, the tall man proferred the elder Witherup a drink from a jug. Soon after taking it, Witherup appeared to reel. The son said:

"The stuff seemed doped. I went out to the well. When I returned 10 minutes later, I saw the car going up the hill, the tail light disappearing among the trees."

Dr. Frank Cierking, of Knox, performed an autopsy on the body and extracted four wads and a dozen lead pellets from the brain. The jury found Witherup was murdered by persons unknown.

ASSEMBLY'S PROGRAM SNARLED

Failure to Report Liquor Bills May Continue Session

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—Plans for the special session of the Legislature to adjourn finally next Thursday were disrupted today when it was discovered that two bills to extend time for payment of the liquor floor tax, boh necessary to secure immediate finances for the social and economic program approved by the Legislature, have not been reported from the Senate Finance Committee.

The bills, introduced by Senator Harry B. Scott, were prepared by Attorney William A. Schnader after a conference with distillers. An agreement had been reached whereby the distillers would drop their court contest against the original Pinchot floor tax bill, passed earlier.

TIME EXTENDED

In return, the new bills would extend the time for collection of the tax until December of 1934. Distillers fought payment of the tax immediately, particularly on liquor on which they can not now sell.

The state would agree to purchase immediately from Pennsylvania distillers 6,000,000 gallons of blended liquors, and the floor tax would be absorbed in the price charged in state stores.

In this way the state would obtain revenue with which to repeal the 4 mills tax on bank deposits and with which to help needy school districts.

In order to put the bill through now it will be necessary for the Legislature to sit at least through next Friday, as a bill cannot be passed in less than five days, even with unretarded action.

MAY PRESS SUIT

If this program is not followed, the distillers will press their suit

VOLSTEAD TEST OPENED HERE

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson today opened the way for a test of the validity of indictments based on the defunct prohibition laws.

The court sustained a demurrer to an indictment against George J. Oliver, who formerly conducted the Fifth Avenue Rail, at 1208 Fifth avenue.

The motion of defense attorneys that the court give binding instructions that the defendant be acquitted on the grounds that the national prohibition act is now unconstitutional was denied.

In refusing this motion, Judge Gibson informed Attorneys Max V. Schoonmaker and Joseph A. Rossi, the defense counsel, he would entertain instead a demurrer to the indictment.

The court explained this course would give the government an opportunity to appeal. When the demurrer was entered, Judge Gibson sustained it. United States District Attorney H. S. Dumbauld entered an exception as a matter of record.

The question of appeal, it was said, will depend on the attitude of the Department of Justice.

Youth Stricken in Home After Visit To Sweetheart

ANTHONY ZAVOLTA

Young Anthony Zavolta gave the girl he was to marry a parting kiss last midnight and went home to die—suddenly and mysteriously.

Anthony and his fiancee, Jennie Lapolla, 21, spent the evening in Jennie's home at 119 Auburn street, East End. Shortly before he departed, Anthony ate half of an egg sandwich.

In his own home at 315 North Euclid avenue, Anthony went to bed but shortly complained to a brother, Albert, and his mother, of pains in his stomach.

Albert hurried for a doctor, but before he returned Anthony was dead.

And attractive Jennie, who has been wearing her engagement ring since last Christmas eve, was in tears.

Today a post-mortem, insisted upon by Coroner W. J. McGregor, developed asphyxiation as the cause of death.

To kill the stomach pains Anthony had taken a sedative, which only served to choke him by causing the food to press against a lung.

Anthony, a service man in an East End store, and Jennie had been friends for four years. They had planned to be married next year, Jennie said.

STEEL FIRM ACCUSED BY WAGNER

Attorney General Set To Back Union Men in Court

By JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Attorney General Homer S. Cummings today moved to proceed against E. T. Weir and the National Steel Corporation to restrain interference with an election for representatives for collective bargaining in accordance with the agreement with the National Labor Board.

Attorneys in the Department of Justice and field investigators are conducting an investigation preliminary to instituting suit in the United States District Court for Wes Virginia.

This action was announced today by Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board.

BOARD NOT PARTICIPANT

No part will be taken by the board in the elections which will be held tomorrow. Wagner said:

"The so-called elections which will be held at the plants on Friday under the direction of the company are regarded as a nullity.

"Official representatives of the Labor Board have been prevented from setting up elections and supervising the voting in accordance with Section 7-A of the National Recovery Act.

"If the company unions goes on tomorrow and holds an election we will ignore the result and conduct our election as if their's had never been held. Granting of an injunction, such as we seek, would automatically annul any number of the company union elections which might have been held."

It was declared that no cognizance would be taken of elections

JOB CHIEF HERE FACES OUSTER

Maj. Harold F. Bucher, head of the Federal-State Employment Service here, is slated for dismissal, according to word from Harrisburg today, as the outcome of charges of general inefficiency and violations of the NRA code in overtime employment of office workers.

A. W. Motley, director of the state employment bureau, was expected to arrive in Pittsburgh tonight to take over the office.

PINCHOT IN NEW YORK

Bucher's formal ouster probably will not take place until return of Gov. Pinchot from New York, it was learned.

Miss Charlotte Carr, State Secretary of Labor and Industry, declared there was no criticism of Maj. Bucher's advisory council of 13, which is headed by W. E. Quinby.

Miss Carr was quoted as saying the task here needed a man of the "strongest executive character," that the labor department

Raft Socks Producer In Row Over Role

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—George Raft, of the movies, has finally hit—or pushed—somebody who disagreed with him in his firm stand against playing before the camera any scene which he apparently thinks would be discreditable to him in actual life.

Witnesses said he hit and staggered Benjamin Glazer, Paramount studio associate producer, yesterday after arguing with him about speaking certain lines in his current picture. Glazer says Raft only "pushed" him.

It was the first instance, as far as Hollywood remembers, in which an actor ever showed violence to a producer, but, with Raft offering apologies later, he and Glazer "made up."

The scene is one in which Raft, as a dancer at his mother's grave, is supposed to suggest that his picture be snapped there for publicity purposes. Raft objected to Glazer about the lines. Glazer said later:

"I suppose Raft had confounded a character in the picture with his own personal life. It is as if Mr. John Barrymore, who I am sure also reveres his mother's memory greatly, had declined to play Hamlet because Hamlet has to speak disparaging lines about Hamlet's mother."

SPEAKER RAINEY ASKS SILVER COINAGE ON 20 TO 1 BASIS

ROOSEVELT'S APPROVAL SOUGHT

Congress Will Back President, He Declares

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Silver coinage on a 20-to-1 basis was urged today by Speaker Rainey of the House.

He proposed that the United States assume the lead in bimetalism if other nations are not willing to co-operate.

While declaring that the House would favor silver coinage, he said that no action will be taken without approval of President Roosevelt.

Rainey said he did not know what the President's stand would be on the silver question, but added that he felt whatever the administration money policy was it would be upheld by Congress.

SILVER LONG IN USE

Rainey said the white metal had been used as money "from the time Abraham bought a cave for 400 shekels of silver." Advocating remonetization of silver at a ratio of about 20 to 1 with gold, he added:

"It would be a method of avoiding inflation. Half the world is using silver and prefers silver. After all, Bryan was right."

Meanwhile, reports of an agreement between England, France and the United States for stabilization of the American dollar at the present gold price of $34.01 per ounce, today brought fresh threats of a congressional battle over currency expansion.

In the face of Treasury denials, rumors persisted that the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the Federal Reserve Board had agreed to stabilize exchange at the latest American gold price.

This price was continued again today, the twelfth day it has been maintained by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, government agency in the gold-buying campaign.

FIXED BY WARREN

The $24.01 value, incidentally, was fixed by Prof. George F. Warren, Cornell agricultural expert, who is an unofficial monetary adviser to the Roosevelt administration. This was revealed to a group of Senators recently by Jesse L. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Previously, it was believed either the Treasury or the Federal Reserve Board fixed the gold price.

The prices, fixed by Warren, had devaluated the American gold dollar by about 35 per cent. This was accomplished by increasing the price of gold to $34.01 per ounce.

The effect has been a real devaluation of the American dollar in international exchange, but it has brought little domestic reaction because the government has bought very little gold at that price.

Secretary Woodin Promises Statement

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 14.—(INS.)—Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin, now on a leave of absence, yesterday announced that he would have "an important statement to make shortly before or after Christmas."

This came in answer to rumors from Washington that he would formally resign from President Roosevelt's cabinet by the first of the year. He refused to affirm or deny the reports.

Stories of Illness Amuse Rockefeller

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., eargerly reads each new newspaper story on his state of health and gets a great kick out of printed rumors that members of his family are worried about his condition, a friend said today.

GRANGE AT ODDS ON MILK PLAN

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Problems of farm relief and milk control come before the Pennsylvania State Grange at sessions of the sixty-first annual convention today.

The controversial questions of rural schools, lower Grange fees and taxation also are up for discussion.

John A. McSparran, Secretary of Agriculture, and Philip H. Dewey, Secretary of Internal Affairs, last night urged Grange support of a bill now before the Legislature to establish a state milk arbitration commission empowered to examine the cost records of milk distributors.

McSparran said the "milk code apparently can't last much longer" and without the plan provided for in the milk control bill the farmers will be left "without protective regulations." The Grange has been at odds on the measure.

Boy Kills Sister With 'Empty' Gun

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Dec. 14.—(INS.)—Robert Socia, 6, today shot and killed his sister, Gertrude Anne, five months old, with his father's 12-gauge shotgun, as the baby lay in her crib. Robert hurried off to school, told police:

"I just pointed it at her and pulled the trigger. I didn't know it was loaded."

Hospital authorities said he had a shotgun when state police tracked him down, but that he did not attempt to use it.

MITCHELL TAX TRUCE REFUSED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Proposals to compromise the income tax case against Charles E. Mitchell, former head of the National City Bank of New York, were flatly rejected today by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

Both civil and criminal complaints were filed against Mitchell in connection with his income tax returns, following revelations made before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee in its stock market investigation. A New York jury acquitted him on the criminal charges. Morgenthau stated:

"It has been suggested that I settle the Mitchell case, but I have decided it is in the public interests to proceed with the ordinary legal processes of collecting taxes."

Morgenthau will appear before the House Ways and Means Committee tomorrow to discuss recommendations for income tax revision made by a Ways and Means sub-committee.

RAIL MERGER PLAN ASSAILED

The "Prince Plan," which provides for the merging of all railroads in the East into two systems, the New York Central and the Pennsylvania, was attacked as "ruthless and radical," by John J. Cornwell, former Governor of West Virginia and general counsel for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, today.

In its place, Cornwell would have all forms of interstate transportation brought under federal control, he told the Allegheny Regional Advisory Board in Hotel Schenley. He said:

"I hope and believe that Joseph B. Eastman, the federal co-ordinator of railroads, will recommend this."

Roosevelt Monopoly Proposal Under Fire

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(INS.)—The proposal of President Roosevelt's interdepartmental committee for a giant monopoly in radio, telephone and telegraph communication aroused sharp criticism in Congressional circles today.

Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, a leader in the interstate commerce field, declared that he would fight monopoly and Speaker Rainey, of the House, suggested that the whole question be put over "until after the depression."

SLASH IN U. S. COSTS SOUGHT BY PRESIDENT

Fund for Recovery Faces Cut in Budget Balancing Task

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Limitation of emergency expenditures next year to approximately two thousand million dollars, assuring a balanced budget in 1935, is being sought by President Roosevelt.

This will mean sharp curtailment of numerous recovery activities, notably by the Public Works Administration and the RFC. The lending powers of the RFC may be ended after June 30. No decision has been reached on public works funds.

4 MILLION GET JOBS

It is felt assurance of a balanced budget will ease uncertainties and go far to stem the currency inflation tide in Congress. Presidential advisers believe it would enable the administration to work out its monetary program with care.

The President expects to ask Congress for at least 350 million dollars to continue the civil works program after February 1, when the original 400 million dollars will be exhausted.

CWA Administrator Hopkins reports 4,000,000 men and women will be working by Saturday. Starting in March, the civil works will be tapered off, and probably will be terminated by May. First layoffs will be in the South.

DEFICIT ESTIMATE HUGE

The consequent unemployment slack, it is anticipated, will be absorbed in public works projects and in increased activities of business and industry.

Although committed to emergency retrenchments, the President has made it plain nobody would be permitted to suffer or starve because of lack of adequate relief. The economic program is subject to immediate modification if conditions should grow worse.

By June 30, end of the current fiscal year, federal recovery expenditures are estimated to total at least seven thousand million dollars. The estimated fiscal year deficits is 45 thousand millions.

FARMERS AGAIN ELECT. O'NEAL

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Edward A. O'Neal, of Florence, Ala., who as head of the American Farm Federation went before the annual convention and urged a policy in support of President Roosevelt, will continue in power for at least another year.

His re-election as president was one of the closing acts of the convention yesterday and followed the consideration or more than a score of resolutions, covering a wide variety of topics.

When the delegates finally wandered out of the convention hall they had given approval to the President's plan for agriculture recovery and his monetary plan, but had attacked "profiteering" under the NRA.

The charges of profiteering were contained in a resolution that complained that the prices of agricultural products had not advanced on a parity with other industries.

U. S. TO RECEIVE ONLY 5 PCT. ON DEBTS

France Again Will Lead List of Defaulters

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—This government will receive only about 5 per cent of the $153,000,000 due from the European debtor nations tomorrow on their December 15 installments.

This was learned today as it became evident the debtor nations were succeeding in their efforts to whittle down even the small so-called "token" payments some of them have been making to avoid the stigma of default.

FRANCE TO DEFAULT

France again will lead her satellites, Belgium, Poland and Estonia, in defaulting for the third time on the debt payments due this country. Paris has announced that the French cabinet has decided to default.

Following quickly in the wake of this announcement came official notification from Belgium and Estonia that they too would not make any payments. Similar word from Poland was expected.

Austria and Hungary, both of which, although not French satellites, are in dire financial straits, also notified this government of intention to default. The general excuse again was incapacity to pay.

TOTAL AMOUNT

The total amount on which these defaulting nations have failed to make payments, including past installmnts, is approximately $107,000,000.

When added to the unpaid balances of those nations which have made small token payments, this will make the United States loser by approximately $300,000,000 on the total amount due from the debtor nations during the past 12 months.

Finland once again will be the only debtor to meet its obligations in full. That little republic already has notified the State Department of its intention to pay the $229,623 installment due tomorrow.

Great Britain and Czeschoslovakia both have succeeded in scaling down their token payments. Britain will pay $7,500,000 on $117,670,765 due as compared with $10,000,000 on the $75,950,000 due last June. Czechoslovakia will pay $150,000 on $1,865,624 as compared with $180,000 on $1,500,000 last June.

Mayors' Group Plans Remedy for Banks

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(INS.)—Banks have "failed monstrously" in their credit functions, Mayor Daniel Hoan, of Milwaukee, charged at a conference of mayors assembled here today to consider municipal finances.

'Surprise' Bride

MRS. NELL Q. DONNELLY

JAMES A. REED WEDS DIVORCEE

International News Service.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 14.—James A. Reed, former United States senator from Missouri, today was speeding eastward on a 10-day honeymoon with his bride, the former Mrs. Nell Q. Donnelly, following their surprise marriage here.

The ceremony last night culminated a long friendship between the 72-year-old Democratic leader and Mrs. Donnelly, wealthy garment manufacturer, who was kidnaped December 16, 1931, and held for $75,000 ransom. Mrs. Reed is 43 years old.

Acting as Mrs. Donnelly's attorney, former Senator Reed took a leading part in the search for her while she was being held captive by the kidnapers. His threat to send the abductors "to the gallows" if their captive were harmed was believed to have led to her release without payment of ransom.

Mrs. Reed divorced her husband, Paul Donnelly, last year after 26 years of married life. Reed's wife, Mrs. Laura Almstead Reed, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., died October 12, 1932, after a marriage of 45 years' duration.

TRIANGLE DEATH TRIAL OPENS IN BEAVER

Wife Slain, Mate Faces Jury; 'Other Man's' Name Kept Secret

BEAVER, Pa., Dec. 14.—Disclosure of the name of the "other man" in the life of Mrs. Hilda Marr Crawford, 37, of Conway, was awaited today as the woman's husband went on trial charged with killing her.

The name of the man the woman was alleged to have met clandestinely on the night of last October 25 when she was fatally wounded has been a closely-guarded secret.

WITNESS POSTS BOND

The husband, John M. Crawford, 51, pleaded not guilty to a murder charge. A jury was picked to try him shortly after noon.

Crawford told police he had telephoned his wife several hours before the shooting that he would not be home from Canton, O., where he was employed as a railroad telegrapher. Later, he said, he arranged for transportation and returned to find his wife absent.

TELLS OF SHOOTING

She came home late at night, he said, in an automobile with another man. He met them with a revolver and fired at the automobile. The wife threw herself in front of him to shield the driver and was wounded fatally, he said. Police said the wife corroborated his statement before she died.

BRITAIN SEEKS LEAD IN SHIPS

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Great Britain, embarking upon a campaign to regain Atlantic liner honors, stands prepared today to "hit hard" in bolstering her shipping interests.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, commenting in Commons on the expected merger of the Cunard and White Star North Atlantic shipping lines, announced a program would be presented for aiding completion of the big Cunard liner 534—designed to be the mightiest ship afloat—when the companies combine.

The 534 will cost approximately $25,000,000. Work on the ship was suspended more than a year ago.

The air pilot now picks up news on wireless. Some day he will pick power in the same way, taking it from different waterfalls and power plants as he crosses the continent, and from the west and east sides of the Atlantic Ocean as he crosses to Europe.

The thing has been done in a small way experimentally, just as Marconi's wireless began by sending a single letter across the ocean. Some day wireless power will be a reality and fliers will not have to carry tremendous burdens of gasoline.

Roosevelt Braves Ice To Call on Sick

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Despite hazardous weather and matters of precedents, President Roosevelt went motoring over icy streets late yesterday to talk business and visit with three members of his cabinet who are confined to bed with illness.

His two-hour tour through the sleet took him to the Naval Hospital, where Secretary Ickes is recovering from a broken rib; then to the home of Secretary Swanson, who has a severe cold, and thence to the outskirts of the city to Walter Reed Hospital, where Secretary Dern is receiving treatment for a troubled eye.

A motorcycle police escort plowed through the late day traffic for the President and brought him back to the White House after nightfall.

Marvin H. McIntyre, a secretary, accompanied the President and took with him a brief case containing matters for consideration during the visit with Ickes.

Jealous Love Blamed For Murder of Dentist

Ambushed by Woman From 'Romantic Past,' Police Say

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 14.—Secret love twisted by jealousy into a desire for revenge was the motive for the mysterious murder of handsome young Dr. Leonard Siever, 44, Pasadena dentist, esthete and socialite, detectives said today.

Dr. Siever was ambushed and shot to death in the rain-swept gloom outside the Pasadena Scottish Rite Cathedral as he started to enter his car. Police expressed belief that a woman had emerged from his romantic past to fire the fatal shots.

The bizarre mystery caused police to start questioning Dr. Siever's patients in quest of a clue.

One of the dentist's patients, Mrs. Peggy La Jotte, pretty red-haired wife of Charles La Jotte, aviator, revealed that she and her husband had been patients of Dr. Siever and had met him socially, but she was unable to throw any light on a possible motive for the slaying.

FOUND BY MILKMAN

A Pasadena physician, who was friendly with one of the women to whom Dr. Siever had been attentive, gave police information that enabled them to fix the approximate time of the murder as between 6:30 and 7:15 o'clock Tuesday night. Dr. Siever left his office about 6:20 p. m., and at 7:15 was to have called for Mrs. Frances Coen Cooke, socially prominent divorcee, to escort her to the home of Mrs. Edna Herbst in "millionaires' row."

Dr. Siever's body was discovered beside his expensive sedan just before dawn yesterday by a milkman.

He had been shot twice—through the base of the skull and through the heart.

His watch and wallet were missing, but police said this probably was the slayer's method of disguising the motive.

A CHRISTMAS KISS

A cryptic note marked "11:30 Tuesday, Rockwell," found on Dr. Siever's body was explained by Miss Mary Rockwell, a pretty patient of the society dentist, as the time of her appointment with Dr. Siever whom she said she had known for several years.

Miss Rockwell revealed that she had kissed Dr. Siever as she prepared to leave his office and had said:

"Here's a Christmas kiss for you."

She explained she had been one of his patients for several years and that their relations were not romantic.

Dr. Siever, Miss Rockwell said, "lived for the beautiful things in life."

2 BEGIN TERMS IN POISON DEATH

Mrs. Mary Chalfa, 32, and Mrs. Anna Allas, 30, of Munhall, were on their way to Muncy, Pa., today to serve life sentences in the State Industrial Home for the poisoning of Stephen Allas, 12, stepson of Mrs. Allas.

They betrayed no emotion as they were hurried from the county jail into an automobile to be driven to prison. In the lobby of the jail a dozen young and middle-aged relatives waited. The two women stopped for a brief minute to embrace women kin, some of whom were in tears. The visitors were not allowed inside the jail gates.

Mrs. Allas' husband waited in the cold for an hour without an overcoat. He said he expected to visit his wife frequently at Muncy.

The two women were refused a new trial by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, which implied the women were fortunate they had not been sentenced to hang.

They were convicted of poisoning young Stephen Allas to collect his insurance and they were accused, but not tried, for the similar poisoning of another stepson, Andrew Allas, 15, and a baby, Richard Duyava.

They contended that an alleged fortune-teller, Mrs. Gizella Young, of Homestead, had cast a spell over them, but Mrs. Young, state's star witness, denied this.

PITT SENIORS PLAY SANTA

Three University of Pittsburgh Seniors who are taking jobs playing Santa Claus the night before Christmas are looking for more "chimneys" to conquer!

In New York, the Pitt men heard recently, college men are often hired to play Santa Claus. For a small fee, they visit any home at any designated hour, and climb in any window ready to be Santa Claus for the children there.

Jack Wyeth, Winston McConkey and Joseph L. Rodgers are the Pitt men who have started the same idea here. And all of them are well-fitted to play the role of Santa—at least, until they lose their whiskers. Both Wyeth and Rodgers are stars in the Cap and Gown club's musical show, and McConkey is a member of Pitt Players, the campus dramatic society.

They explain that they will either bring a sack full of toys with them when they climb in a window, or that they will help the children to unpack gifts in the homes. Also, they will tell Christmas stories, and if a family would like to have help trimming the Christmas tree, Santa will do that too!

WOMAN MURDER CASE WITNESS STRANGLED

Underworld Searched By Sleuths for 'Revenge' Killer

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Police looked to the underworld today to find a solution for the slaying of an attractive young woman found strangled in her West Side apartment yesterday.

With the disclosure that the woman, Mrs. Margie Palesky Criochock, had been held as a material witness in the killing of an ex-convict for which two gangsters were sent to Sing Sing, police believed she was slain by friends of the convicted men or by a third man implicated in the murder.

Mrs. Criochock, 26 years old, who came here from Shenandoah, Pa., was found on her bed with a piece of electric light cord drawn tightly around her neck. She was clad in pajamas. A pillow had been pressed down over her face and the room showed signs of a struggle.

WOMEN TELL OF THREAT

Women living in the apartment house said they heard a man shouting in her apartment Saturday night:

"You're not going to live long, baby!"

Mrs. Criochock, they said, replied:

"I'm not afraid of anybody, I won't be killed."

Mrs. Criochock and a woman known as Billie Curnow were held as material witnesses in the murder of Joseph Mortillaro, ex-convict, who was found shot to death in Van Cortlandt Park in November, 1932.

Two men, George De Perno, 27, and Irving Leder, 28, were charged with the murder and later pleaded guilty to lesser charges when they learned that Mrs. Criochock and the Curnow woman were held as witnesses against them. They are serving long terms in Sing Sing.

Police said the two women were present at a party at which De Perno accused Mortillaro of "stealing his girl" and vowed to kill him. The former convict was found dead a short time later.

THIRD MAN SOUGHT

The police are looking for another man implicated in the Mortillaro killing and believe he may be the man heard shouting in the Criochock apartment.

Mrs. Criochock was released as a material witness from the Bronx County Jail only two weeks ago and rented an apartment in West Ninety-third street under the name of Marian Smith. Neighbors knew little about her.

Police said she had a husband, John Criochock, living in Shenandoah, and a small son. Her father was Andrew Palesky, also of Shenandoah.

In her apartment were found several Christmas packages addressed to "John" and "Jimmy." A clerk in a nearby drugstore said she told him she planned to go to Shenandoah for the holidays.

WIFE INSULTED, MAN SHOOTS

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Dec. 14.—An insult to his wife caused James Hare, of Apollo, to pick up a pistol and shoot a friend, William Warren, 43, also of Apollo, in the leg, police reported.

Vandergrift police said that Warren and J. J. Shirley, who had been drinking, visited the Hares last night.

Police were holding both men.

Mrs. Sara Young Frazer, divorced wife of Clifford S. Heinz, son of the founder of the H. J. Heinz Company, has been appointed legal guardian of their three children, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Los Angeles.

The Heinz children are Clifford Heinz, Jr., 14; Nancy, 12, and Dorothy, 10.

The couple were divorced in 1929. Mrs. Frazer has since twice married.

TORCH WOMAN TO TESTIFY

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The defense lost a motion to acquit Mrs. May Hanson of the torch murder of her ex-husband by directed verdict of not guilty today and began a defense campaign that is to be climaxed tomorrow by the widow taking the stand.

Announcement that Mrs. Hanson would testify was made by Defense Attorney John E. Goembel.

Goembel said he would offer a battle of experts against experts, presenting his own chemists to offset the state's expert testimony regarding the burning to death of Earl Hanson in his automobile last August, allegedly set afire by his divorced wife after she had thrown gasoline over him.

Mrs. Hanson was neatly dressed in a new gray frock. Her demeanor, as always, was nonchalant.

DIVORCE GIVEN MRS. LEYDA OF RADIO

Church Singer Says Husband Threw Things at Her

Mrs. Margaret Cunningham Leyda, church and radio singer and entertainer, recived a divorce from Edgar J. Leyda, of Monongahela City, in an order today from Judge George V. Moore, in Common Pleas Court.

Mrs. Leyda alleged that during their 17 years of married life Leyda "became drunk, swore at me, threw the salt and pepper shakers at me, and falsely accused me of misconduct."

Regarding the husband's charges that his wife frequently drank to excess, the court found:

"We believe she used liquor as a social diversion on numerous occasions, but we do not believe she became intoxicated or was abusive to the husband as a consequence of this social drinking."

SAN JOSE BACKS LYNCHING TRIAL

International News Service.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Dec. 14.—Public opinion in San Jose apparently will support prosecution of the ringleaders of the mob which lynched Thomas H. Thurmoid and Jack Holmes for the kidnap murder of Brooke Hart.

Following the arrest of Anthony Cataldi, 18, who assertedly boasted he was the "Paul Revere" of the lynch mob, leading citizens here expressed the opinion that there was no alternative but for officials to proceed with the prosecution of those who may be charged with participation.

Fred Thomas, District Attorney, said:

"My duty is clear, and I must act in accordance with the evidence presented. No arrests were made previously because no evidence was available. The evidence against Anthony Cataldi will be presented to the grand jury."

Detectives William Sullivan and Charles Waizenhofer testified Sullivan advertised a "financial proposition" for small investors. He told them, they said, he was organizing a "psychology club" and that investors soon would collect a small fortune in dues and fees.

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg remanded Sullivan for five days pending investigation, and a further hearing. Detectives said a score or more persons had replied to the advertisement.

FLOOD WATERS ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF TACOMA, WASH. . . . . THE NEIGHBORHOOD'S GREATEST DISASTER IN 30 YEARS

Brother Lost 40 Years Writes to Policeman

Patrolman John Wantje is walking his North Side beat these days with a new glow on his face and it's not from the cold wind or the Christmas spirit.

It's the glow of old memories revived.

In his pocket is a letter from his half-brother, George Richter, of Stockton, Cal., of whom he hadn't heard for 40 years.

Wantje's last recollection of him was as a boy of 14, when Richter ran away from their California home.

The Salvation Army here delivered to Officer Wantje a letter from Stockton "Sallies" yesterday. It informed him that his half-brother had seen, in a Pittsburgh newspaper, the name of the officer and that Richer, now 54, thought it was that of his relative. Wantje's family had come here 37 years ago

Somehow, the policeman said today, he hopes to arrange a reunion.

School Whipping Upheld By Court in Lancaster

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Frowned upon by many moderns, the time-honored custom of school teachers "paddling" disobedient pupils gets a nod of approval from Judge Benjamin C. Atlee and at least one jury.

This was disclosed yesterday at the trial of Mrs. Ruth Agnes Wafel Weitzel, Lancaster County teacher, charged with administering corporal punishment to 12-year-old John Wasserlein.

John, it seems, had acted as peacemaker in a schoolyard fight, became embroiled in another for his pains and, to make it worse, was "paddled" by the teacher. His father brought suit against Mrs. Weitzel.

John testified:

"She broke a paddle on me and bounced me up and down on a chair, hard."

Judge Atlee had listened intently. He said in his charge to the jury:

"I still am one of the old-fashioned kind that believes paddling is necessary."

Apparently the jurors were of the same opinion, for, after a short deliberation, they acquitted Mrs. Weitzel and assessed John's father for the costs.

'WHISKY TRUST' IN CONTROL, U. S. TOLD

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The joint hearing on liquor taxation was closed today by the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means committees with two witnesses charing the liquor industry of the nation is in the hands of a "whisky trust."

Representative John J. O'Connor (Dem., of New York, a wet, and Harvey H. Smith, of Vine Grove, Ky., counsel for four independent distillers, joined in the "whisky trust" charge. Smith declared the liquor industry is chiefly controlled by foreign interests.

With the close of the hearings, Chairman Doughton (Dem.), of North Carolina, of the House Ways and Means Committee, announced a liquor tax bill would be prepared next week for submission to the House.

Senator Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said Senate action would follow that of the House.

$2 TAX ON GALLON LOOMS

Sentiment for a tax of approximately $2 a gallon on liquor appeared to be growing, despite demands of witnesses for a low tax to cheapen liquor to the consumer.

Smith told the committee the four distilleries he represents can produce whisky at $6.50 a barrel, far less than the cost attributed to other distilleries.

He declared that careful investigation has convinced his group there is a "whisky trust" which has, in addition to "cornering" liquor, obtained control of the lumber from which barrels are made.

O'Connor demanded a tax of $5 a gallon on whisky, declaring the tax had no connection with the price.

ASSAILS NRA CONTROL

Long a Congressional wet, he declared he would prefer prohibition to the proposed liquor control by the government. He attacked control by the NRA and the quota system of the federal alcohol control administration.

O'Connor added:

"Why, before repeal became effective, in my own state of New York, there were opened up, and taken advantage of, more avenues of graft than ever existed during the 14 years of the Eighteenth Amendment."

He charged that distillers controlling the supply of aged whisky have been lobbying in Washington and "have had their representatives working on members of Congress, the Treasury Department, the Secretary of State, the Department of Agriculture and even the White House.

BOOTLEGGERS LINKED

O'Connor declared that many distillers, who are now appealing for a low tax to defeat the bootlegger, were selling to the bootlegger during prohibition.

The possibility of return of national prohibition if the bootlegger is not eliminated by repeal was suggested earlier by Representative Cochran (Dem.), of Missouri.

Cochran warned that the bootlegger will remain unless legal liquor is sold cheaply enough to reach the poor man.

Impure Liquor Facing Seizure

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—A threat to place an embargo on all liquors harmful in any degree was voiced today by Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, city commissioner of health. He disclosed that all licensed liquor stores here are being canvassed to determine ingredients of liquor.

Dr. Wynne indicated that the Board of Health would take action today requiring all whiskies containing anything but aged-in-the-wood spirits to carry labels plainly showing the contents.

Bustanoby, Famous Cafe Owner, Dies

YONKERS, N. Y., Dec. 14.—(INS.)—Funeral services for Pierre Jean Bustanoby, famous New York restaurateur, whose establishments were of the gayest on the "Gay White Way" in prohibition days, will be held here tomorrow. Bustanoby, who was 63, died here after a brief illness.

Bustanoby's cafe was celebrated for its food and wines for several decades. He was also associated with the old Cafe de la Paix.

French Wine Quota Held Insufficient

PARIS, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—A spokesman for French wine interests said today he considered France's quota of 784,000 gallons of wine and all other forms of alcohol for immediate export to the United States to be insufficient.

The quota, however, is being accepted without complaint, he said, as it was about what was expected and negotiations are under way to increase it.

POTTERS ASK TARIFF WALL

International News Service.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 14.—A demand for a tariff wall to protect American pottery manufacturers from products of Japan was left in the wake of the annual convention of the United States Potters' Association today. John E. Dowsing, legislative agent for the group, said:

"Chinaware from Japan is seriously disturbing the market for American pottery.

"We have filed a petition with the NRA for limiting imports from Japan under the recovery act. These imports have been increasing rapidly."

MAYVIEW BUS HIT, 2 HURT

A Mayview nurse and an attendant today were nursing injuries received late yesterday when a coal truck crashed into the Mayview bus on the highway near the County Home at Woodville.

Five women patients and the driver suffered only from shock when the truck, approaching from a side road, struck the side of the bus, according to officials at Mayview.

The injured were Miss Rebecca Kirker and Theodore Sarkin. Dr. James S. Hammers, superintendent of the City Hospital and Home, sped to the scene, about three miles from the hospital, in an ambulance. The victims were taken to the City Hospital.

Works Lobbyists Banned by Ickes

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—(INS.)—A determined drive is being conducted by Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes against so-called "special representatives," paid agents and lobbyists who have besieged his office in behalf of pending projects.

Announcing some time ago that no city or state need employ anyone because of purported "influence" with public works authorities, Ickes followed this up by adopting a policy barring from his office those considered the most flagrant offenders.

Curb On Brewery Sales Defeated

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—By a vote of 53 to 98, the House last night defeated the Lynch bill which would prohibit brewers from selling their product to all but licensed distributors, except for export from the state.

RUM JOB TESTS RIVAL WAR DAYS

The examinations to be given Saturday in five Pittsburgh high schools to the 5,300 applicants for jobs in Allegheny County's state liquor stores will be the biggest examination program since World War days, Gen G. Graham, superintendent of public instruction in charge of the tests, said today.

The tests will be given at Taylor Allderdice, Fifth Avenue, Peabody, Schenley and South High Schools and applicants must be there not later than 8:30 a. m.

Applicants will be finger-printed and, in taking the tests, will be known only by numbers.

Towns Voting Dry Aided By House

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania communities, which voted dry in November on the sale of beer, will be empowered, despite prohibition repeal, to continue their ban on the sale of beer and liquor under the terms of the McElwee bill, passed finally by the House last night and sent to the Senate. The vote was 138 to 21.

Erie Rum Store Near Drys' Headquarters

ERIE, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Erie's downtown state liquor store will open for business December 27 in the rooms formerly occupied by the Erie Trust Company. It's in the same building where the Erie County Anti-Saloon League had its headquarters.

STILL RAIDED ALONG RIVER

John Patton, said to be a former county employe in charge of voting machines, and Guilo Bardi were arrested by federal alcoholic beverage agents late yesterday after a raid upon an underground distillery on the bank of the Monongahela River, Forward Township.

Thirteen gallons of moonshine were seized. Agents reported they were violating the federal revenue statutes because they failed to register their still with the Collector of Internal Revenue, and to pay the tax.

The federal agents said they found in the cave a 60-gallon still and 19 barrels of mash.

CLUB LICENSES TAKEN OUT BY SPEAKEASIES

Figures released today by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board revealed that the speakeasies' operators are grasping at the opportunity to go straight by obtaining liquor licenses. Of course they may still be speakeasies in practice, but in theory they're clubs, protected by old charters and new licenses. And a member of the board implied today that something will have to be done about it.

Two hundred and nineteen licenses to sell the hard stuff thus far have been granted in Pittsburgh. Of these, 147 were granted clubs, 28 to hotels and 44 to restaurants.

CLUBS IN LEAD

The number of licensed clubs is slightly more than twice the combined total of restaurants and hotels. Of course some of these clubs are legitimate—some of them.

In Allegheny County, outside the city, 356 license have been granted. To restaurants have gone 207, to clubs 80 and to hotels 69.

The total for Allegheny County including the city, is 575 licenses—approximately one-fifth of he 2,833 licenses granted all over the state. Just before Prohibition there were 1,273 saloons in Allegheny County.

$50,000 FOR CITY

Pittsburgh's share of license fees so far is $50,000.

But not all municipalities in the county are interested in repeal. Sewickley Council last night passed a resolution protesting granting of liquor licenses there. This was done at the suggestion of J. C. Chaplin, president of the borough Council, who is also president of the Colonial Trust Company.

And Tarentum, legally dry since 1869, had convinced the Liquor Control Board to change its plans to locate there one of the state liquor stores which open January 2 to sell package goods.

LICENSES REFUSED

Those refused liquor licenses by the Board of Liquor Control include:

RUM POST LOST TO PENNINGTON

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—William A. Sponsler, assistant budget officer in the Pinchot administration, may be named secretary of the new Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board.

This is the post for which John D. Pennington, former prohibition administrator, was suggested after initial efforts to procure his appointment as one of the three board members proved fruitless. It is understood the board has decided to have the secretary function as an administrative rather than an enforcement officer, which has led to the report that Sponsler would get the place.

Sponsler has been working in a secretarial capacity for the board, and has been responsible for much of its initial organization, especially in the allocation of licenses to liquor dispensers.

2,500 Rum Store Sites Offered in 2 Counties

Twenty-five hundred offers of state liquor store sites in Allegheny and Beaver counties have been made to Roy A. MacGregor, rental agent here for the Liquor Control Board.

Until now a storeroom and basement at 924 Fourth avenue, Coraopolis, is the only place optioned by MacGregor, leaving 20 sites yet to be approved. He promises to announce four additional store locations Saturday, two in each county.

With the official notice published today that the Coraopolis location has been optioned, MacGregor will wait five days to receive complaints or remonstrances before taking bids for furnishing the store.

Partial surveys of suggested sites have been made in Clairton, McKeesport, Homestead, McKees Rocks, Aliquippa, Ambridge, Rochester and Midland, MacGregor announced today.

Today and tomorrow he will inspect locations in East Pittsburgh, Beaver Falls and Aliquippa.

The Liquor Control Board emphasized today that residents have only five days after the publication of options to protest the location of liquor stores.

Advertisements declaring selection of the sites are published as soon as the options are taken and this work has already begun.

Within the five day period 15 residents within a quarter of a mile of a proposed store site may present a petition of protest to the local court, asking elimination of the site because of proximity to churches, schools, or private residences.

WILL ROW BARES $10,000 TIP FOR BLOOMS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Margaret Keith, daughter of a millionaire Utah mining man who committed suicide in her Beverly Hills mansion in April, once gave a nurse $10,000 for her thoughtfulness in bringing her a bunch of violets, a jury hearing evidence in the contest of her will was told yesterday.

$1,000 TIP CITED

Contestants of the will, among them Miss Keith's sister, Mrs. Etta Keith Eskridge, contend the 49-year-old recluse was incompetent mentally and unable to conserve her finances.

Their attorneys cited that she once gave a Negro maid $1,000 and a motor car for bringing her dinner to her and that she discharged a Japanese gardener for looking at her, although she wrote him a check for $1,500.

PERMITTED NONE TO LOOK

She permitted no one to look on her, the jury was told, went outside only at night, had her meals delivered at the door of the room in which she lived—one room among scores that made up her palatial residence in the Palos Verde hills overlooking the Pacific Ocean.

PISTOL SOUNDS FIRE ALARM

The report of five revolver shots brought pedestrians and firemen to fight a blaze in a row of three houses at 2425-27-29 Webster avenue early today.

Police reported the damage at $5,000.

Elmer Morrison, Negro, of 738 Adelaide street, was attracted to the fire when, he told police, he saw a man lean out of a second-story window and fire five shots into the air. The flames then began spurting from the rear of the grocery on the first floor. Occupants of the apartments, police said, were the families of Austin White and Clifford Ellis, Negroes.

BROKER'S END, 'SUICIDE'

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The death of Frank J. Fulton, 58, former cotton broker, was listed as suicide today. Detectives said he leaped from a window of his sixth-floor apartment in fashionable Beekman place, early yesterday.

Members of his family said he had suffered with amoebic dysentery, which preyed on his mind. Detectives were informed he had suffered business reverses and that two years ago he sold his seat on the Cotton Exchange and retired.

A note addressed to his wife was found in the apartment. According to detectives it thanked her for keeping up the premiums on his insurance policy and said she was entitled to the proceeds.

DUBLIN, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The Free State government was given a surprise today by Gen. Eoin O'Duffy when the Blue Shirts' leader announced that the banned Young Ireland Association, which he heads, has been dissolved.

O'Duffy, for whose arrest a warrant has been issued, served a writ on the Attorney General asking for a high court declaration that a new League of Youth which he is forming shall be a legal body.

It was recalled that when the original Blue Shirt national guard was banned, the Young Ireland Association was formed. It was declared illegal last week.

Historic Hostelry In Harrisburg Under Hammer

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The thud of an auctioneer's hammer is to disturb the routine of the Bolton House, whose register has borne the names of such notables as Charles Dickens, and men who have shaped the political destinies of the state.

Mentioned in the English author's "American Notes," the historic 140-room hostelry will go to the highest bidder at a Sheriff's sale January 4.

It once was the favorite meeting place of the lieutenants of Col. James M. Guffey, long a power in Democratic politics of Pennsylvania and great-uncle of the present state leader of the party.

The automobile had been identified as one of two owned by Mrs. Ilsley in the trial of the Negro ex-convict for the murder of the sportswoman and her maid, Mrs. Mina Buckner.

JURY CLEARS H. L. RATNER

A sealed verdict reached in less than an hour today has cleared H. Lee Ratner, attorney, indicted on charges of subornation of perjury in the United States District Court.

The case went to the jury late yesterday just after Mayor-elect William N. McNair, Judges Elder W. Marshall and M. A. Musmanno, Allen Kerr, secretry of the Allegheny Bar Association and others had testified regarding the good character of Ratner.

The charge was based on allegations by Agnes Ferich, now in Alderson (W. Va.) Federal Reformatory for women, that Ratner had coached her to give false testimony in the trial of Harry Reitzell, on a charge of immorality.

Ratner was represented by Attorney Charles J. Margiotti.

Old Toys Needed To Cheer Poor Children

Workmen of the Goodwill Industries are repairing toys for Christmas celebrations of underprivileged children, but unless more toys are supplied, according to Dr. A. G. Curry, Goodwill director, there vill not be enough.

To prevent such a situation, Dr. Curry is asking all the families of Allegheny County who have old toys to send them to the Goodwill Industries, 2801 Liberty avenue, for Christmas use.

STORE HELD UP IN RUSH HOUR

Police today sought two bandits who escaped with the day's receipts of the Barker Hardware Store, 304 Seventh avenue, after warning three victims that their revolver was equipped with a silencer, during last night's rush hour.

While scores of pedestrians passed, the bandit pair ordered C. C. Barker, head of the firm, and a clerk and a customer to lie on the floor in the rear of the store.

U. S. PREPARES TO BALK VOTE AT WEIRTON

tomorrow in which it is contended a large body of the employes have had no opportunity to present the names of their candidates.

The Labor Board before the Attorney General charges breaking of the contract signed October 16 by Weir, William J. Long and the chairman of the board, and will ask an injunction to restrain any and all persons from interposing in an election under the complete supervision of the government officials.

CHARGES FILED

Attorney General Cummings is expected to act without delay. Evidence supporting the charge of violation of the board's contract was presented early today. This embraces statements by Dr. William M. Leiserson, Jesse I. Miller and James F. Dewey, field representatives of the Labor Board, and testimony offered by employes. After study of this evidence, it was said, instructions would be given United States attorneys of the District Court to co-operate with the board for prompt action.

Commenting on the action of Weir in proceeding with an election without supervision of the NRA, a member of the board said:

"Elections under the Recovery Act are no affair of the employer, and so-called company unions and their methods of election are not recognized. The purpose of the act is to insure the absolute freedom of the employes in their choice of representatives for collective bargaining and subject to no interference by the employer."

Company Union Ignores Weirton Suit Threat

WEIRTON, W. Va., Dec. 14.—The Weirton Steel Company and its company union today stood firm in their purpose to hold an election of employe representatives tomorrow in defiance of the National Labor Board.

The West Virginia state police department ordered 15 troopers to be here and others were to be stationed at the Clarksburg plant of the company. Troopers were inside the mill gates today.

John Larkin, chairman of the company union rules committee, said there would be no change in the plans for the balloting.

These preparations were being made in the face of assertions by leaders of the recent Weirton mill strike that the members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers are talking strike.

TO PRESERVE ORDER

P. D. Shingleton, superintendent of the state police, said at Charleston the troopers were being sent "to see that order prevails." He said steel company officials had not requested the troopers.

William J. Long, president of the Weirton local of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, said officials of that union had restrained their followers from striking. A telegram was sent to the Labor Board yesterday, he said, urging immediate action and asking that a stop be put to "propaganda, false statements, coercion and intimidation of employes throughout the mills."

Long said officials of the company and foremen in the plants are threatening the men with immediate discharge if they do not vote in the company union election tomorrow.

MEN LAID OFF

Long said he and other employes in hot mills were notified they would be laid off today by closing of five mills because of lack of business. He charged the mills were closed as a gesture of intimidation. They were notified later to return to the mills Sunday night.

It was learned the steel company has ordered $800 worth of tear gas.

Long said 15 company policemen rushed into the mills with riot clubs yesterday when rumors of "strike fever" spread.

The Labor Board has ruled that the company union's plan for the balloting tomorrow is a violation of the agreement whereby the previous strike was settled. It has refused to countenance the vote, but Weir notified Chairman Wagner that the company will ignore the Labor Board rules, holding that those rules violate the regulations of the company union.

The company union proposes to elect employes' representatives in collective bargaining by secret ballot. The Amalgamated Association, backed by the Labor Board, seeks election by petition of the workers.

The company said the Labor Board must deal with the company union and that any court action the board takes must be against that group.

The Amalgamated Association sent a list of its candidates for employe representatives to the Labor Board yesterday. These were nominated by petition of the union's followers.

COMPANY STANDS FIRM

The company's position was reiterated in a statement by George M. Humphrey, director and chairman of the executive committee of the National Steel Company which owns the Weirton Steel Company. An Associated Press dispatch from Cleveland quoted him as saying the agreement with the National Labor Board, signed October 16, in no way delegated to the board any control of the form of the employe organization, nor the right to change the constitution or by-laws of that organization.

The company claims that the company union, as the employes' own organization, had made the arrangements for the secret ballot.

Professional Santas Ask NRA to Halt Chiseling

'Three Little Pigs,' Mickey Mouse Accused

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Santa Claus joined the NRA last night and asked for less snow, more dough and a monopoly of the business.

It seems that Mickey Mouse and the Three Little Pigs have muscled in on Santa's territory and are competing with the old Saint in the toy shops.

So the Santa Claus Association with 100 members who ring bells and listen to the wants and woes of little children drafted its code last night, along with a telegram asking Gen. Hugh S. Johnson to come to the aid of the cause.

WOULD BAR 'BARKERS'

It bars "barkers from the business and asks a 35-hour week, more money and less work in the snow.

Only married men can be Santas the code says, since "single men do not know properly how to handle the job."

Blue Eagle Santa Clauses must be plump, for "too many skinny men are parading around the city as Santa Claus and hurting our professional reputation."

The code complains that unfair competition has sprung up, many stores "using other interests to attract children with the Three Little Pigs and Mickey Mouse being impersonated by humans." Santa said:

"This must stop. It isn't right for humans to compete with pigs and mice."

HEARTACHES MANY

Children, they say, are getting blase about it all, but there are moments in the business when the heart is twisted and a lump grasps the throat and sobs shake the fatigued figures of the make-believers. One Santa said:

"Only yesterday a lad sat on my lap, pulled my ear to his mouth and whispered:

"'Just forget me, but please bring my dad a job.'

"I told him not to pull my whiskers—I hadn't noticed him, you see—and the lad said:

"'I have to pull your whiskers to feel that you are here. I I can't see, you know.'"

U. S. JOB CHIEF HERE FACES OUSTER

had not been "fully satisfied" with the manner in which the Pittsburgh office had been operating, but that there had been no complaints as to the manner in which he was directing the placement of men on CWA projects.

All male employes of Bucher's office also are reported listed for discharge.

VETERANS' CHARGE

Among the charges against Bucher was one by veterans' organizations that he had failed to give them preference under the CWA program. Other complaints cited that with thousands of jobs available only a few thousand had been given out.

Maj. Bucher described as "asinine" accusations that he showed lack of interest in providing work for veterans, declared that he was informed the NRA code didn't apply on state jobs and that the work of his bureau was slowed up by lack of help.

Before assuming the supervision of the Pittsburgh office of the State Bureau of mployment, which later became affiliated with the federal work service, Bucher had been employment manager of the Philadelphia Company, manager of a chain grocery and an executive of a department store.

'UNFORTUNATE BREAK'

Dr. Francis D. Tyson, of the University of Pittsburgh faculty, a member of the advisory committee, characterized the reported intention to discharge Bucher as an "unfortunate break" resulting from efforts to carry out a tremendous undertaking on short notice.

Maj. Bucher explained that he had been compelled to work his office staff overtime the first week or so of the CWA to expedite the taking over of approximately 1,400 men from the city payroll November 20.

He said:

"No special consideration could be given to veterans up to December 1. After that veterans were considered first and then the ratio of distributing jobs was one for those on relief to every one of unemployed not on relief."

10,000 RELIEF CARDS

The first week of CWA, 10,000 relief cards were poured into his office, Maj. Bucher declared. He obtained extra aid by authorization from Harrisburg. He added:

"Within the last few days notifications have been made to the unemployed within 24 hours after requisitions for workers have been received in this office.

Thomas O. Hasley, county highway director, said today that he was satisfied with the CWA employment methods on county jobs. According to Mr. Hasley, requests for men have been promptly met.

SUPPLIES LIMITED

He said:

"There were 189 men in South Park yesterday and 144 in North Park. Since our supplies are limited, that's all we can use. and that's all we can ask for. We've got all the labor we needed so far."

Shortage of equipment, rather than of men, was blamed for the delay by Mr. Hasley. He said that he requested 75 trucks and 12 road-scrapers for the park work but got only eight trucks and two road-scrapers.

Regarding the dismissal of Maj. Bucher, James L. Stuart, county CWA administrator, said:

"I think it's a shame. Mr. Bucher has co-operated 100 per cent with us and has given every minute of his time to helping put men to work. He's been very efficient and sincere.

"In my own CWA office we have been forced to work all night on occasion, because of the emergency and the absolute necessity of completing reports so that jobs would be ready for unemployed men."

PLEA TO RENEW AUTO CODE SEEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The automobile industry is likely to announce soon a request for extension of its code, and the event may precipitate another scrap at the NRA.

The present code expires December 31. It alone of the 150 approved pacts contains the celebrated "merit" clause which brought industries and organized labor into a fight that rocked the NRA.

The clause qualifies Section 7-A of the industrial law. It guarantees that no employer shall interfere wtih his workers in their exercise of the right to unionize. It goes into every code. The law requires it there.

The merit clause says in effect that 7-A shall not be construed as interfering with the right of an employer to hire, promote or fire a man on his individual merit, regardless of whether or not he belongs to a union. It has been banned from all other codes.

NRA's position on the question makes it virtually impossible for the clause to be continued. President Roosevelt as well as Gen. Johnson has said that interpretations, qualifications and modifications of 7-A have no place in codes.

CLEANER PRICE CUTS LIKELY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Cash and carry dry cleaners who protested at NRA hearings for a differential in prices and for representation on the code authority of their trade, may get both, together with a downward revision of price scales in many areas.

This appeared probable after a conference between leaders of all factions of the industry and Hugh S. Johnson, who told them to turn in definite facts on their costs within 48 hours so the decision could be speeded. Though neither Johnson nor any other official was committed to a reduction in the 65 to 95-cent basic prices now in effect for a 30-day trial period, they seemed ready to do so quickly if the figures warranted.

This program did not interfere with the intent to prosecute the 100 violators who refused to charge the present scale, and the list was officially certified for action to the Federal Trade Commission, but as many on it were ready to comply if reductions were ordered prospects were good many would escape punishment.

Liner Just Docked Bares Sea Suicide

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The suicide of Josephine Mraz, of Hungary, who jumped from the rail of the liner Conte Di Savoia Sunday, was disclosed when the liner docked today.

Capt. Antonio Lena said two deck stewards saw the woman climb on a chair, wave farewell and jump.

NRA Aides Attend Steel Code Meeting

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(INS.)—Division Administrator K. M. Simpson and Donald R. Richberg, general counsel for the NRA, were in New York today to attend the meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, the first meeting of the steel code authority since President Roosevelt extended the code at the industry's request.

Grand Army Post Recruits Women

FISHER ACTION UP NEXT WEEK

Action on the resignation of former Gov. John S. Fisher as chairman of the Pittsburgh NRA committee will be taken at a meeting of the committee next week, Frank C. Harper, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and of the committee, said today. Fisher tendered his resignation following sharp words with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator.

A letter in which the former governor criticized the NRA methods to the administrator today had not been answered, it was said. In his resignation Fisher explained he was tendering it to the committee, and not to the General, who had requested it.

In his letter to the administrator, Fisher asked Johnson pointedly whether he expected the Chamber of Commerce, of which Fisher is president, to carry on the NRA's work and bear its expense in the future.

600 Pottery Workers Made Idle by Strike

SEBRING, O., Dec. 14.—Six hundred employes of the Limoges China Company were thrown out of employment today when the plant suspended following a strike of 49 warehousemen. Officials said they had received no acknowledgement of their request plea to Washington for a mediator.

Rapid Increase in Jobs Under CWA Seen Here

Employment charts in the office of C. M. Reppert, city engineer, indicate a rapid rise in CWA jobs between now and December 27. With $200,000 to be received from the state, work will proceed in Pittsburgh with the hiring of 8,000 men and women to add to the present list.

Mr. Reppert said that about 4,000 will be on the payroll next week. Large groups of engineers, clerks, foremen, and laborers will be taken on until the full quota is reached.

Engineering employes will number 229. Mine sealing will require 500. There will be 1,335 workers on water line projects and 500 on parks and playgrounds. For planning records and investigation there will be 771 "white collar men."

The largest single undertaking, city-wide street improvement, will employ 3,000, with an additional 250 on special street projects. Sewage repairs will supply jobs for 1,789.

A councilmanic committee yesterday approved an ordinance which will provide for clerks and stenographers to check on CWA expenditures in the city.

The jobs now approved for Allegheny County by the state administrator number more than 11,000. About 2,000 will be added to the total when projects sanctioned by the local office are returned from Harrisburg.

HOSPITALS ASK STATE AID FOR FREE SERVICE

Recognition of relief work of hospitals by a state appropriation to cover expenses of free hospitalization was urged today by Miss Jessie J. Turnbull, president of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania. The plea follows announcement of inclusion of medical care in the state's unemployment relief program.

Commending decision of the state to pay nominal amounts to members of the medical profession for care of the unemployed, Miss Turnbull said:

"It is a step in the right direction. The next step should be full recognition of the hospitals through appropriation of extra funds to cover free bed days given patients."

The state plan provides for home visits by doctors at $2 and office visits at $1, obstetrical care, acute illness, bedside nursing and emergency dental work, supervised by a medical advisory committee composed of Dr. Harold A. Miller, of Pittsburgh; Dr. George L. Laverty, of Harrisburg; Dr. W. Burrill Odenatt, of Philadelphia; Dr. H. T. Price, of Pittsburgh; Dr. Charles H. Smith, of Uniontown, and Dr. Walter F. Donaldson, of Pittsburgh.

MAYVIEW RADIO PLEA RENEWED

Looks like a gloomy Christmas at Mayview. The Rev. Dr. David Lang, who asked for radios for the institution recently, said today his pleas had gone unanswered. He expressed his disappointment, saying:

"I need only 26, and I'm sure there are that many men and women getting new radios in Pittsburgh who would be glad to donate their old ones to the unfortunates in the City Home and Hospital."

Dr. Lang, pastor of the Shady Avenue Presbyterian Church, has the enthusiastic approval of Dr. James S. Hammers, Mayview director. Dr. Hammers believes radio music would be a helpful factor in the cure of many mental patients.

Those wishing to help Dr. Lang have been asked to call his home or office. He said donated radios will be called for and delivered direct to Mayview.

7 Church Societies Sewing for Needy

The church societies include those of Shadyside Presbyterian, Calvary Episcopal, East Liberty Presbyterian, First Presbyterian, Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Third Presbyterian and West End Presbyterian.

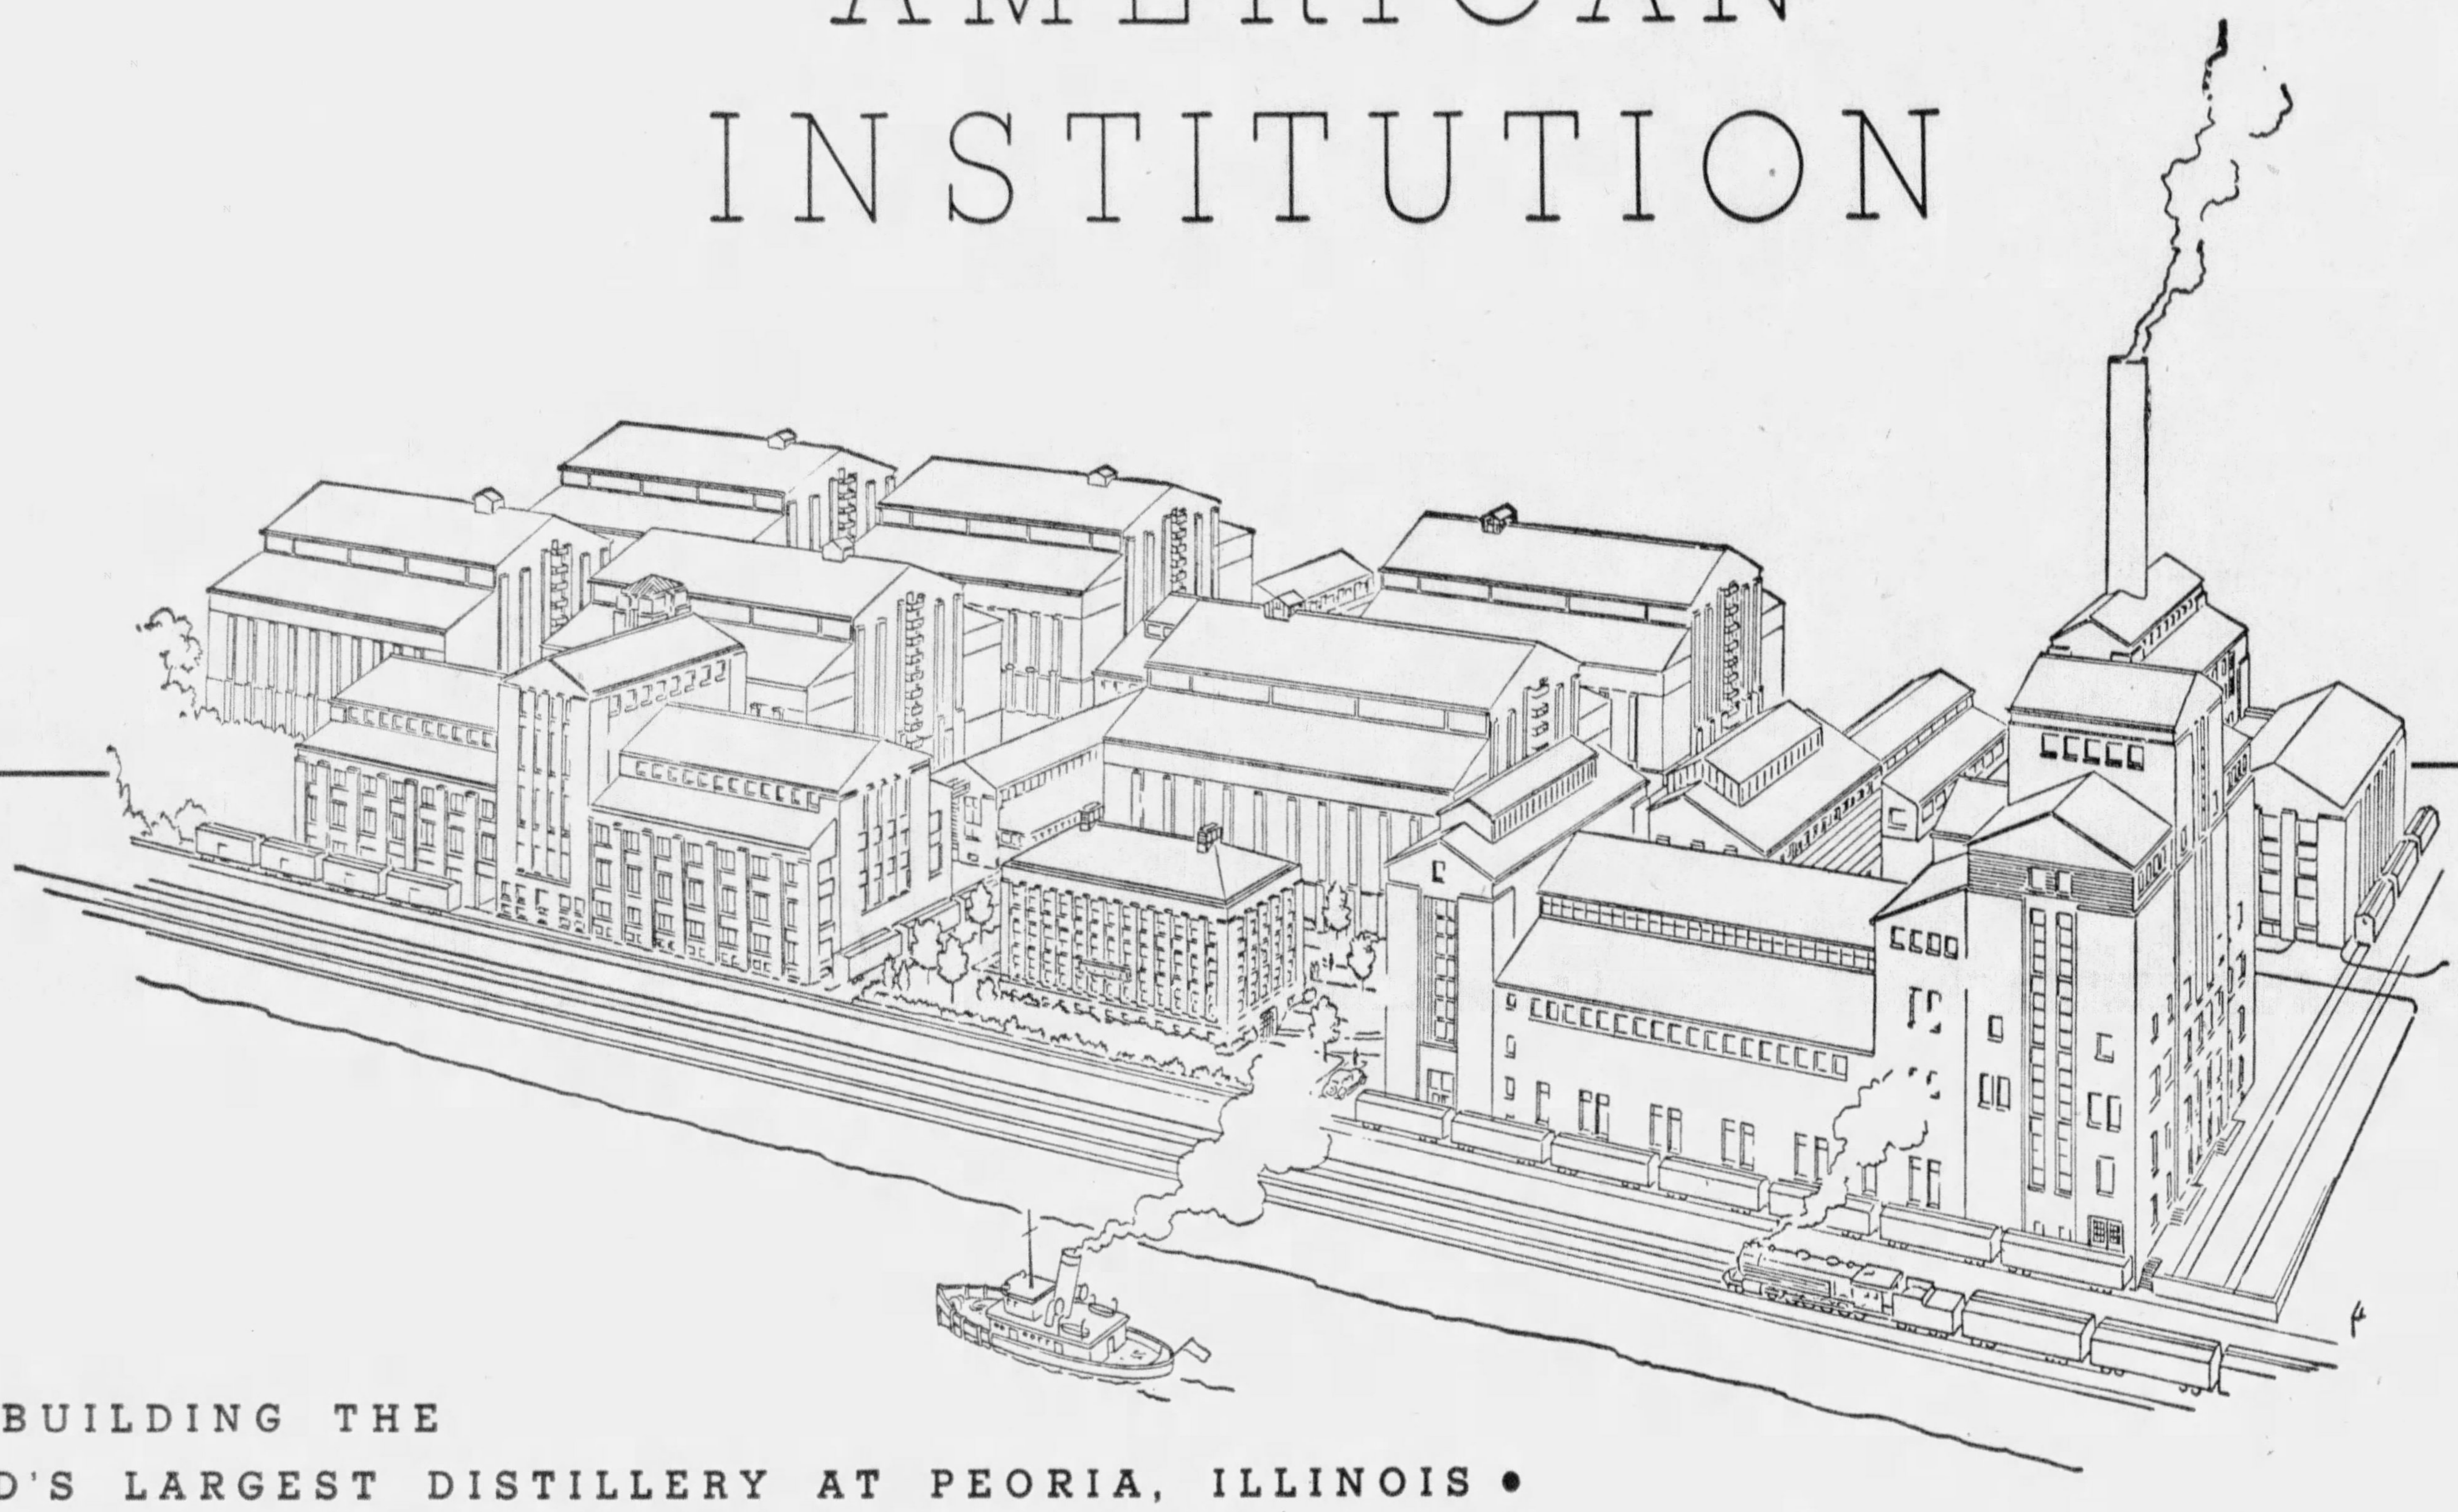
AN AMERICAN INSTITUTION



NOW BUILDING THE WORLD'S LARGEST DISTILLERY AT PEORIA, ILLINOIS •

During the past 75 years, the distilled products of Hiram Walker & Sons have been favored with a wide popularity in the United States. Everywhere, the name of "Canadian Club" whisky is accepted as the symbol of quality in the highest degree.

The accomplishment of Repeal found Hiram Walker & Sons in the process of establishment on American soil as an American institution.

The people of this nation, we believe, crossed off the 18th Amendment because they regard Repeal as one of the great instruments for the return of national prosperity.

As the beginning of Hiram Walker & Sons' support of the effort working toward that objective, we are now erecting at Peoria, Illinois, the largest distillery ever built in the world, at an investment of $4,000,000.

Until this huge project is completed, we have two temporary plants at Peoria, operating with every leisurely process which contributes to the traditional goodness of Hiram Walker products.

Every year the Hiram Walker plant at Peoria will require millions of dollars' worth of American products. Farmers will find an annual outlet for some 6,000,000 bushels of their grain. Mines will ship us 350 tons of coal per day. Bottles, boxes, labels, and so on, will be required each year by the millions.

When Hiram Walker & Sons' distillery, the largest one in the world, is completed, it will employ 1,000 workers at Peoria, Illinois, and many others in large wholesale branches throughout the country. Hiram Walker & Sons will pay into the Treasury of the United States, through collection of taxes, more than $30,000,000 per year.

Quality is the basis on which the Hiram Walker business was founded in 1858. For 75 years it has been made the inflexible rule in every Hiram Walker process. It is the all-pervading principle of the new American business now in its beginnings. Your guarantee of quality and purity which you can trust is the Hiram Walker name, favorably known the world around.

Today, "Canadian Club" whisky—each bottle bearing a government stamp to indicate its age and purity—and all other Hiram Walker products can be purchased wherever the law permits liquor to be offered for sale—but not elsewhere with our knowledge or consent. Thus we pledge ourselves to sincere co-operation in the strict observance of the spirit as well as the letter of the law, and the temperate use of our products.

DISTRIBUTORS OF THE WORLD-FAMOUS "CANADIAN CLUB"

MALONE, JONES SLATED FOR CABINET

Two more of Mayor-elect William N. McNair's cabinet jobs were apparently out of play today, as it was learned that the appointment of Edward N. Jones as works director and of James F. Malone as supplies director was considered a foregone conclusion by Democrats.

Malone, former president of Council, and former Secretary of Property and Supplies under Gov Pinchot, was expected to receive his appointment as a reward for supporting McNair for Mayor after his own defeat as a candidate for nomination to City Council on the Republican ticket in September.

MALONE'S AIMS

Malone, who is associated with an insurance company, is understood to have had his eye on two other jobs—that of Director of Public Works and that of Director of Public Safety.

But either of these jobs would have enabled him to build for himself a strong personal following—and since he is not a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat that organization might be held in suspicion by the Democratic organization that's dealing out the patronage.

The supplies job was agreed upon, it is understood, at a meeting between Malone and Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic leader, this week.

As for Jones—he is a recent convert to Democratic ranks, to say nothing of his having been a Republican superintendent of police under Mayor William A. Magee.

But Jones, publisher of a construction trade paper here, managed McNair's campaign and it is known that the Democrats look to him as something of a leader who has a lot of thanks coming to him.

ENORMOUS PATRONAGE

His job as Director of Works, while it would preclude his paper from receiving city advertising, would place him in advantageous touch with the construction business and would give the Democrats a trusted man to deal out the enormous patronage connected with that department.

Naming of both was considered a foregone conclusion in reliable quarters, with George E. Evans considered definitely out of the picture. Evans is the man who, having been nominated for Council in the Democratic primary, withdrew in favor of Magee, thus incurring the wrath of McNair.

McNair says he is unwilling to give Evans the job lest the public think there was a deal to persuade Evans to withdraw. Evans is a prominent contractor, a single-taxer and an old Democrat.

The slating of Jones and Malone—as predicted in the Sun-Telegraph four weeks ago—seems to have filled four McNair cabinet jobs. The other two, solicitor and director of health, will probably go to Attorney Cornelius D. Scully and Dr. Irvin D. Metzger.

TIP TO JOB-SEEKERS

The best indication of their probable appointments is that McNair refers all candidates for jobs in their departments and all persons with suggestions for efficiency in their departments to them.

Meanwhile, County Chairman David L. Lawrence's nominee for City Treasurer, James P. Kirk, secretary of the Harris-Lawrence Insurance Company and treasurer of the Democratic County Committee, seems a probable choice for that job.

But McNair won't say yes and he won't say no and he's holding his peace for a few days until what he can do and what he can't do, to say nothing of what he wants and doesn't want, become apparent.

Nominations for cabinet jobs are all being submitted to the four Democratic councilmen-elect, McNair admits, and the councilmen-elect are themselves considering nominations. From the whole will come the cabinet that will usher in a Democratic administration.

But the job that is most important of all is causing the most concern—that of director of public safety. The most likely name suggested for that post so far is that of John D. Pennington, former prohibition administrator in this district. That was suggested by ministers and isn't too likely to receive the whole-hearted support of Democrats.

But there isn't, as yet, a name to substitute for his.

House Asks Report On State Finances

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—A decision to put the spotlight on commonwealth finances was made by the House today.

Representative Denning, Philadelphia, introduced a resolution calling upon the Auditor General and the State Treasurer to give the Legislature a statement of the balances in the various state funds and estimates of revenue from liquor sales.

Pinchot Aides Silent on Davis Trial Balloon

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The capital is watching for reaction to the announcement in Washington that United States Senator James J. Davis may be a candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania.

Elsewhere the news was greeted with silence.

In the absence of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, leader of Pennsylvania's independent Republicans, his lieutenants were reticent in discussing the possibility of Davis' candidacy. Judge John S. Fine, Pinchot leader in the anthracite regions, exclaimed:

"It's preposterous."

Senator Frank J. Harris, an administration leader, who also is named as a possible candidate, had nothing to say, and William A. Schnader, Pinchot's attorney general, said the news was "interesting." Schnader also is mentioned as a gubernatorial possibility.

Organization leaders in the Legislature, engaged in a battle with the administration and Democrats over social legislation, took the news with a mere elevation of eyebrows.

With the special session of the Legislature drawing to a close and the organization far from accord on any one of the dozen or more prospective gubernatorial candidates, news that Davis probably will get into the race complicated the situation.

Capitol veterans stressed the fact that the former puddler will have little to lose if he decides to run. He would retain his seat in the United States Senate if defeated, and in the event of his election, would name his successor.

This, they pointed out, would leave the way open for dickering if Davis finally decides to run.

Davis was elected to the United States Senate seat denied William S. Vare, Philadelphia veteran. Joseph R. Grundy, head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, was named to fill the vancancy until the next election, but he lost to Davis in the primary and Davis won the general election.

Last year he was re-elected to the full six-year term.

M'NAIR HINTS 'SHAKE-UP'

Drastic changes in city administration will be enacted if Council throws the 1934 budget in Mayor-elect William N. McNair's lap, confining itself to an emergency January appropriation, McNair said today.

Indicating that the principal economies and changes would be in payrolls, McNair hinted that delay in setting up the budget would be welcome to him, giving him lee-way in charting out his first year's administration. He commented:

"There'd certainly be some shake-up over there, I can tell you that."

Deferring the budget until the Democrats are inaugurated was suggested by P. C. Hodill, of the Building Owners' and Managers' Association.

McNair, who spent last night at home pouring over budget figures and reports submitted by Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, of the League of Women Voters, admitted Democratic reorganization of the city to meet estimated income would probably surpass anything introduced by Council so far.

He expressed disappointment today at Council's rejection of Councilman-elect William A. Magee's suggested three-mill tax increase.

Death for 2 Asked In Reich Fire Trial

LEIPZIG, Germany, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Germany today demanded death for Ernst Torgler, former Communist leader in the Reichstag, and Marinus Van Der Lubbe, young Dutch brick mason, for treason as the prosecution completed its case in the trial of five men accused of burning the Reichstag Building last February.

Piano and Radio Silenced, Wife Asks Divorce

Mrs. Jane P. Nulton, of Sheffield street, seeking a divorce from Fred L. Nulton, told Judge Ralph H. Smith in Common Pleas Court today that her husband beat her on numerous occasions and that she had left him six times. She testified:

"Once when I objected because he came home drunk and removed the hammers from the piano and the tubes from the radio, he hit me on the nose. I was in the hospital for two days. He blackened my eyes on three other different occasions."

McNair and LaGuardia To Be Feted in N. Y.

Mayor-elect William N. McNair, Democrat, will go to New York next Thursday to mount the rostrum with that city's Mayor-elect, Fiorella LaGuardia, Republican, at a dinner to be given in their honor by the American Association for Scientific Taxation at the Town Hall Club.

Both LaGuardia and McNair are single-taxers and it is their theories of taxation that will focus particular interest on the dinner.

While he is in New York, McNair expects to address the class of John Dewey, foremost American philosopher, at Columbia University.

McNair is also booked for a sermon at Calvary Episcopal Church, January 7, he announced yesterday, where he will be the first layman to occupy that pulpit in the history of the church. He is a member of the Calvary congregation.

LIQUOR BILLS SNARL PLANS TO ADJOURN

in the courts and tie up the expectant revenue for months. Should they ultimately win on their declaration that the original bills were unconstitutional there would never be any revenue from this source.

Schnader today conferred with leaders of the House. They were angry at the Senate for delaying adjournment, but private expressions were that there was no other way out of the financial impasse created by the parliamentary situation.

The only way in which a Friday session next week can be avoided is to secure unanimous consent for the introduction of the bills today. Under a House rule the time for introducing bills in the lower branch expired two weeks ago.

Legislative leaders are conferring on the subject in an effort to clear the path.

The impasse on the liquor legislation developed after the House, by overwhelming vote, had rescinded its vote to remain in session tomorrow to push through the social bills. This reversed the action of yesterday.

FIGHT IN PROSPECT

Democrats and Independent Republicans who prevailed on yesterdays' motion, offered no opposition, but later in the day may fight a motion to adjourn.

It will be contended that the entire program of social legislation will be made in a parliamentary stage where it can be acted on finally by the House Monday night. That would permit time for the Senate to consider the measures next week.

Today's session placed the bills abolishing the coal and iron police and privately paid deputy sheriffs in position for third reading whenever the next session is held, tomorrow or next Monday.

It is assumed that when the House finally votes on the remaining social legislation bills on the calendar, they will be approved. In the Senate, however, they are expected to be pickled in committee, which means a repetition of the old age pension fight of last winter, an effort to force the bills on the floor by a majority vote of the upper body.

The Senate already has one tough nut to crack in the Fitzgerald minimum wage bill. The Judiciary General Committee Tuesday buried this bill despite the effort of Senators Morris Einstein, William D. Mansfield and eight colleagues to bring it to the floor. For a time yesterday it was believed the committee would reconsider its action before adjourning for the week, but nothing developed except a lot of abortive conferences.

RAUSHENBUSH TARGET

Next Monday, however, the committee may accept amendments to the bill which would eliminate Stephen Raushenbush as a possible administrator of its provisions. Raushenbush, an employe of the Department of Labor and Industry, and "advance man" for the legislative sweatshop committee in its investigations last summer, is an anathema to the regular Republicans and industrial interests.

An amendment already prepared, and acceptable to the labor group, would create a board consisting of three representatives of industry, three of labor and the Lieutenant Governor, who would be the Commonwealth's representative. Republican State Chairman Edward Martin discussed this amendment with backers of the bill yesterday and today, but final decision was left in doubt.

Old age assistance is in the clear, and appears to have a safe passage ahead as now amended. An assistance fund of $6,000,000 is created, to be provided by liquor revenue. The bill will not become effecive until December 1, 1934, and counties will pay the cost of administration to eligible aged within their borders.

Court Directs Deposit Return In Vote Cases

Judges Ambrose B. Reid and W. Heber Dithrich have handed down orders directing that the $50 deposit made in numerous cases, as required by law when a recount of election returns is demanded, be returned to the petitioners, substantial error having been found. When no error is found the money is forfeited by the county.

Judges Reid and Dithrich, who sat as the returning board, directed the return of the $50 in the case of the following districts in Pittsburgh: First District, First Ward; Second District, Third Ward; Fourth District, Seventh Ward; Seventeenth District, Eleventh Ward; Fourteenth District, Twelfth Ward; Twenty-fifth District, Fourteenth Ward, and First District, Twenty-second Ward.

The $50 deposit also was ordered returned in the following out-of-town districts:

Second District, Bridgeville; First District, Second Ward, Homestead; Second District, Third Ward, Glassport; Second District, East Deer Township; Braddock Township; Seventh Ward, North Versailles Township; Second District, North Fayette Township; First and Fifth districts, Second Ward, Clairton; Tenth District, Seventh Ward, McKeesport; First and Second districts, Second Ward, and Second District, Fourth Ward, all of Braddock, and First District, Blawknox.

In the following places no substantial error was found and the money was forfeited: Third District, First Ward, Clairton, and Second District of North Fayette Township.

MORE MACHINES NEEDLESS

Allegheny County has enough voting machines for the next election and they probably can be made to work, according to Commissioner C. C. McGovern.

The county will have two of the improved machines ready for inspection by Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish after January 1, McGovern also stated.

His remarks followed Beamish's warning yesterday that if machines were not provided for every district in the county, he would award contracts for the necessary machines and make the Commissioners foot the bill. He threatened to junk all if they are not improved.

McGovern said:

"It seems to me such action on Beamish's part would be a great imposition on the people of the county. I don't believe he would do it."

The county has 1,100 machines as against 942 districts in the county, McGovern pointed out.

The machines, original price of which was $1,120,900, and whose servicing charges amount to $170,850, were used in the past primary election only in Pittsburgh and the three third-class cities.

House Balks Move To Oust Its Clerk

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—The House today buried a resolution by Representative James L. Quinn, Braddock, demanding that Eugene F. White, chief clerk of the House, be removed.

Minnesotans Hear Wife of Pinchot

SIXTH BALLOT FRAUD CASE NEARS JURY

Two women were among the four defendants in the government's sixth vote fraud trial which was ready to be given to the jury in Federal Court late today.

They are Mrs. Alice Daschbach, wife of a city detective, and Ruth F. McCarthy, who, with Thomas Dolan and William Connolly, also defendants, were members of the election board of the Eighth District, Fourth Ward.

Closing addresses were made by Attorney E. G. Coll for the defense and Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed for the government.

Dolan explained the mysterious "John Doe," indicted but never apprehended, by saying a man who gave his name as "M. M. Spandau" asked for a job on the board at last year's general election and was assigned as a clerk to Mrs. Daschbach. Yesterday M. M. Spandau, of 4600 Bayard street, the same address as Dolan, said he was not the man who had served as clerk.

After the ballots had been counted the box was taken by Dolan and Connolly to a nearby engine house, Mrs. Daschbach testified.

Yesterday's conviction of four defendants in the fifth fraud trial ran the total of those found guilty to 11. Two were acquitted in the verdict. Those convicted were Anthony Sibilia, Jack Frankel and Henry Silverstein, of the election board of the Sixth District, Third Ward, and Constable Harry Kart. Davey Slutzky and Harry Kalson, clerks of the board, were acquitted.

AUTHORITY BILL TO BE AMENDED

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—The House recommitted the Allegheny County "authority" bill today for amendments, which will be inserted in time for final passage Monday night.

At the same time it killed the Kane bill to empower the County Commissioners to sell "revenue bonds," by sending it back to committee when it came up for second reading.

Amendments to the McClure authority bill, agreed upon today, do not meet the objection of Senator James J. Coyne that only new projects shall be embraced in the scope of the "authority's" operation. Coyne is expected to insist upon an amendment of this nature before there is final action on the measure.

Today's amendments provide Public Service Commission approval for projects involving the use of bridges by utilities, prevent the County Commissioners going into the utility business, prevent condemnation of utility property except as now provided by law, and set forth that the Court of Quarter Sessions shall approve any project. Tolls to be fixed for tunnels or bridges must be approved by the Public Service Commission.

Pinchot 'Shingles' Attack on Wane

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot, who is in a New York hospital for treatment of "shingles," a nerve disorder, was reported by his office today to be improved.

Constitutional Reform Held Need by Schnader

Economy Impossible Under Present Law, He Asserts

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Attorney General William A. Schnader says real economies in the cost of government in Pennsylvania are impossible "until our constitution is revised."

Addressing the Law Academy of Philadelphia last night he urged removal of "obsolete features" from the State Constitution to make it "conform to modern thought and conditions."

Specifically, he recommended changes to permit enactment of legislation in one day, consolidation of county governments where the population is small and removal of the burden of taxation from real estate.

Striking at the legislative procedure which prevents passage of a law in one day, Schnader pointed to the removal of millions of gallons of whisky from the state while the Legislature was struggling to enact the $2 a gallon floor tax on liquor. He said:

"Without discussing the propriety of the tax, it is an absurdity that the legislative power is so crippled that it cannot impose a tax on property except after such delay as to render it impossible for a large percentage of the property to be removed for the express purpose of escaping tax.

"If local government is to be placed upon a tax saving rather than a money wasting basis, the Legislature must have a free hand to deal with specific situations. It must not be confined to generalities."

House Approves Child Labor Ban

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—A joint resolution approving the child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution was passed finally by the House yesterday, 174 to 6.

CRIPPLE HELD IN SLAYING

Theodore Kisiel, 20, crippled youth, who shot and killed his father, Stanley, 44, with a "mail order" revolver on December 4, was held for the grand jury on a charge of murder today by Coroner W. J. McGregor.

At the inquest Stanley Kisiel, Jr., 14, told how his father had abused his brother and himself at the family home, 417 Beech avenue, Duquesne, and how his brother had taken the revolver from its cellar hiding place and shot him.

County Detective Michael McDermott, Mrs. Kisiel, the widow, and a daughter, Frances, also testified.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

NoCooking! NoWork! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs.

OLDFIELD URGES END OF RACING CARNAGE

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—"Automobile racing has outlived its usefulness. It has ceased to be racing and has become merely a morbid and brutal spectacle. Its carnage should end."

From the most famous of all racing drivers, Barney Oldfield, veteran speed king, today came this approval of the movement against what has been termed "unlicensed murder and suicide," on automobile racing tracks.

In addition to his long experience, valued alike by motor car manufacturers and race drivers themselves, Oldfield is a member of the contest board of the A. A. A., which governs racing throughout the nation. He said:

"The science of speed has reached a point where any manufacturer can produce a car which will satisfy any sane buyer. There is little need for further development along speed lines. Our cars are faster than our roads now.

"Few of your average automobile race fans know or care anything about the finer points of the cars or the race. They watch without interest the most skillful and delicate driving, but let a tire burst, a wheel skid, a car break for the fence and they are out of their seats in a flash.

"Racing now is no more a sport than hanging is a sport. A soft spot in the track, a piece of broken metal, a speck of dirt in an oil feed—these things and not engines, experience or skill are the things which win automobile races now.

"A true sportsman watches racing for its competition. You don't go to a horse race to see people killed and every horse race doesn't have to be between Gallant Sir and Man o' War.

"How often have there been horse races that brought a roaring crowd to its feet and after the finish the time was announced as far slower than the track record. That's the spirit of competition."

Demand for Race Curb Grows in Church and Home

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14.—(Universal)—From lawyers and lawmakers, from church and home today rose further protest against the present system of automobile speedway racing in which adventurous men are maimed or put to death regularly to satisfy lust for excitement and fill the purses of those engaged in risking other men's lives.

With the death rate on California speedways reaching more and more appalling totals and the list of those injured swelling to almost unbelievable proportions, demands were being made by leaders throughout the state that automobile racing be made safer or be eliminated, that those who hazard their lives in the piloting of potential engines of death be given legal assurance that the promoters will take care of them and their dependents in event of disaster.

Some suggested legislation calling for the posting of a $100,000 bond by promoters to be paid to racers permanently injured, or to their beneficiaries if killed. Others believed tracks and racing conditions should be so legally regulated as to reduce to a minimum all hazards.

WIFE ENDS LIFE, KILLS BABIES

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Ralph Campbell returned to his Brooklyn home early today and smelled gas.

He traced it to the kitchen. There, her two small daughters clasped to her breast, his wife, Irene, 31, lay dead. Mrs. Campbell had turned on all the burners of a gas range, extinguished the lights in the house and hugged the children to her while the three succumbed to the gas fumes.

JUNIOR PATROL

You'll like the letters today, fellows!

Many of them are full of news.

For instance, here is the first one today from Dominick Carinci, of 41½ Boundary street, Pittsburgh. He says:

"I am sorry that Butch's house burned down. Butch's dog is pretty, Junior. I lost my pledge. I want one more pledge. One man came and asked me what club I belonged to and I said the Junior Patrol. Did you have a Happy Thanksgiving day? Butch is very strong to fight and he is very brave.

"I am in the fourth grade in St. Paul school and I want to be on your football team. Spike is very good to all the children. Spike is sure hungry. I want to get a boy to join the Junior Patrol. His name is Dominick Scuilli. I wish you all a merry Christmas and a happy New Year."

And to show more Christmas spirit, his letter is beautifully decorated with Christmas seals—the kind that we all buy to help fight tuberculosis, that dread disease.

We hope all Junior Patrol members can buy Christmas seals to decorate their letters.

Today, also we received 15 pledges from J. W. Walls, of Republic, Pa. We hope that some member among them is going to start a Junior Patrol. Let us hear from you again just as soon as you have elected a captain. We would like to send him an armband.

And here, too, is a letter from George Hertz, of Box 20, Indianola, Pa. He sends a list of 12 members for his patrol, but no pledges. Please send pledges right away, George, so that we can send your badges. Or, if any of your members are already members of the Junior Patrol, send a list of their badge numbers.

William McCue, of 449 Carnegie drive, Pittsburgh, writes that he can get us six Junior Patrol members right around his home. Can't you make it nine, Bill, and have a regular Junior Patrol?

Dorothy Reston, of R. F. D. 8, Mahoningtown, Pa., writes:

"Please send us an armband for the captain of our newly organized Junior Patrol Club."

Please don't forget, Dorothy, that the captain must be elected by 10 enrolled members of the Junior Patrol. Send in 10 pledges for your members, and let us know who has been elected captain and we will send him or her an armband. Or copies of the pledge are all right, too.

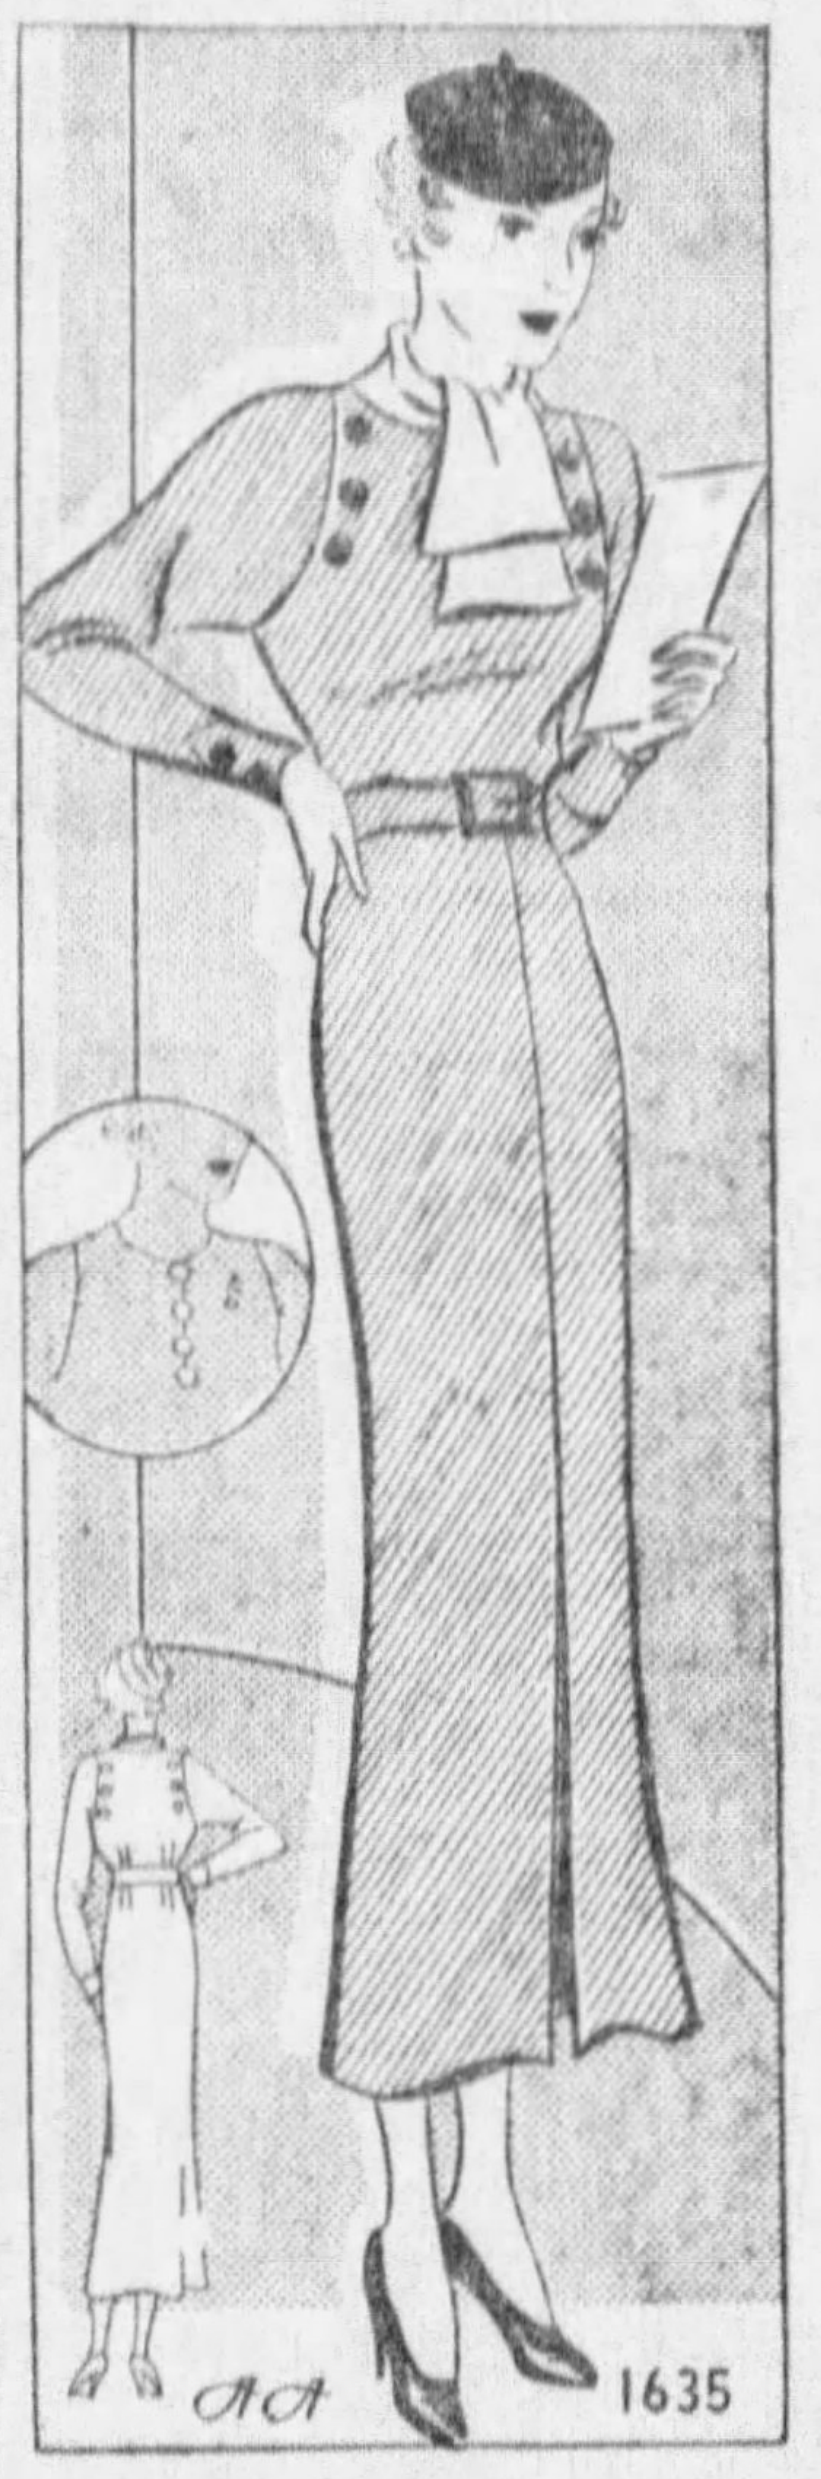
Tailored Simplicity Creates Chic

Pattern 1635

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern



The new tailored mode adopts simplicity in a delightful way. That's why this frock is such an overwhelming success! Nothing could be more youthful nor more effective than the close-to-the-throat collar, the interesting sleeve line with fullness achieved through a slightly lower armhole, and the center seam with snappy pleat to animate the skirt. The small sketch shows the collar omitted. We'd recommend a sheer wool, mossy crepe, faille or bengaline—and the frock would be smartly correct for all occasions.

Pattern 1635 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 takes 2½ yards 54-inch fabric and ⅞ yard 39-inch contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

CAT RETURNS TO FLOWERS

"Tommy," the flower-loving cat at the Schenley Park conservatory, is back at his old stand, after being absent for a while as guest of Mrs. Pauline Taylor, for 21 years matron of the conservatory.

When Mrs. Taylor retired, Supt. of Parks James Moore presented "Tommy" to her as a token of his esteem, and things at the Taylor home at 5628 Mignonette street, were arranged for his special comfort.

But "Tommy" missed the flowers which had come to be things of importance in his life, so he took "French leave" and started back to the conservatory.

He arrived in due time, but with a badly battered tail, which indicated either a fight or an accident.

GIRL ACCUSED IN PURSE THEFT

Mary Loseck, 18, of 1135 Elopia street, was held for investigation today by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court. Two women claimed purses, which police said were found in her possession.

Mrs. Madge Kelly of 5503 McCandless avenue, identified one, stolen, she testified, in a downtown store's fur department. The $123 it contained, she said, was gone.

Miss Hazel Noel, 1217 Earlham street, also identified a purse she said had been stolen from her as she sat in the art department of another store copying a painting. The Loseck girl, she said, sat near her half an hour, admiring her work. Other alleged victims are to face her tomorrow.

DOOMED KILLER SHUNS KNIFE

International News Service.

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 14.—Still firm in his refusal to permit Sing Sing Prison surgeons to operate for appendicitis and perhaps save his life so the state may claim it later in the electric chair, Ross Caccamise, 24, of Rochester, today was reported "resting comfortably" in his death row cell.

The youthful slayer made no objection to the operation until he reached the operating table. There, as an ether cone was being placed over his face, he sat up, declaring:

"I won't go through with it."

Prison officials returned him to his cell where ice packs were applied to relieve pain.

Prison officials said Caccamise wished to see relatives before going under a knife. His family was notified.

$50,000 PEARLS FOUND IN PARK

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The $50,000 pearl necklace lost by Mrs. Alfred Ettlinger, of Cary, Ill., while she was strolling through Central Park last Sunday has been found and returned to her.

At the home of Mrs. Ettlinger's father, John Hertz, large-scale taxicab operator, it was said last night that the necklace was found by the wife of a waiter and that he returned it through an insurance firm.

Ettlinger said the waiter's wife, whose name he did not know, found the pearls in the park and picked them up without realizing their value. Later her husband learned of their worth through a newspaper advertisement.

The insurance company, he said, paid a $5,000 reward for their return.

RELIEF BOARD HEAD HAILS PROBE

George P. Mills, director of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board, today said he would welcome investigation of his books by the State Emergency Relief Board if it would bring out constructive suggestions for the elimination of waste.

That investigation was proposed yesterday in a resolution offered in the House at Harrisburg by Representative Joseph R. Lynch, of Pittsburgh, which was passed by the House and is now before the Senate Appropriations Committee for action. Lynch alleged gross waste.

Stating that he is confident the board here is free from waste so far as it can be with a limited investigating staff, Mills said:

"I'd be glad to have them show me where I could save.

"We've kept this thing free of waste to the best of our ability and we are sure an investigation would show just that.

"Of course, with more investigators we might check that extremely small percentage of ineligibles receiving relief today—but until we get them I'm sure I don't know where we could initiate more savings."

Mills denied the charge of Lynch that the Allegheny County Relief Board is paying $1.35 a ton for coal, and that it ignored a low bid of 60 cents. The fuel, he said, is obtained at $1.25 a ton, the price having been reached by the local code authorities and a representative of the Federal Relief Administration.

KILLED IN FIRE ON WEDDING DAY

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The burned body of Miss Mary Burns, 20-year-old Troy, N. Y., girl, was found today in the ruins of the fire-swept Star Realty Company block.

Miss Burns, who was to have been married today at Stephentown, N. Y., had been visiting the parents of her fiance, Nelson La Fountaine, who was taken from the building by firemen in an unconscious condition.

Seven persons, occupants of top-floor apartments, were carried to safety down ladders. Four of them, including La Fountaine, were taken to a hospital, suffering from smoke inhalation.

Firemen searched the ruins several hours before finding Miss Burns' body. She had been seen last stepping away from a window on the fourth floor. The roof of the structure fell in shortly after and it was some time before firemen could make their way into the destroyed building.

Property loss was estimated at $300,000.

BETTY COMPSON ON HONEYMOON

International News Service.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 14.—Betty Compson, screen actress, and her husband, Irving Weinberg, sped westward today on a honeymoon trip that will take them to Agua Caliente and possibly to Shanghai.

The two were married on the observation platform of a westbound passenger train as it passed through Albuquerque last night. Justice of the Peace J. L. Gober performed the ceremony before a crowd of 3,000 people gathered at the station. Bands played and dazzling spot lights beat down upon the bride and groom.

Weinberg has been Miss Compson's manager for the last four years. The couple will make their home in Hollywood following the honeymoon.

Others were: Title Trust and Guarantee Company, Johnstown, $58,247.27; Colonial Trust Company, Farrell, $60,283.62, and the Citizens State Bank, Salisbury, $8,025.66.

The payments made represented deposits made in the banks after the bank holiday last March. The deposits were made with the understanding that they were to be segregated.

HOME LOAN AID SUPPORT URGED

Congressman Henry Ellenbogen today appealed to Pennsylvanians to urge a favorable report by the Committee on Building and Loan Associations of the House of Representatives on legislation introduced by Representative Thomas J. Gallagher providing that bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation shall be legal investments for building and loan associations.

The enactment of such legislation would make bonds of the corporation more desirable investments, the Congressman said, adding:

"Pennsylvania today has about 400,000 home owners whose mortgages are in default and may be foreclosed. Relief for home owners is a pressing and vital need. The passage of the bill to make the bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation legal investments for building and loan associations is absolutely necessary for the purpose of co-operating with the federal government in relieving distressed home owners."

NEIGHBORS GET BANDIT PAROLE

A plea by Brookline residents resulted in a parole today for John Stewart, 20, of Wareman avenue, who pleaded guilty to the attempted holdup of a city detective.

Judge Sylvester Snee, in granting Stewart a two-and-one-half-year parole with an alternative sentence of one to five years in the Workhouse, said that residents had testified Stewart had been an exemplary young man and the sole support of his family.

Lawrence Rosenblatt, 21, of 3054 Texas avenue, Dormont, who pleaded guilty to the same charge, was sentenced to one to five years in the Workhouse.

The pair pleaded guilty to the attempted holdup of City Detective Edward McEntee at a barbecue near Millvale last November. Both Stewart and Rosenblatt were shot by McEntee during the holdup attempt.

Older People Set Examples For Reckless Youngsters

Are 1933 young people regular?

Or are they just a bunch of rattle-brained moochers?

Dad Rogers was sold on the Moocher idea. He had reason to be. His own youngsters expected the world to be handed to them on a silver platter—and howled to heaven when it wasn't. So did the "young hopefuls" down the street.

So he wrote this department a letter bawling out the whole Modern Generation. Did he have the right dope?

Listen!

Dear Miss Robinson:

This is for Mr. Rogers—and a lot of other people. He said that all modern youngsters were no good. I know them, and I know that isn't true.

A new magazine appeared on the newsstands of this city a short time ago. It isn't an ordinary magazine, either, but is distinctly on the order of the better publications. Prepare yourelf for a shock, Mr. Rogers—for this magazine was conceived in the mind of an unemployed university boy. It was a pretty big dream he had, but he intended that it should be realized.

He was foolish, people said. Young folks didn't have what it takes to put over such a big thing. But he wasn't daunted. He talked it over with a group of his fellow university men. He fired them with his dream, his sincerity. And in spite of the fact that the depression was getting worse, and many had lost their positions, he decided he would start his dream on the road to reality.

He gathered these other young people around him, and told them what they must do. They went to work—and how! Money—that was the first obstacle to be surmounted. And you must admit that in these hard times it was a formidable one.

WERE COURAGEOUS

Have the youngsters backbone, you ask. They have! They faced enough heartbreaking discouragement during these months to make the average seasoned businessman give up and call quits.

But they proved they could take it. They rented a loft, installed a business office and editorial rooms. Then they went out after advertising. And you can't imagine how tough that was — inducing hard-pressed businessmen to place advertising in a magazine that as yet did not exist. But they did it.

Youth soft? No. These young people wanted to make something of themselves, and nobody handed them any breaks. But they didn't howl to Heaven. They went out and made the breaks—worked for them.

Youth at the helm! Youth doing things! Making a place in the world, for the future! Maybe you do know some softies, but if you do I'll gamble it isn't their fault they're that way. It's the fault of a few oldsters who made it too soft for them when they were growing up, who ruined their sense of values and taught them to expect easy pickings.

FAULTY TRAINING

You parents who did that have no right to kick if the results are what might have been expected from such foolish and destructive training.

There are plenty of emptyheads and chiselers, to be sure, but they're not all youngsters by any means. And I feel that when young folks do something fine, people should hear about it, after hearing so many knocks against them. E. K.

So do I, E. K.

There are plenty of spunky, brainy youngsters. They are busy building up their own lives, and building a newer, better world.

And as for Flaming Youth—ruthless, reckless, idle, drunken boys and girls—yes, they exist. But who taught them to be that way? Who set the examples? Who left them to shift for themselves?

Older people!

You doubt it? All right—send in your say. But don't expect me to agree with you. I'm for the kids!

Madge Starts Preparations for Wedding Rehearsal

If any of the group outside the door of Katherine's sitting room shared my apprehensions for my baby daughter, they showed no sign of their tremors. But then, I flattered myself, no one could possibly guess from my own placid demeanor that I was at all disturbed over her.

With that consciousness gripping me, I furtively watched my big brother-in-law. As to the others gathered there—Dicky, my mother-in-law, my father, Dicky's sister, Harriet — their conjectures had no authority behind them, although I qualified that hypothesis with the remembrance of the signal which I imagined had passed between Harriet and her husband.

But Harriet's husband, Dr. Edwin Braithwaite, high in the roster of surgery and medicine—he knew whether or not his assurance that Faith had suffered no injury, was "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth," and I feverishly searched his face, as if I could compel frankness from him.

It took me but a second, however, to realize that, even if my imagination were not playing me false, I could determine nothing from the perfect professional poise of my brother-in-law. He was telling my mother-in-law again what a perfect child our baby daughter was, and she was beaming with gratified pride.

BOYS REPENTANT

I tried to summon my common sense, which told me that my fears were absurd, but succeeded only in chasing the tremors temporarily into a remote compartment of my consciousness and turning the key on them. But I knew that later they would escape and have their way with me.

However, there was nothing to be done except to make a determined attempt at naturalness. So it was that I was able to reply with quiet casualness to Dicky's query: "What word from the dungeon cell?"

"They are both repentant and subdued, and emphasize that they do not care how long they have to stay shut up in your room, so long as Faith is all right."

"Their minds are at rest upon that score, aren't they?" Dr. Braithwaite asked quickly. "Because, if they are are not, I can go over at once, with your permission, and assure them that she hasn't been harmed in the least. I wouldn't want them to suffer any longer the agonies of mind they endured for a few minutes here."

"I'm sure they are resting upon the assurance you already have given them," I told them. "And now, we all must get ready for dinner. We are having it early tonight, so we may have a rehearsal of the wedding procession down the stairs to the altar. It will be a small procession, but a beautiful one."

HAS DRAWBACKS

"You're an optimist," Dicky said, and I sent him a frantic signal for silence. I knew that he was visualizing Avis Arlen's part in the wedding procession, but I also knew that his mother did not yet know that the girl, whom she heartily detested, was to be an attendant of her idolized granddaughter upon her wedding day.

Dicky caught my cue, but instead of silence, wisely made a laughing, and plausible explanation of his comment.

"Indeed, you're more than an optimist," he said. "You're a model if you have faith that I will get down those stairs without treading on Mary's train and pitching head first at the feet of the minister. I'm all puffed up, of course, at being the nearest male blood relative of the bride old enough to take the role of masculine guardian at the ceremony. But the honor has its drawbacks, darling. Oh, yes, it has its drawbacks, as I'm afraid you all will discover tomorrow."

"We can only hope for the best," Harriet said dryly, and then I slipped my arm into hers and started toward the stairway, leaving Dr. Braithwaite and my father to escort my mother-in-law, who childishly likes to have at least two people paying attention to her wishes at the same time.

"What d'ye think I'd better do with those kids, Madge?"

Dicky's anxious voice halted me, but I did not loosen my clasp of Harriet's arm.

"But I said one of us would come over and see what was to be done with them," he said dolefully. "Go on, Madge. Be a sport, and straighten them out for me."

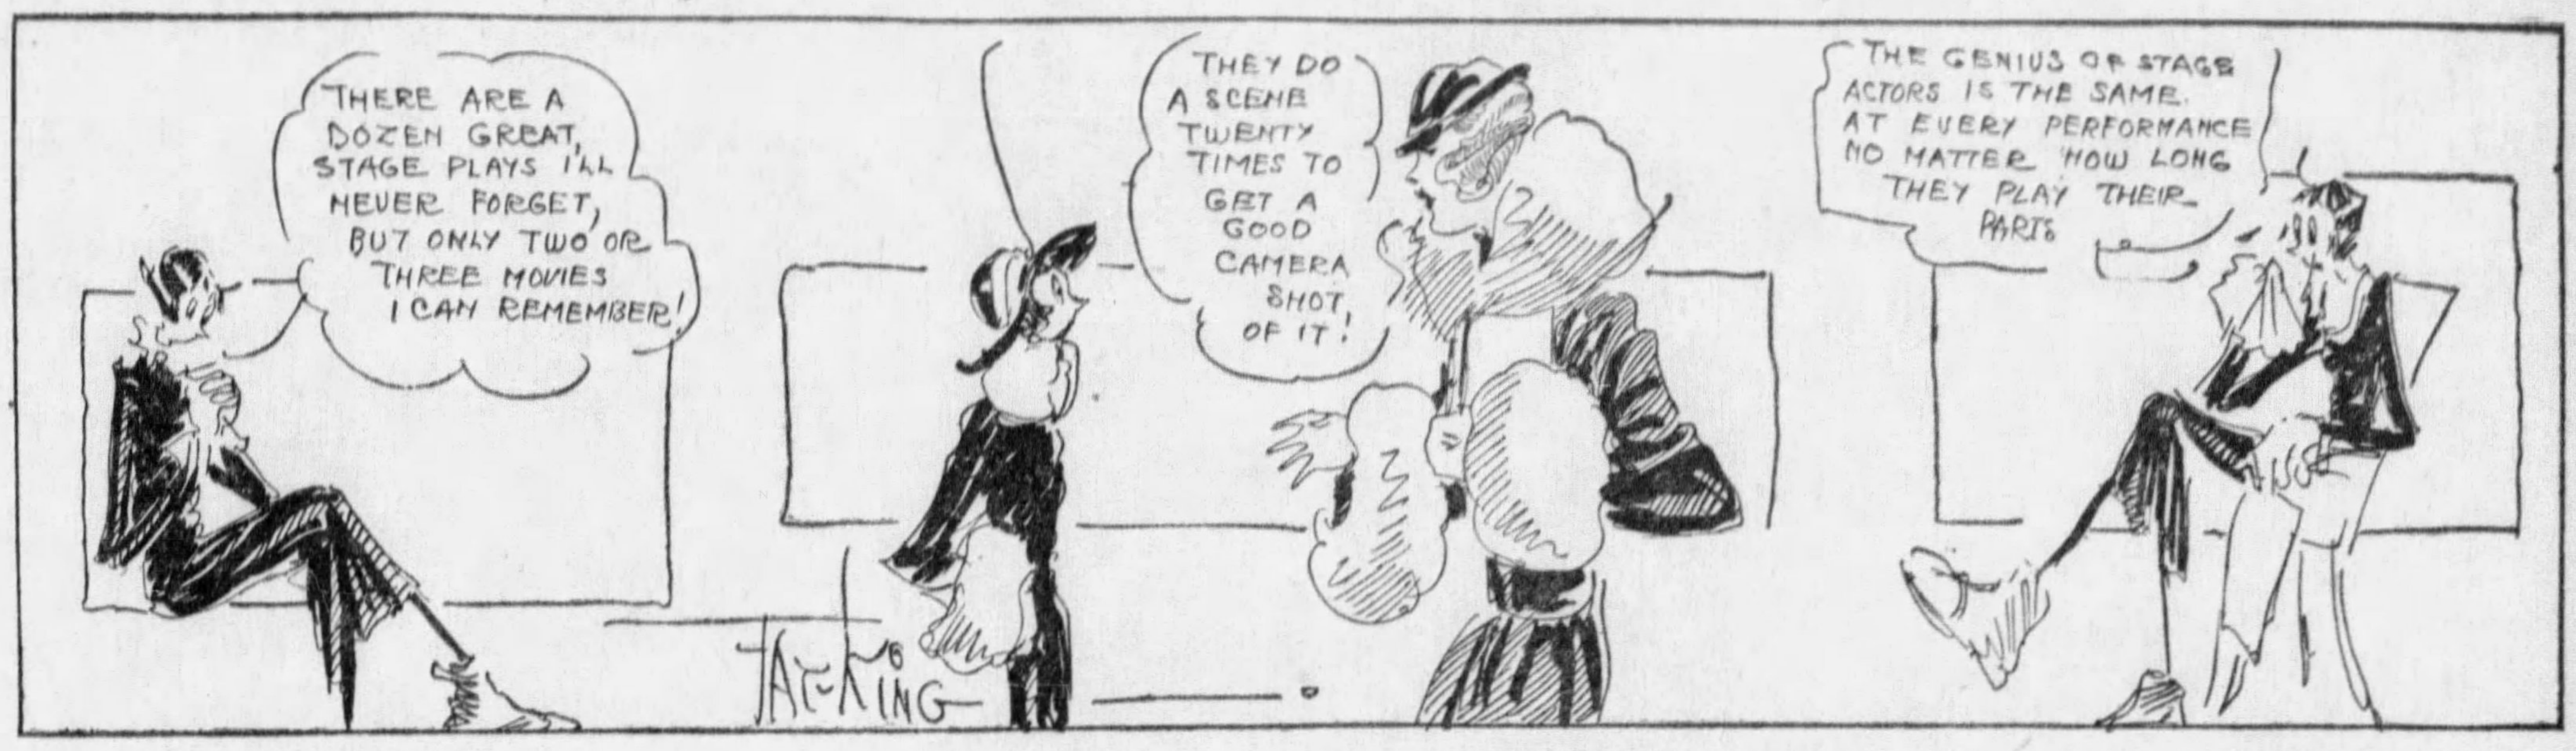
Fay King Finds Wide Gap Between Stage and Screen Technique



THERE ARE A DOZEN GREAT STAGE PLAYS I'LL NEVER FORGET, BUT ONLY TWO OR THREE MOVIES I CAN REMEMBER!
THEY DO A SCENE TWENTY TIMES TO GET A GOOD CAMERA SHOT OF IT!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

The main fault I find with the movies is that they leave no lasting impression.

I can remember stage plays I saw many years ago, but I can hardly remember a movie I enjoyed last week.

The screen shows much more than can be presented upon any stage. Yet the difference seems to be like that of a rare concentrated perfume of which a drop is lasting, and a great deal of cologne which soon evaporates.

The movies which have disappointed me most are those which were made after plays I had seen. There was no comparison between the performance in the theater and the presentation on the screen.

Perhaps we could not do without either now, but the screen and the stage are worlds apart.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Attack and Counter-Attack

A good Bridge player in play does not automatically count up his losers and concede them to the opponents, even though there seems to be no apparent play to reduce his losses. He will try all the tricks of the trade and employ all the deception at his command in an effort to save a losing trick. A discerning defensive player, however, usually will, through careful counting and card-reading, thwart the Declarer's efforts to gain a trick.

North, Dealer.

North: ♠Q ♡AKQ10 ♢K104 ♣KJ765

West: ♠K1094 ♡76 ♢Q765 ♣1098

East: ♠AJ8765 ♡J93 ♢A32 ♣Q

South: ♠32 ♡8542 ♢J98 ♣A432

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♣	1♠	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♡	2♠	4♡ (1)	4♠
5♡ (2)	5♠ (3)	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—South, who failed to make a free bid on the first round and, on the second round, made only a forced response, cannot mislead his partner by jumping to game. North's bidding has been very strong and South's hand fits with both of his suits.

2—Since North and South are vulnerable and East and West are not, North does not wish to let East and West off with a small sacrifice. He knows that there should be a good play for five-odd.

3—Although East holds two Aces, he knows from his partner's delayed raises that there will be very little defense against the opponent's contract. Hence the decision to sacrifice with a bid of five.

South opened with the Ace of clubs and then shifted to the deuce of hearts, North winning with the Queen. North, instead of playing another heart, tried to cash another club trick, which East ruffed. A spade was led to Dummy, and Declarer then ruffed Dummy's last club in his own hand. He now drew the one remaining trump and then played the Knave of hearts from his own hand, seeking to convey the impression that he held no more. North won with the King but refused to be fooled by the deception and did not make the error of leading a diamond. From his partner's lead of the deuce of hearts at the second trick, marking South with only four cards of that suit, he knew that Declarer must still have another heart, and therefore that it would be perfectly safe for him to lay down his Ace of hearts for Dummy to ruff. East now had no possible play to avoid losing two diamond tricks, thus going down 450. Of course, if North had carelessly fallen for Declarer's ruse and assumed East held no more hearts, he would have led a diamond and thereby sacrificed one trick in that suit.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South, Dealer.

North: ♠KQ83 ♡A6 ♢1053 ♣AJ109

East: ♠J765 ♡K84 ♢KJ94 ♣65

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1NT	Pass	3NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

West leads the three of hearts. North plays the six. East wins with the King. What card should East now play, and why?

Answer—East should reason that if he returns a heart and the suit is thereby established, South must have the Ace of spades and the King or Queen of clubs. Three spade tricks, four club tricks and the Ace of hearts will mean game if South also holds the Ace of diamonds. East must therefore try diamonds as the best chance to save game, and, holding the nine as well as the Knave over the Ten in Dummy, should lead the Knave, not the King nor a small one. If partner has the Ace and two small cards or more, the game is saved.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Chronic Bronchitis Cough

Nothing is more annoying at theater or in church, than the sound of persistent coughing.

Dr. Copeland

More than once I have seen the entire audience disturbed by somebody's coughing. Indeed, the number of victims of chronic coughs is amazing.

Of course this is the time of the year when coughs and colds are all too common. Sometimes the symptom is more serious, due perhaps to some neglected ailment of the lungs.

Perhaps the most common and most neglected of such ailments is the disorder called "bronchitis." As its names implies, this is an inflammation of the bronchial tubes. If the inflammation is of sudden origin, it is called "acute bronchitis." When it is the result of prolonged irritation and inflammation, it is spoken of as "chronic bronchitis."

Chronic bronchitis is usually encountered in persons beyond middle age. But it respects no age and is frequently seen in children and young adults. As a rule, it follows winter colds and coughs and persists for several months. It may even last for years.

If you have ever come in contact with a sufferer from chronic bronchitis you will quickly recognize the characteristic signs of this affliction. The victim has difficulty in breathing. A peculiar wheezing is heard in his chest which can often be detected a few feet off. He has a constant hack and cough and complains of shortness of breath upon the slightest exertion.

Unfortunately, most persons are careless about bronchitis. They believe it incurable and so take the attitude that there is no harm or immediate danger attached to it. I have often heard sufferers from chronic bronchitis state that their parents or grandparents had a similar affliction and had lived to a good old age without medicine. They take it as a matter of course.

But chronic bronchitis is a more serious disease than is generally thought. As a result of the constant strain of coughing the heart may become enlarged. The muscles of the heart become weakened and signs of heart failure appear. If neglected the heart may become so burdened that it is unable to continue its work.

For many years little was known about the treatment of chronic bronchitis. It is now definitely known that neglect of focal points of infection lead to this disturbance.

Bear in mind that a chronic cough may be a sign of some other disturbance. Do not accept it as a sure sign of chronic bronchitis without confirmation by your doctor.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Even deep scars can be removed by the plastic surgeon. Birth marks, too, are treated with success, though treatment must continue for many months. Warts are easily removed, so are moles, but only expert fingers should attempt the job. Superfluous hair can be removed by means of the electric needle, and there are other methods employed by wise ones who do the work.

In bad cases of eczema of the scalp yellow crusts form and the hair may become matted and unmanageable. Soap suds prove irritating. No sense trying home treatment when such a condition flourishes. Go to a medical man who specializes in diseases of the skin and scalp. It is believed that certain foods invite eczema which is a stubborn trouble, especially when it has become chronic.

Republicans, Democrats In Radio Squabble

By AIRCASTER

The G. O. P. and the administration in Washington are squabbling over the Republican National Committee's charge that networks and independent radio stations have been asked to censor anti-NRA speakers.

The broadcasters deny that anyone has been threatened with license trouble through failure to promote the NRA movement.

The probability is that the G. O. P. will ask a congressional investigation.

NBC has arranged another series of afternoon broadcasts from London—not politics, this time, but panning, in all probability.

It's something of a joke on CBS, because Nino won't be allowed to do any Columbia broadcasting during the opera season.

It's a similar joke on Martini, for it is reported he gets less for his opera work than for the CBS Bath Club broadcasts, which he must pass up.

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Let's give three cheers for Director Lang. He gladly gave much of his valuable time to check up on the streets suitable for coasters. Here are the streets he okayed:

Gallion avenue, between Flatbush and Wedgemere street; Starkamp street, between Bellaire and Eathan; all of Lutz avenue; Maryland avenue, between Ellsworth and the railroad; Howard street, between North avenue and East street; Harvard street, between Negley and St. Clair.

It is imperative that, where a street is roped off, one of the boys should watch to warn automobiles. Last year on Gallion avenue a motorist didn't see the rope and was seriously injured. Some one had removed the red lantern.

Departmental employes say many times red lanterns are placed on street obstructions and are accidentally, or otherwise, removed, or put out of commission. One year or so ago when lights had been removed from a dirt pile in the street a fire truck answering a still alarm crashed into it. Two firemen were killed.

La Rue Eckels, McKeesport, wants some kind of a reward, and there isn't a doubt in my mind that he deserves it. After my warning that poetry was to be read he kept the radio tuned in while the Globe Trotter, full of poetic agony, rendered (meaning to tear apart) "Two California Goldfish."

On Friday at 2:15 p. m. we are to be honored with Joseph Fabel, secretary of the United Magyar Society.

G. O. P. Attempt to Run Out on Social Legislation Campaign Fuel

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—Yesterday's stunning defeat of the regular Republican leadership in the House, in its effort to adjourn this week's session without advancing social legislation to a point where mechanically it could have a chance for ultimate passage before final adjournment next week, has established a campaign issue in a number of legislative districts, including some in Allegheny County.

There was a clear-cut question involved. Those who voted to remain in session this week acted to give the social legislation every possible chance, though the eventual approval of much of this program is dubious.

Those who voted to adjourn yesterday endeavored to close the door against any remote chance that within the next few days there might come to the House and Senate a belated appreciation of the fact that political times have changed, and that public officials are being penalized for flouting what is the public will of the moment. Those who so voted were against giving two more days of their time this week to the work for which they were elected, and for attending which they are paid.

The question was as simple as that.

* * *

County Members Who Favored Adjournment

In Allegheny County Representatives Leonard Kane, W. J. Gallagher, Lynch, Maloney, Rectenwald, Spann and Steedle voted to adjourn.

Four of those members come from districts where vote control is not easy, and where the issue may be raised against them embarrassingly next spring. They are Kane, from the Fourth District; Spann, from the Fifth, and Rectenwald and Steedle from the Twelfth.

The seven can be classed as followers of Senator James J. Coyne, and if the Democrats are as politically intelligent as they have been, and as capable of seizing opportunities, they will pin this onus on the entire Republican party, though 10 Republicans from Allegheny County voted to remain in session. It establishes another burden to be carried by a party with an already bowed back.

What is true of Allegheny is true of many other counties, particularly those with industrial centers. The issue will be alive in all of them.

It is easily conceivable that men may vote against the social legislation program. There can be sincere and honest differences of opinion on the merits of many of the measures involved.

However, those who voted against continuing in session took the mistaken view that the bills could be stifled, voted against indirectly through adjournment, and that there never would be a record that they had positively cast a negative vote. The experience with old-age pensions in the regular sessions of last winter should have established the fallacy of that attitude.

* * *

Both Sides Abandon City Manager Moves

Finally and definitely, there is to be no city manager legislation for Pittsburgh in this special session. Round and round the circle the proposition has traveled, and it was alive until this week. But no more.

First the regular Republicans thought of putting in a city manager bill to embarrass the Democrats. Representative Leonard Kane made a casual study of the situation, but in short order the project was abandoned.

Then the Democrats, who had fought vigorously for the bill in the regular session of last winter, thought that consistency demanded that they make a gesture of interesting themselves again, even though they since had captured the mayoralty and might not be expected to wish to upset things—even though their Mayor-elect is upsetting.

Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence told newspapermen that the bill would go in, and that Representative John J. Kane, elected to City Council last month, would authorize it.

Quite a secretive ceremony was made about the prospect of injecting the bill.

But the Democrats didn't go any farther than the regular Republicans. They secured an opinion that the bill did not come within the special session call, and appeared content to remain quiescent under it, not seeking another opinion from more authoritative sources.

Then the fore part of this week George Hallett, representing the Proportional Representation League and the civic group in Pittsburgh which under the guidance of Franklin C. Irish had promoted a city manager bill, blew into town with a sheaf of bills under his arm. He said he was here at the instigation of Mr. Irish and was hopeful that Senator Frank J. Harris would sponsor the bills.

It should have been apparent to any one that it was a pretty late date to be thinking about the subject, which Mr. Hallett apparently realized. He had a momentary meeting with Senator Harris, but then left town.

So the bills haven't been introduced. And this is the city manager bill story of this session, in case any one is interested, which those involved appear not to have been.

M'GOVERN DEMANDS ELIMINATION OF OFFICES

OFFER $50,000 FOR LIGHTING CONTRACT

Duquesne Proposal Halts Coraopolis Hearing

The Coraopolis street lighting franchise fight before the Public Service Commission was continued until December 22, following yesterday's testimony that the Duquesne Light Company was willing to pay approximately $50,000 for a five-year contract and the public's good will.

The continuance was ordered by Commissioner Samuel Walker before whom the hearing is being held to allow time for consideration of the citizens' contention that they have the right to submit testimony to show the economy of a municipal-owned plant over a pending contract with the Duquesne company.

Attorneys for the light company and Borough Solicitor H. C. Hofacker have entered objections on the grounds that the commission has no jurisdiction in the matter—that it is the concern only of the borough council which has voted unanimously for the contract.

CITES ECONOMY

Attorney John M. Walker, representing the citizens, seeks to show, through a comparison with an engineering report submitted to Council several months ago, that it would be more economical for the borough to operate its own street lighting plant. The group has entered a protest against the contract with the light company. An ordinance creating a $75,000 bond issue for the purpose of building a municipal power plant has never been rescinded.

An offer of $82,500 was made by the Duquesne Company to the borough in consideration of a five-year contract and an adjustment of the $250,000 sale price of the formerly municipally-operated light plant six years ago. F. R. Phillips, president of the Duquesne company, testifying before the commissioner, declared he did not think the deal "a good one for the company," but repeated his "gift" offer to the borough "for the sake of the public good will and to save litigation.

OWE ENGINEER $10,000

Of the $82,500, the sum of $10,000 is to be paid to Pete Loftus, consultant engineer for the borough, and $7,500 is to go to the purchase of new electrical equipment for the borough-owned water works.

Heading the citizens' protest are George H. Minch and George H. Selzer, both residents of Coraopolis.

Policeman Injured Pursuing Motorist

Patrolman Edward Werner, 32, of 1347 Spring Garden avenue, was taken to the Mercy Hospital with an injured wrist received last night, police said, when he pursued a motorist and slipped on an icy sidewalk. Michael Ritter, 26, of Spring Garden road, Reserve Township, was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge.

Her First Love Scene Brings Owen Moore Into Mary's Life

Blushing Girl Wins Griffith's Praise in Forerunner of First Romance

Herewith the Sun-Telegraph presents the dramatic life story of Mary Pickford, whose divorce suit against Douglas Fairbanks has created world-wide interest. Earlier chapters told of Mary's childhood, the beginning of her stage and film career, and her first meeting with Owen Moore.

By MARJORIE DRISCOLL

Could any writer of scenarios invent a situation more ironic than that? Mary had met him, of course, as she had met all the rest of the Biograph players, when, 15 years old, she began her film career.

And fate sent him strolling past at that particular moment when Griffith, needing some one to play opposite the unsophisticated youngster while he showed her how to make screen love, caught sight of Moore.

Griffith smiled approvingly when the blushing Mary and the less embarrassed Moore had finished the rehearsal. He told Mary:

"After 10 years more of life and rehearsal, you should be able to do a love scene very well."

But when the 10 years had rolled by, Mary was to have had much more experience of life and love than even the astute Griffith imagined. She was to know romance with the handsome young actor on whose shoulder she buried her shy face that day—and the crumbling of that romance.

That was all in the future during the 18 months that Mary stayed with Biograph. Much more interesting to her just then was the stupendous fact that her salary was steadily raised from $40 a week to the amazing figure of $100—a huge salary for those days.

Five or ten dollars loomed large when the movies were young. Mary Pickford smiles now when she remembers that once a difference of $10 kept her from going with Essanay.

George K. Spoor offered her $45 a week. Her mother, always eager to protect Mary's interests, held out for $55.

They didn't get much money but they had a lot of fun, those movie pioneers—a lot of fun and a lot of work. All the elaborate setup of authors, adapters, dialogue writers, script clerks, assistant directors and what not, was still unknown.

Stories got written, bought, borrowed or invented, somehow. They were adapted as they went along.

With talkies still undreamed of, dialogue of course didn't matter. If the heroine, while gazing soulfully into the hero's eyes, were actually scolding him violently for stepping on her toe, the audience—except a few lip-readers—never knew the difference.

Audiences may have guessed but they apparently did not care, that while the lovely heroine was picking up the fatal letter, shinking from the dire news it contained, raising her eyes to Heaven, and flying to the arms of the hero, the director on the sidelines was telling her:

"Now pick it up—look at it—clasp your hands—turn your head this way—let your lips tremble."

MARY WRITES SCENARIOS

She wrote "The Awakening" and played in it with Arthur Johnson, and other film stories in which she, James Kirkwood, Billy Quirk, Mae Marsh, Claire McDowell, Alice Joyce and the rest of them appeared.

Of one of her fellow players, Mary was deeply envious because Lillian Gish had a blonde fairness that photographed with ethereal loveliness. She was often cast as the heroine since the early movies followed the lead of the drama in "true to types."

When the Biograph Company filmed a western, Lillian was usually cast as the beautiful daughter of the rancher who was kidnaped by outlaws, rescued by bold cowboys and pursued by Indians.

But Mary, because her hazel eyes photographed dark, had to be an Indian, not that Mary minded being an Indian, but she did hate having to smear her face with bolamenia—a most uncomfortable mixture of reddish brown clay and water. She remembers that bolamenia yet.

After 18 months with Biograph, Mary went to the Independent Motion Picture Company, lured by the almost unheard-of salary of $175 a week, but after nine months she returned to Biograph feeling that this company and Griffith's direction offered a better opportunity.

Next came a brief return to the stage, when Belasco persuaded her to take the part of Juliet, the

GIRL ARTIST WHIPS HANDICAP

Betty Evans Exhibit Wins Deserved Praise

By PENELOPE REDD

The exhibition of 60 drawings and paintings by Betty Evans, of Willock, Pa., is on at the Gulf Galleries until December 31. The drawings overcome the obvious disadvantage of the lack of artful framing and stand on their own merits as pages torn from a notebook. They are unedited, so to speak. Random as they are, they show an imagination that has been nourished by the masters. In them is profound admiration of the Florentines, a thirst slaked at the mystical well of Blake's art, and considerable fanciful invention of one Betty Evans. About them all is a detached purity that touches the heart of the observer.

Miss Redd

Probably without definite intention they achieve that disregard of the material that is the desire of contemporary artists. Maidens, swiftly fleet as Diana, as in the portrait of Anna Jane Phillips; two self-portraits, one of repose achieved at a price is indicated with spare, taut lines, another modeled in high relief where the intensity of the furies is unconcealed, a fourth is a macabre study of monsters crushing their human prey. Whatever Betty Evans touches gleams because of her imaginative inflection.

Miss Evans, now 23, has triumphed over the physical handicap of infantile paralysis to study drawing and painting at Carnegie Institute of Technology and even at the Art Students' League in New York City. We do not know that her sensitiveness has any relation to her physical state of being. We do know that her drawings make exceptional appeal on their imaginative quality, apart from any human sympathy.

CITY MAY DROP SUBWAY TO AID TREASURY

Present Tax Millage Kept at Session On Finances

A conference has been arranged for this afternoon between Council and the City Transit Commission.

The tax rate is to remain the same as the past year, 20.6 mills on land and 10.3 mills on buildings. Council set it late yesterday by a unanimous vote. Councilman Charles Anderson was the only member absent.

There are indications that Council is seeking a way to fund the city's $3,000,000 deficit, and may seek a special eletion to allow the people to vote on the question.

The subway bond issue approved in 1919 still stands against the people's borrowing power. Council has received legal advice that it may cancel the subway bonds if it sees fit, thus clearing the path for the deficit bonds and still increasing by almost $2,000,000 the present borrowing power.

WON'T 'PASS BUCK'

Now that Council has decided on maintaining the same tax rate it has apparently accepted the task of cutting approximately $2,200,000 out of the present budget. It seems likely that the work will be done by the present Council.

Council today considered putting a charge on various city swimming pools similar to the rates in effect at Highland Park pool. A report was asked from the Division of Recreation.

Former Mayor and Councilman-elect William A. Magee shortly before the levy was set yesterday advised Council to increase the tax rate 3 mills. He ran into stubborn opposition from Presi-

Traveling Show Being Planned For Destitutes

DR. L. ELLIS GLASGOW

Dr. Glasgow Enlists Artists to Ease Minds of Poor

Stressing the importance of amusement in the lives of the needy, Dr. L. Ellis Glasgow, Pittsburgh sportsman and manufacturer, today announced plans for a series of free entertainments throughout Allegheny County beginning in January.

Presented in co-operation with local relief agencies, the entertainments will feature professional and non-professional radio and stage artists of Pittsburgh, who have offered their services for the undertaking, and will be scheduled in schools and halls following conferences with relief workers.

A trailer, carrying radio broadcasting and receiving equipment, and designed to accommodate 10 performers, has been constructed to transport artists, provide music for the entertainments and to follow relief workers into various districts to supply recreation as they supply food and clothing.

Admission will be by tickets, distributed by relief workers, which will admit an entire family. Those not holding tickets will be charged an admission of canned goods or wearable winter clothing.

Announcement of the plan follows an extensive survey of recreational facilities of neighborhoods most affected by economic conditions of the last two years. Dr. Glasgow said:

"In all of the districts I have visited, paid amusements, even if the admission is only 5 or 10 cents, are out of the question for thousands of families. These people are desperately in need of something to take their minds, even for a little while, from the fact that there is no money for rent, and that the house is cold, and that dad will be home from another hopeless search for the job he is never able to get."

GIVE TAXPAYERS BREAK, HE URGES

Overlapping Bureaus Blamed on Acts of Legislature

Reductions of from 30 to 50 per cent can be made in one-half of all the governmental agencies of the county under the various municipal regimes, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern declared today as budget hearings for 1934 started in the Commissioners' meeting room.

He stated that under such a reduction the millage could be slashed and the small home owner given some peace of mind.

The chairman of the Commissioners declared that a voluminous number of offices, departments and bureaus, overlapping and unnecessary, but created by the Legislature, cost the Allegheny County taxpayers $4,616,712.12 every year.

DEBT REQUIREMENTS

McGovern said that the debt fund requirements on the $105,271,000 of county bond issues require $10,206,752.69 and judicial obligations $2,373,101.95, so that less than $3,500,000 remain at the disposal of the County Commissioners.

Out of this, the chairman added, the county must maintain 535 miles of hard road, more than 400 bridges, tunnels, unimproved roads, in addition to other essential functions of the county government.

McGovern's statement was made as county departments and bureaus submitted budget estimates calling for $20,678,499.96 for 1934.

In a plea to the assembled officers and executives of the county, the chairman said:

"During the past 24 months of this administration this Board has curtailed the expenses of the county government by $3,552,848. In the year 1933 the millage was reduced ⅛ of a mill and fixed at 8¼ mills.

"At the time we figured the basis of collection at 73 per cent. Actually it amounted to 68 per cent, so that this Board has had to borrow sufficient operating expenses on its approximately $14,000,000 delinquent tax accounts."

PESSIMISTIC FORECAST

Then, to the taxpayers, represented by several individuals, McGovern issued this pessimistic forecast:

"It is unlikely from past history that any form of taxation can be provided that will assist in unburdening the real and personal property of the county of all the county government's expenses.

"There must sooner or later be a great reduction in the tremendous expense that goes with maintaining the voluminous number of these offices forced on us by the Legislature, entirely unnecessary under our present form of government.

"Allegheny County must soon have home rule, as it is heading straight for the financial rocks. People living in Philadelphia, Scranton and every other section of the state must no longer create offices and bureaus in Allegheny County and fix the salaries for these offices."

OPERATOR 13

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Girl Spy Continues Efforts to Find Gailliard

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Before breakfast ended conversation became less guarded, though never careless. Somebody mentioned Chancellorsville, and there were quiet smiles.

But timid Miss Trimble ventured to inquire tremulously: "Was Chancellorsville worth the cost? First Ashby died, then young Pelham, and now Jackson gone—three armed archangels fighting God's own war. And Lee and Stuart alone are left us."

After breakfast, very softly at the piano, Mr. Andrews played and sang "The Tyrant Foot Is On Thy Shore." Then he went away. He had business downtown, he said.

The other boarders, too, assumed hats or "bunnits" and went their several ways excepting only Claire Quilter, who remained to chat with the faded schoolteacher from Princess Anne, who had taught school in Berkley until the federal authorities decided she was teaching sedition also, and sent her packing.

She and Claire discovered mutual friends in Princess Anne and also in Culpeper.

And it was then Operator 13 learned that Antonia Ford was going to marry the Yankee provost officer who had arrested her.

"How can she?" protested Miss Trimble.

"Ornery Yankee," murmured Claire Quilter. "I declare I can't understand it!"

"I've a nephew in Norfolk," quavered poor Miss Trimble. "He'd send me money to live on if he knew where I am. But the Yankees opened all the letters I wrote him, and they threaten to arrest me if I write any more."

"Well," said Claire, "I am going to Norfolk——on business. I could take a letter for you!"

"But one has to have a pass."

"I have a pass. I go and come as I choose—every two or three weeks."

The school teacher marveled.

"Oh," said the girl, "I go as Mrs. Andrews. Clive Andrews—you saw him at breakfast—passes as my husband. The only trouble is he's always trying to make love." She laughed.

"Does he go to Norfolk with you?"

"No; he has business here." The girl laid a warning finger across her full red lips and smiled as young Mr. Andrews re-entered the parlor. He looked politely but intently at poor Miss Trimble.

"Oh," said Claire, "you needn't be suspicious, Clive. She is one of the Princess Anne Trimbles, and is intimate with the Fords and Blythes of Culpeper."

Andrews bowed very nicely.

Dons New Disguise Before Entering Theater

"I was not suspicious, ma'am. But we are a very united, though unrelated, family here at 123. And a strange face, you know—"

"Why did you come back?" asked Claire coldly.

Flippant Speech

"Forgot your grandmother," rejoined that slangy young lady. "Go and tell Jack Gailliard what happened last evening." She turned to Miss Trimble, who seemed a little shocked. "Mr. Andrews met a flibbity-jibbity girl last evening who pretended to be acquainted with me and with Captain Gailliard; it has frightened him nearly to death."

Andrews turned fiery red. "I suppose you are joking, ma'am."

"Well, yes, I am, Clive. Nobody doubts your courage, and I really do agree with you that this creature—whoever she may be—is a Yankee spy. So run away and warn Captain Gailliard, and don't flirt with any more strange ladies."

He was very much put out, but he took polite leave of them.

Miss Trimble also rose to make her adieux, promising to take her meals at 123 in future. When she descended the steps, Andrews was just turning the corner toward Washington place.

Operator 13 dared not hurry.

COUNCIL PLANS SUBWAY BOND REPEAL

dent of Council Harry A. Little, who said:

OPPOSES TAX BOOST

Councilman Frank L. Duggan also opposed a tax increase. He said:

"It is not fair to put an added burden upon those who pay their taxes."

Magee then asked:

"What's to become of the city's service?"

There was no answer.

Magee estimated 74 per cent tax collections for next year. With total estimated revenues around 19,000,000, from which must be taken deductions of $6,000,000 for sinking fund and $3,000,000 present deficit, he estimated a deficit by the end of 1934 of $5,000,000, if the 1933 tax rate is maintained.

Discussing the delinquent tax list, Magee said it would be impossible for the city to make wholesale tax sales. He pointed out that such a move would increase the law department to a greater size than the present public works department.

He recommended a survey of delinquent property for income producers from which the city might obtain delinquent taxes by energetic collection methods.

RAPS ASSESSORS

Just before the millage was set, Councilman W. Y. English launched into a tirade against the city assessors. He objected to assessors, who, he said, were an appointed body, "going ahead on their own authority" to make such far-reaching adjustments in property valuations without informing City Council.

English urged legislation to curb such actions. Referring to the $100,000,000 assessment cut, he said:

"It came as a surprise. With one stroke of the pen, the assessment cut wiped out $2,000,000 of councilmanic borrowing power."

Discussing the reduction of the budget, English said:

"We can't cut city service down. I would fear to make any deep cut, because we may be accused by some people of trying to embarrass the Democrats."

KEEP WATER RATES

Council, when it fixed the millage, adopted the same water rates for next year as have applied this year. The meter rate is 20 cents per 1,000 gallons for the first 250,000 gallons or less.

Council also discussed briefly the possibility of abrogating the contract with the South Pittsburgh Water Company by which it pays the company the difference between the city rate and the company's rate for consumers in the South Hills wards.

Harry Bastow, representing the Chartiers Board of Trade, urged that the city continue its present contract with the water company. He declared that when many of the South Hills boroughs were annexed they were given to understand they would receive the benefits of the city water rate.

Council also moved to collect water bills owed by outside municipalities by asking the Controller for a report on the amount of the bills.

PATROLMAN GEORGE A. WICKEMHAUSER AT SS. PETER AND PAUL SCHOOL SHOWING SAFETY PATROL HOW TO PLAY SAFE

GIRL MAY NECK, DRIVER BARRED

Unexpectedly comes a solution to the burning question—how to "neck" while driving and still remain within the law—from none other than Walter W. Matthews, chief of the division of safety for the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue.

While "one arm" driving is prohibited, Matthews points out, there's nothing in the state motor code to prevent young ladies from placing their arms around the necks of masculine drivers.

Seeking to console the sweet young things who must sit dejectedly while their escorts attend to the business of driving, Matthews proferred the idea in a talk on "Stepping Into Eternity" at the Langley and Taylor Allderdice high schools yesterday.

In Pittsburgh to address a series of safety meetings in high schools under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, he said traffic accidents in Pennsylvania during the first 11 months of this year increased 10 per cent over those for the same period in 1932.

POLITICS

Nominations this week and she was confirmed.

It was a mistake, and Republican State Chairman Edward Martin and others are exceedingly wroth at Senator C. W. Parkinson, chairman of the committee. They didn't want any of the Pinchot big shot nominations confirmed.

It seems that there was another slip, similar to that which almost resulted in the confirmation of Dr. Bill McClelland, of Pittsburgh, as a member of the State Boxing Commission.

James M. Hazlett, chairman of the Republican county organization of Philadelphia, gave Mr. Parkinson a list of minor jobs to be approved, and Mrs. Liveright was in the list. No one knows how it happened, but it has caused a lot of anguish.

A cabinet official holds office only during the term of the appointing official. But the regular Republicans think it's hot stuff to annoy Mr. Pinchot—who, incidentally, is having a swell time while they worry.

MARY IN FILM WITH FUTURE HUSBAND

blind girl, in "A Good Little Devil," and she played it for one season at the Republic Theater in New York. In the spring of 1913 she made a film version of this drama for Famous Players, and from then on her rise in the movie world was steady and rapid.

LARGE INCOME STARTS

In 1915 the 22-year-old girl became vice president of the Mary Pickford Famous Players Company, with a salary of $2,000 a week and 50 per cent of the profits. A year later her salary was doubled.

All this time her mother, who had followed her famous daughter in using the name of Pickford—all the family became Pickfords when Mary had established the name—was Mary's business manager, adviser and constant companion.

Again and again, Mary paid tribute to her mother's devotion, and Mrs. Pickford recognized the intimacy of the association when, in her will, she left the bulk of her estate to Mary because of her daughter's "most unusual generosity."

Mary's association with Famous Players resulted in a long list of pictures in which she became world famous for her portrayal of child or youthful roles. Her long golden curls were known and copied all over the world.

Among the pictures she made at that time were "Caprice," "Tess of the Storm Country," "Hearts Adrift," "Such a Little Queen," "Fanchon the Cricket," "Cinderella," "Mistress Nell," "Dawn of a Tomorrow," "Rags," "Little Pal," "The Girl of Yesterday," "Poor Little Peppina," "Madame Butterfly,"—a departure from her usual role—"Hulda from Holland," and "Less Than the Dust."

AUTHORITY GROWS

By 1916, she reached a new position of authority, being allowed to choose her stories and cast, and she was rated among the highest paid film stars.

Photoplays she made at that time included "Pride of the Clan," "Poor Little Rich Girl," "Romance of the Redwoods," "The Little American," "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," "Little Princess," "Stella Maria," "Amarilla of Clothes Line Alley," "M'liss," "Captain Kidd, Jr.," and "Johanna Enlists."

On Armistice Day, November 11, 1918, she became an independent producer, making pictures for release through First National. They included "Daddy Long Legs," "The Hoodlum" and "Heart of the Hills."

Early in 1919, she, with Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin and D. W. Griffith, organized United Artists Corporation, for which she made "Pollyanna," "Suds," "The Love Light," "Through the Back Door," "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "Rosita," "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," "Little Annie Rooney," "Sparrows" and "My Best Girl."

ROUTED FROM CLERK ROLE

For her role as a clerk in a 5-an-10-cent store, in "My Best Girl," she sought "local color" behind the counter of a Los Angeles store.

With her curls smoothed back and horned-rimmed glasses on her nose, she made a valiant attempt to disguise herself as a clerk and usually made several sales before some sharp-eyed movie fan penetrated the masquerade. After that, her counter was the focal point of an excited crowd until she gave it up and fled.

In 1929, Mary's film career passed two important milestones.

BOBBING STIRS FUROR

The hair-bobbing created a world-wide furor. Thousands of film fans mourned the departure of the famous curls, and thousands of others wrote that they liked her with the new style. It was only a medium bob, after all, short enough to be fashionable and long enough to tuck up.

Those years when her career was moving rapidly forward, were eventful ones for Mary. When she was not busy at the studio, she was filling the multitudinous duties of one who had now become the outstanding feminine star of the films.

And she had been married, divorced and remarried.

(Tomorrow, the story of Mary's marriage to Owen Moore, with whom she had practiced love scenes, years of unhappiness, separation, and at last, divorce after nine years.)

DOUG RETURNS FROM SKIING

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Douglas Fairbanks returned from a skiing expedition in the Bernina Mountains today and dispelled any uneasiness which may have arisen among his friends as a result of his absence.

He left his hotel Tuesday without announcing his itinerary, and when he had not returned last night some fears for his safety were expressed.

The two guides who accompanied the American actor said he was an expert at the sport—which he learned only a year ago—and that he planned to prolong his stay to enjoy it.

KILLS INVALID DAUGHTER, SELF

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Leaving his wheel chair, Charles T. Hentschel, 65-year-old retired inventor, yesterday staggered into the kitchen, where his invalid daughter sat playing with paper dolls, shot her twice through the heart, and then returned to his chair and fatally shot himself.

The daughter, Elizabeth, was 26. She and her father, according to neighbors, required constant watching and care. The father had been thought unable to walk.

In a note to his wife, Hentschel said:

Former President Of PigglyWigglyDies

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Double pneumonia yesterday claimed the life of C. D. Smith, 69-year-old Memphis capitalist, former president of the Piggly Wiggly Corporation and noted railroad builder.

He died at the hospital to which he was taken a week ago by airplane after being stricken while inspecting a plantation and visiting friends near Greenwood, Miss.

French Face Air Menace Abetted By Caviar

PARIS, Dec. 14.—(INS.)—The Russian menace of airplanes and caviar was squarely before the people of France today.

The situation was outlined in the Chamber of Deputies last night by Air Minister Pierre Cot, who said the Soviets had made tremendous strides in aviation.

The air industry in Russia, he said, has dispensed with American and German experts, and is being run by its own engineers.

They work, he said, with unusual enthusiasm and ability, being fed on special rations, forbidden to the masses, which include among other delicacies, caviar.

BLAST SHAKES SWISSVALE

An explosion at 1:30 a. m. awakened residents nearby. Firemen confined the fire to the third-story apartment of Saul Weisman. They atttribute the explosion to deposits in a number of emptied gasoline cans found near the origin of the blaze. No one was in the building at the time of the fire. Police reported finding two empty cans and a man's overcoat in the Weismann apartment.

Thinks Securities Act 'Dries' Market

Roy B. Kester, New York consulting accountant, speaking last night before the Pittsburgh Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, said the Securities Act is tending to "dry up the investment market of our country."

Members of the American Institute of Banking also attended the meeting.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

-With-

Patricia Pitt

In spite of Christmas packages to be wrapped and lists to be made for more shopping, the smart set put aside holiday things to go to hear the Detroit Symphony last night.

All the most faithful concert-goers were there—for example, Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., Mrs. Samuel Harden Church, Mrs. Nathaniel Spear.

Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson, another concert lover, I saw, too. She chose an interesting gown of two shades of orange-red. Mrs. John W. Lawrence showed her preference for black—she wore a black satin gown; Mrs. Biddle Arthurs was in black velvet, and so was Mrs. Robert E. Withers.

Chooses Brown Lace Gown for Concert

Mrs. Louis B. Hays chose a brown lace gown; Mrs. A. S. F. Keister was charming in wine crepe (she sat in one of the boxes) and Katherine MacCloskey in poinsettia red crepe.

Others there were the junior Harmar D. Dennys, Mrs. Harmar D. Denny, Mrs. Clifton A. Verner, with Barbara Verner, I believe; Mrs. John M. Freeman, Mrs. W. McCook Reed, Mrs. Oliver Eaton, Judge Sara M. Soffel, Mrs. Charles B. Buerger, the Samuel Kliachkos and Mrs. William Christopher Dierks.

Giving 'At Home' For Bud Daughter

Blonde Margaret and Margery Hillman will make their debut December 23 at a dinner-dance in the Fox Chapel Golf Club, to be given by their parents, the Matthew Taylors and the junior John Hartwell Hillmans.

Sister Giving Tea for Bud

Saturday Helen Tunnell will give a tea for her debutante sister, Sherley, in the home of her parents, the E. Paul Tunnells, to present her to Pittsburgh society.

Sherley is having as her aides, sister debs, Gwendolyn Holmes, Margery Hillman, Virginia Evans, Peggy Robinson, Marnie Hodge, Katherine McConnell and Mathilde Reed. Her sister is having no aides.

Junior League Exhibit Tomorrow

And then there is the Junior League benefit tomorrow, the exhibit of reproductions of Giotto's frescoes done in tableaux. The affair is being sponsored, you know, by the league for the benefit of the Frontier Nursing Association, and will be given in the Twentieth Century Club.

Barbara Pierce, Jean Davison, Louise McKee and Josephine Bygate are among the college girls who will return for the holidays in time to usher at the third subscription play of the Golden Triangle players, "The Beltznickel," on December 30 in the Twentieth Century Club.

Gives Dinner Party For Winter Colony

Mrs. Sarah Fownes Wadsworth, who's joined the colony at Pinehurst, N. C., entertained at a large dinner party there during the week-end festivities.

The Charles Arbuthnots III are back from their wedding trip in the South, and will be at home for the winter with Mr. Arbuthnot's family, the junior Charles Arbuthnots, of Fifth avenue.

Miss Dorothy Ballantyne and Miss Isabelle Hepburn will be hostesses for the annual Christmas bridge party of the Pittsburgh alumnae club of Alpha Gamma Delta. The party will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home of Miss Ballantyne, Locust street, Edgewood.

Two Affairs For Buds on Wednesday

Wednesday, December 20, will be a big day, or rather night, in the lives of the debutantes. Two entertainments of note are scheduled.

Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander will entertain at a dance in their home, Sewickley Heights, that evening honoring their niece, Althea Robinson, who came out in June.

And their entertainment will follow the dinner dance the B. F. Jones III will give in the Allegheny Country Club that night for deb Fredericka Holdship.

The E. J. Ladleys have changed the date for the dance they will give in the Twentieth Century Club to present their daughter Alice Ladley from January 1 to January 3.

Holiday Spirit Prevails At West Virginia Spa

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va.—Elaborate plans are being made for Christmas Week at The Greenbrier and the holiday spirit is already prevalent with numerous community turkey and ham shoots and wild game hunts.

Three benefit dances for the annual children's party will add to the festivities which will be climaxed with a New Year's ball to be followed by a swimming party and supper. A 10-piece orchestra comprised of students from the Washington and Lee University will provide music for dancing in The Greenbrier ballroom during the Yuletide, and much gaiety will be added by the younger set coming from schools and colleges for the occasion.

The splendid highways leading through this section, the invigorating mountain air and the prolonged autumn weather which has continued through the month is attracting many motorists in this direction, many of them en route to more southern points. Bryn Mawr Farms Women Explain Yule Customs

A decidedly colorful and unusual Christmas program was given yesterday at the Bryn Mawr Farms Woman's Club meeting in the Woodside School. Members who were born in other lands appeared in the costumes of those countries and described their Christmas customs.

Mrs. W. Schaelchlin, in Swiss costume, told of the beauty of the Zurich bells and of how people open their windows on Christmas morning and evening to hear them. Songs in Swedish, the reverence of the Christmas celebration, together with a description of the torchlight procession to an early celebration made Mrs. J. N. Samzelius' contribution to the program.

Candles, never electricity, always light a German Christmas tree, Mrs. A. J. Dienztbier said.

Margerita Samzelius and Irene Dienstbier, two little club daughters, were dressed in Swedish costumes and added to the colorful picture made by the costumes and the attractive and homelike stage setting. The Mothers' Club Choral opened and closed the program with carols and there was assembly caroling, too.

Arnold Yule Program on Dec. 22

The annual Arnold School Christmas program will be held the morning of Friday, December 22. In the Senior School, members of the Arnold School Dramatic Club will present the one-act play "Box and Cox" by John M. Morton.

This is an old play and was first presented in the Lyceum Theater of London in 1847. It is a farce and contains only three characters. The play will be under the direction of Lowell Innes, head of the English department.

In the primary department there will be an old-fashioned Christmas party, with Christmas trees, stockings will be hung, there will be a program of Christmas carols and it is expected that Santa Claus will make his usual visit.

This will be followed by story telling of the old German Christmas customs and German folk songs and legends by students in the primary department. There will be a playlet, "The Jar of Rosemary," by Maud Lindsay. All the members of this younger group are to bring a present of food, which will be made into Christmas baskets to be distributed to needy families of the community.

Pastor Tells How to Be Angry

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

"The Art of Anger" was the original and somewhat startling subject chosen by the Rev. B. C. Clausen for his talk before the Congress of Clubs' educational department yesterday.

At the season of "peace on earth" and on the one day of the year which the department was devoting to the topic of peace, Mr. Clausen's subject came as rather a surprise. But equally original with his choice of theme was his development of it.

Since he was speaking to an educational department, he proposed, he said, to give a brief course on how to be angry and do a good job of it. He likened anger to steam, saying both will blow up and both will propel, but both should be made steady, self-contained and serviceable. Some people regard anger, as steam was once regarded—a dreadful thing to be afraid of and keep away from, he said. These people frequently become good at the expense of being good for nothing, he added.

Mr. Clausen spoke of a skillful, strategic technique in the use of indignation; of the waste of precious anger power of the world that is utilized on totally useless things. Some people grow angry over election day, but they don't steady their anger sufficiently to keep it boiling until the next primary. Anger must not be allowed to evaporate until it has changed something, he said, but it must be directed against something that needs to be and can be changed.

He urged his listeners to be angry with themselves; to make their lives pay the price of their anger and to use every atom of that anger for peace.

Mrs. J. Charles Wilson supplemented Mr. Clausen's splendid talk by reading May T. Neff's poem, "There Shall Be No More War."

ALL WRAPPED AROUND IN ELEGANCE

By PRUNELLA WOOD

IT IS REALLY something to see the parades of evening wraps that are held nightly 'round about the town. Last year those who had handsome fur coats wore them for double duty as a rule, in spite of the fact that few chichi evening hats were available to help out the situation. This year, with so many silly and delightful formal night-time hats to left and right of us, haven't the girls gone in for wraps that don't call for them!

Velvet seems to be the favored material for these new wraps. No one could say what the favored length is, for with such provocative numbers as the Schiaparelli quilted cape doing better every day, the plethora of long wraps really doesn't register as being very significant.

* * *

NO MATTER what length a coat wrap is, however, it is always moulded about the figure from shoulder to hip. The Dolman wrap seems to be taking a long sleep. Soft fabrics are provided with plenty of draping about the sleeve and shoulders, with many a model almost as lush as a tea gown.

Stiffer stuffs, such as Lyons velvet and white broadcloth, are kept fairly man-tailored, only a generously cut sleeve or a big matching muff on which to pin the floral offerings getting the least bit into the ornate side of designing.

* * *

YOUNGSTERS will love the hooded long models, calculated to mend the manners of any Big Bad Wolf—and are those hoods practical! They will keep the Northern snow flakes and the soft breeze of the tropics, alike, out of carefully arranged locks, while thrown back, they make a grand detail for the back trimming of the coat.

The Chesterfield idea so becoming to swank beaux is practically snitched for the Lyons velvet wrap, left above. This is a "Ford" which should be in every wardrobe. Right, a coat with Vionnet's famous back-flung cowl and gorgeous draped sleeves.

Silverice! . . . the modern "ice" which never melts and dilutes your drink . . . the butter . . . or the grapefruit! These are silvery metal balls with water inside (hermetically sealed). The idea . . . just put them into your ice pans and freeze them the same as you would water. They can be washed, polished, and used forever. Only $1.00 . . . and what an amusing and apropos gift for the friend who loves his or her picnics in good weather!

For here are Alice in Wonderland and her boy-friends, the Mad Hatter (as mad as CAN be) and the March Hare (foolish thing!) . . . both of them taken straight from the book, and moulded into little cakes of toilet soap for children. Another product of Walt Disney's fertile brain. Done up in boxes to resemble books with pictures and verses from "Alice." 50c.

* * *

And right behind them, the three little pigs once more. Walt Disney's also . . . the fat pig and the two silly pigs . . . and all three of them for 29c the box. Quite attractive piglets!

Just a bit of Scotch . . . these! Cocktail napkins in the various clans' plaids . . . and making just about the cleverest, most interesting things in their line. Chrome metal, complete with strainer. Lined in cork. $1.00 and they turn any glass into an impromptu shaker.

And now to be a little silly. . . . We've made the acquaintance

The Ache of a Cursing Heart

I can be lady-like—but when I am
My state is more hysterical than mental;
For prissiness I do not give a damb—
I mean: "I do not give a continental!"

Most academic phraseology
Will leave me frankly yawning, bored and drowsy;
But still I say: "You don't appeal to me,"
When what I mean is: "Gosh, I think you're lousy!"

Repeal does not make me the less rebel
Against the social kinds of prohibition;
Why can't I simply say: "Oh, go to hell!"
Instead of: "I decline your proposition?"

I have resigned myself to using fair words—
But, oh, there are such lovely rhymes for swear-words!

Newspaperman Stuff

When the late W. O. McGeehan went to his ringside pew in the heavens the craft responded with appropriate and deserving eulogies. The sports fraternity, of which he was an elder, related "Bill's" greatness as did the editorial pages, and all of us ached because he died.

But it was Paul Gallico's reminder of an incident in Mr. McGeehan's career that best summed up the newspaperman. An ill-advised sports promoter, it appears, once sent McGeehan fifty dollars in gold at Christmas. McGeehan sent it back with this withering sarcasm:

"No, thank you. If it's a gift, it's too much. If it's a bribe, it isn't enough."

Epitaph

Ho, Hum

The Rt. Hon. Sir Herbert Samuel in a London weekly remarks:

"New words are needed in the language for new things . . . When a method was devised for projecting moving pictures on to a screen, the inventor called it 'kinematograph.' The word, impossible for popular use, soon became the cinema. Now we speak of going to the pictures."

You mean the movies?

They Always Do

A group of us were belittling the subject of love again last night. One of the "got-it-bad" lads was saying that he was madly in love with a certain good-looking casting directress.

"Poor fellow," grieved Jimmy Cannon, who has been abused by women, "the odds are 8 to 5 she casts him for a chump."

Torture

He is one of the better horn tooters in the land—with a renowned orchestra. It now is a feature at a night club. For a few beautiful years he adored a doll, who recently shifted her heart to a Park Avenue dandy, and the horn-tooter probably is the third most miserable person in town.

It wasn't enough that he lost her—but to make the ordeal more painful he sees her almost every midnight—with the other guy! It appears that the petty larcenist enjoys that orchestra best and, regardless of the situation, he insists on dancing to that music.

The irony of it, of course, is that the horn-tooter is among the chief reasons why the orchestra is that enchanting and night after night he must sit there and toot tender tunes—while his former darling and her new heart dance before him closer than five minutes to eleven.

Theme Ditty

Charlie Barnett didn't warble "Adeline" when Repeal came. He kept singing:

"This is RUMance!"

In Other Words

Al Goodman, conductor of one of the better bands, passes along part of a letter from a pal who dwells in California. When the president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce was asked how the depression had affected that community, he replied:

"Depression! We have had no depression in Los Angeles, but I will admit we've had the worst boom in years!"

Atta Boy!

Art Arthur, who is on the verge of celebrating his first ann'y as Main alley historian for the esteemed Brooklyn Eagle, is in a contrib's mood today. Arthur Ditto tells of a litle lad who ankled up to Santa Claus in a Fifth avenue dep't store and told him what he desired most for Christmas.

Later that afternoon he saw Santa again at another dep't store. Santa said:

"Well, my little man, and what do YOU want for Christmas?"

"Aw, nuts!" was the disgusted reply. "You forgot awready!"

Madrid Riots On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Pictures from revolt-torn Spain, in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, show scenes in Madrid during and following the elections. Thousands of women who go to the polls for the first time. After the victory of the conservative government the defeated radicals start revolting. In attempting to restore order many are killed. The Globe Trotter gives a description of the revolt.

Willie Macfarlane's victory in the $10,000 Miami-Biltmore open golf championship is shown. Macfarlane, playing against the doctor's orders, is seen making some of his amazing shots. There are also pictures of Gene Sarazen and Johnny Revolta in action.

In Los Angeles where high prices are paid for the winning cattle in the Western Live Stock Show, the blue-blooded steers from the Hearst Ranch at San Simeon carry off the honors.

All ready for the Rose Bowl battle on New Year's Day the Stanford and Columbia football teams pose especially for Hearst Metrotone News and go through their paces.

Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, in a talk at Dearborn, Mich., predict better business in 1934.

Woodsmen are shown cutting and shipping 2,000,000 Christmas trees from Pembroke, Me. One big tree is on its way to the White House for the President.

From Alton, Ill., come pictures of Robert Wadlow, 15 years old, 7 feet 10 inches tall, weighing 360 pounds and still growing.

Ski daredevils open their season at St. Moritz, Switzerland, with many amazing jumps and some terrific crashes.

Girls Uphold Powell on Marriage

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14.—Warner Brothers' attempts to get Dick Powell to sign a non-marriage clause for one year are meeting with varied reactions from the film beauties whom the singing star has been escorting to Hollywood social events.

Miss Muir

The two girls who have received most of Dick's attentions since Gwen Heller left here for the east are Jean Muir, former Broadway stage actress, and Margaret Lindsay, whose name the gossips recently were linking with that of Bill Powell.

Jean favors the "curb to romance" clause for Dick. She said:

"Good for that clause if it keeps him from making a mistake. I don't think the chances for a happy marriage are very favorable in Hollywood."

"It's his own problem," she commented, "but I don't think anyone has a right to tell a man he can't marry if he wants to."

Then there's Mary Brian, whom many people thought was Dick's best girl until a short time ago. Mary is cryptic on the subject.

"I think it's a good clause—if it works," she declares.

Meanwhile, there are some who contend that such a contract could be no more than a gentleman's agreement at best.

This gabby town agrees that Frances Dee and Joel McCrea are its most enterprising and unconventional honeymooners. The latest idea of the pair is to tour the Pacific Northwest in an automobile supplemented by a swank trailer. At a cost of $2,000, Joel is building a veritable bungalow on wheels. It will have hot and cold running water, writing desk, upper and lower sleeping berths, a kitchen and all the comforts of home.

Miss Dee

By the time Frances has finished her picture at Fox and Joel has completed his at Warners, the trailer will be ready. The newly-wedded pair then intend to start their gypsy tour which will continue until Joel has to return to Hollywood for his next picture at R. K. O.

One of the funniest stories of the week is told by Jack La Rue about his little nephew, Frankie Galione, who is wise beyond his seven years.

The other day Jack asked Frankie what he wanted for Christmas.

"Ah naah," said the youngster, "you wouldn't give it to me."

"Well, go on and ask me," said Jack.

"Well, if you really mean it, I'd like to have a little Mae West."

Nelson Eddy now strongly suspects that a detective agency engineered those mysterious threats against him in an effort to drum up business. Representatives of the agency solicited him two days after the incident, according to the singing star.

In any event, Eddy will be leaving here on a national concert tour as soon as he finishes his sequence in "Hollywood Party" at M. G. M.

Little Geneva Hall, the Kansas City winner of the "search for beauty" contest, is very sad that she didn't get the message of her father's death in time to attend the funeral. The telegram was delivered to the Paramount studio and, although the actress was living right in Hollywood with her mother, the news didn't reach her until too late. Miss Hall's parents were divorced and she came here some time ago to make her home in the film capital.

What's New on the Rialto To Be Discovered and Told via WCAE

By GEORGE SEIBEL

As I am writing these lines, I am ready to jump off to see what is happening on Broadway. It will be pleasant to let the New Yorkers know what they may expect when the new Ziegfeld "Follies" opens there on Christmas night in the Winter Garden. It will also be pleasant to let Pittsburgh folks know what good things are on view along the Great White Way—as I expect to do next Sunday morning at 10:45 over NBC and WCAE.

It will not be necessary to see O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness!" nor Anderson's "Mary of Scotland." Those plays had received the approval of Pittsburgh before they went to New York. But there are a number of dramas that look and sound exciting. "Men In White" is one of them; "She Loves Me Not" another. "Tobacco Road" may be worth while. "Peace on Earth" sounds as if it had an appropriate Christmas message. And there's a play called "The School for Husbands," by a young man named Moliere, which seems to promise a great future for that dramatist.

Mr. Seibel

Several things are in prospect for New Yorkers besides the "Follies." Fritz Leiber will open Christmas week as the Rabbi in the English version of "Yoshe Kalb." Jane Cowl is making preparations to return in a new play by Clemence Dane, entitled "Come of Age." Katharine Hepburn, the finest find of the pictures during the past year, is returning to the legitimate stage in a play called "The Lake," which opens Christmas Day. The season that began with a spurt, and came to a lull, will reopen with new vim during holiday week.

More of this will be told on the air next Sunday morning.

LE GALLIENNE'S HEDDA

It is unfortunate that Eva Le Gallienne did not play "Hedda Gabler" until Saturday night of last week. It was her finest performance. But it was too late to inform the public that missed it, for the Civic Repertory Company was on its way to Cincinnati before the public could have heard what it had missed.

Some critics in recent years have said that "Hedda Gabler" dates. They mean that the play appears to be old-fashioned in motivation. I was inclined to think so myself, as the vague scruples of Hedda are no longer fashionable in our age—perhaps not even in Oslo, where Ibsen later lived not far from Hedda's home.

Eva Le Gallienne talked to me about that criticism of "Hedda Gabler." She ascribed it to the fact that William Archer's translation was the one in general use. Archer was an Englishman—he was the Englishman who discovered Ibsen—and his translation, with its scrupulous scholarship, was a translation into Victorian English.

It is the Victorian English that dates. The style of Thackeray and Dickens is not the style of John Galsworthy and Sinclair Lewis.

Eva Le Gallienne got her mother, who is Danish, to make a new translation with the aid of Paul Leyssac, who played Tesman. This translation cleaned up the Victorian idioms; and the play seems as modern as anything O'Neill or Elmer Rice has produced during the last five years.

FORTUNE GALLO WRITES

That Lohengrin of impresarios, the never-daunted Fortune Gallo, writes me from New York that his 16 weeks on the road since the beginning of the season proved so successful that he is planning a new tour through the South. He will take his aggregation all the way to Texas and the Pacific Coast, returning by way of Denver and Chicago. In Chicago he will play a return engagement, encouraged by his tremendous success there earlier in the season.

Odds and Ends

I LIKE stories about hack drivers, and I trust you do not mind my using a few of them in this space. The latest, and one of the best, concerns a driver with the good old name of Mike Malone.

The other day Mike was cruising along Sixth avenue, in the upper Fifties. His cab was hailed by a middle-aged woman who told him to get to Grand Central station as rapidly as possible. If she missed her train, she said, she'd be in a great deal of trouble.

So Mike, ever the soul of gallantry, stepped on the gas and broke plenty of laws to get his passenger to the station as rapidly as possible. When he reached there, the meter registered 50 cents. The woman got out and gave Mike a half-dollar coin.

"I usually give a nice tip," she explained, "but it just so happens that I haven't another penny in change. If I had any change, I'd be glad to give it to you."

She turned away. But Mike, after one good look at the half-dollar, was out of his cab and right beside her.

"Just a minute, lady," he cried. "This coin is phony. I don't mind breaking the speed laws and passing red lights for you, and I don't mind if you haven't change for a tip. But the least you can do is to give me a good half-dollar."

The lady regarded him scornfully.

"Oh, you cab drivers," she scolded. "You're always causing so much trouble. Here, give me that half-dollar."

She took the coin. And the lady who had no change then proceeded to count out five dimes and hand them to Mike Malone! . . .

THIS is the time of the year when folks begin to remember their favorite Christmas gags. If you have one you'd like to see in print, send it along.

Mine has to do with the little lad whose mama took him to one of New York's largest department stores in order to see Santa Claus. The kid roamed around the toy department and paid very little attention to the be-whiskered gent.

Finally, when the boy had mounted a hobby horse and was rocking away to his heart's content, Santa walked over to him. He patted the child's head, spoke softly to him and then turned away.

That night, at home, daddy was given a full report of the day's excitement. He looked proudly at his son.

"So Santa spoke to my little man, eh?" said papa. "Well, wasn't that nice of him! And what did Santa say to my little man?"

"He said," replied the kid happily, "'get the hell off that horse!'" . . .

FROM Fred Kaplan, who can dig up old yarns from nowhere, comes the tale of the convict who was about 10 hours from electrocution. The warden, who was cordially hated by this particular prisoner, approached the condemned man's cell.

"I know you don't like me," he offered, "and I feel the same way about you. But it is my official duty to tell you that, as a man about to die, you can have your last wish granted. Is there anything you want?"

"Yeah," he growled, "and it's very simple. My only wish is that when Im sittin' in the chair and they turn on the current—you hold my hand!" . . .

AN interesting story lies behind two Broadway gentlemen named, respectively, George Givot and Patsy Flick. Givot, a likeable chap and an expert comedian, has been doing exceptionally well on radio, stage and screen with his hilarious Greek dialect.

It was Flick, however, who originated and taught Givot a great deal of this unusual dialect. The two men had originally intended to do an act together, but Flick fell ill before the routine had been assembled. So Givot went on alone.

George did a fine job of it. He was immediately successful with the dialect, and the stuff caught the public's fancy in short order. Flick was very ill for months. And when he finally left the hospital Givot was so well established that he would have been foolish to take on a partner.

Feeling that there was room for two Greek comics, Flick made an attempt to land the same work. But, aside from odd jobs, it was no go. Although he was a creator, Flick was looked upon as an imitator. It was a tough break for a guy who didn't deserve one.

Today Flick has finally scored. He is one of the outstanding hits in "She Loves Me Not," Broadway's foremost smash and one of the best farces ever written. And instead of playing the Greek character he knows so well, he is portraying a role that calls for a heavy Jewish dialect! . . .

AMONG the amusing sights of the day are the restaurant gentlemen who sold drinks for huge prices all through the prohibition regime—and are now compelled to cut those prices to meet competition. Some of them are puzzled. And many of them, especially the old-timers, are highly resentful.

In one eating place in the Fifties the owner attempted to carry on with the old prices for five days after repeal. Then the squawks became so heavy that he was actually compelled to cut his booze tariff. He summoned his head waiter.

"Beginning at once," he announced angrily, "the price of all drinks is 50 cents. I hate to do it, but I guess it's gotta be done."

"Very good, sir," returned the head waiter. "But are you sure you mean all drinks?" How about old-fashioned cocktails, with all those fruits and things?"

The boss scowled heavily. Then he pounded the table.

"Those are 50 cents, too," he asserted. "But listen—leave out the cherry!" . . .

MUSIC

Detroit Symphony Orchestra

Syria Mosque

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra played two exceptionally fine concerts yesterday. At the evening concert in Syria Mosque we heard music comparable with the best ever before given in Pittsburgh — Ossip Gabrilowitsch conducted and appeared as piano soloist.

Mr. Lissfelt

I have always contended that Gabrilowitsch is one of our most musical conductors in America. Gesture and that sort of showmanship never enters into consideration of his accomplishments, for when he plays piano or leads his orchestra there is evident only the most superb musicianship.

His playing of the Brahms D Minor Concerto last night was nothing short of dazzling; his directing of the "Scheherazade" Suite brilliant and often illuminating.

As pianist Gabrilowitsch has long been among the world's foremost players. Again there is nothing in his playing planned for mere display.

The meticulous attention to detail, the ultra musical quality of his tone, the sheer loveliness of his nuances, and then the majestic sweep of his phrase made the Brahms Concerto last night a masterly performance.

As novelty appeared a fine Choral and Fugue of Zemachson, a Russian emigre in America. There is clever scoring to begin with, a carefully planned climax from the opening woodwinds, the added brass and finally the strings in the choral.

The fugue takes its theme now from the solo violins and works its climax in contrast to the order in the choral back toward the woodwinds. It is smartly done. The themes have dignity and the entire impression is that of an extremely classic creation.

Ilya Schkolnik conducted for Gabrilowitsch during the concerto and fully deserved the whole-hearted acclaim given him. His solo violin playing during the Rimsky-Korsakoff suite was a virtuoso performance.

The afternoon concert in Carnegie Music Hall brought us both suites from Grieg's incidental music to "Peer Gynt" and the Sibelius tone poem, "Finlandia." Schkolnik conducted the entire concert and there already showed what we might expect of him at the evening concert.

His beat is firm and his playing so elastic that these little gems of Grieg took on a new meaning, prepared as we were so skillfully by the forewords of Edith Rhetts Tilton.

Henry Harris, Pittsburgh pianist, appeared as soloist at the matinee, playing the Beethoven "Ecossaises," three preludes and the C Sharp Minor Etude of Chopin, and the E Flat Rhapsody of Brahms, adding the D Flat Waltz of Chopin after a good round of applause.

Beethoven appeared in extremely charming manner, Chopin was more poetical than this player has heretofore made these miniatures, and his Brahms as always had fine breadth and dignified tone. In each appearance this young man shows how nearly and surely he is approaching front rank.

TAX UTILITIES M'MAHON ASKS

Chief City Assessor Thomas C. McMahon, addressing the Business Men's Association of the East North Side, urged taxation of public utilities here as a matter of fairness to other owners of real estate. He said in part:

"As a matter of fairness existing legislation ought to be changed to force public utilities to come across to the city with a lot of taxes. Although the railroads in the downtown and other Pittsburgh areas pay city taxes, none are contributed by the Fort Wayne and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads on the North Side."

Non-payment of such taxes, he said, was the result of an agreement by the railroads with old Allegheny before it was annexed to Pittsburgh.

PRIEST PAROLED IN CHECK CASE

The Rev. S. V. Tokar, pastor of SS. Peter and Paul's First National Czechoslovak Catholic Church, Ninth avenue, McKeesport, today entered on 18 months' parole granted by Judge Sylvester J. Snee after he pleaded guilty to eight charges of forgery of small checks, totaling $212.

The priest told the court he has four children and that the church was $1,200 in arrears in his salary. He said:

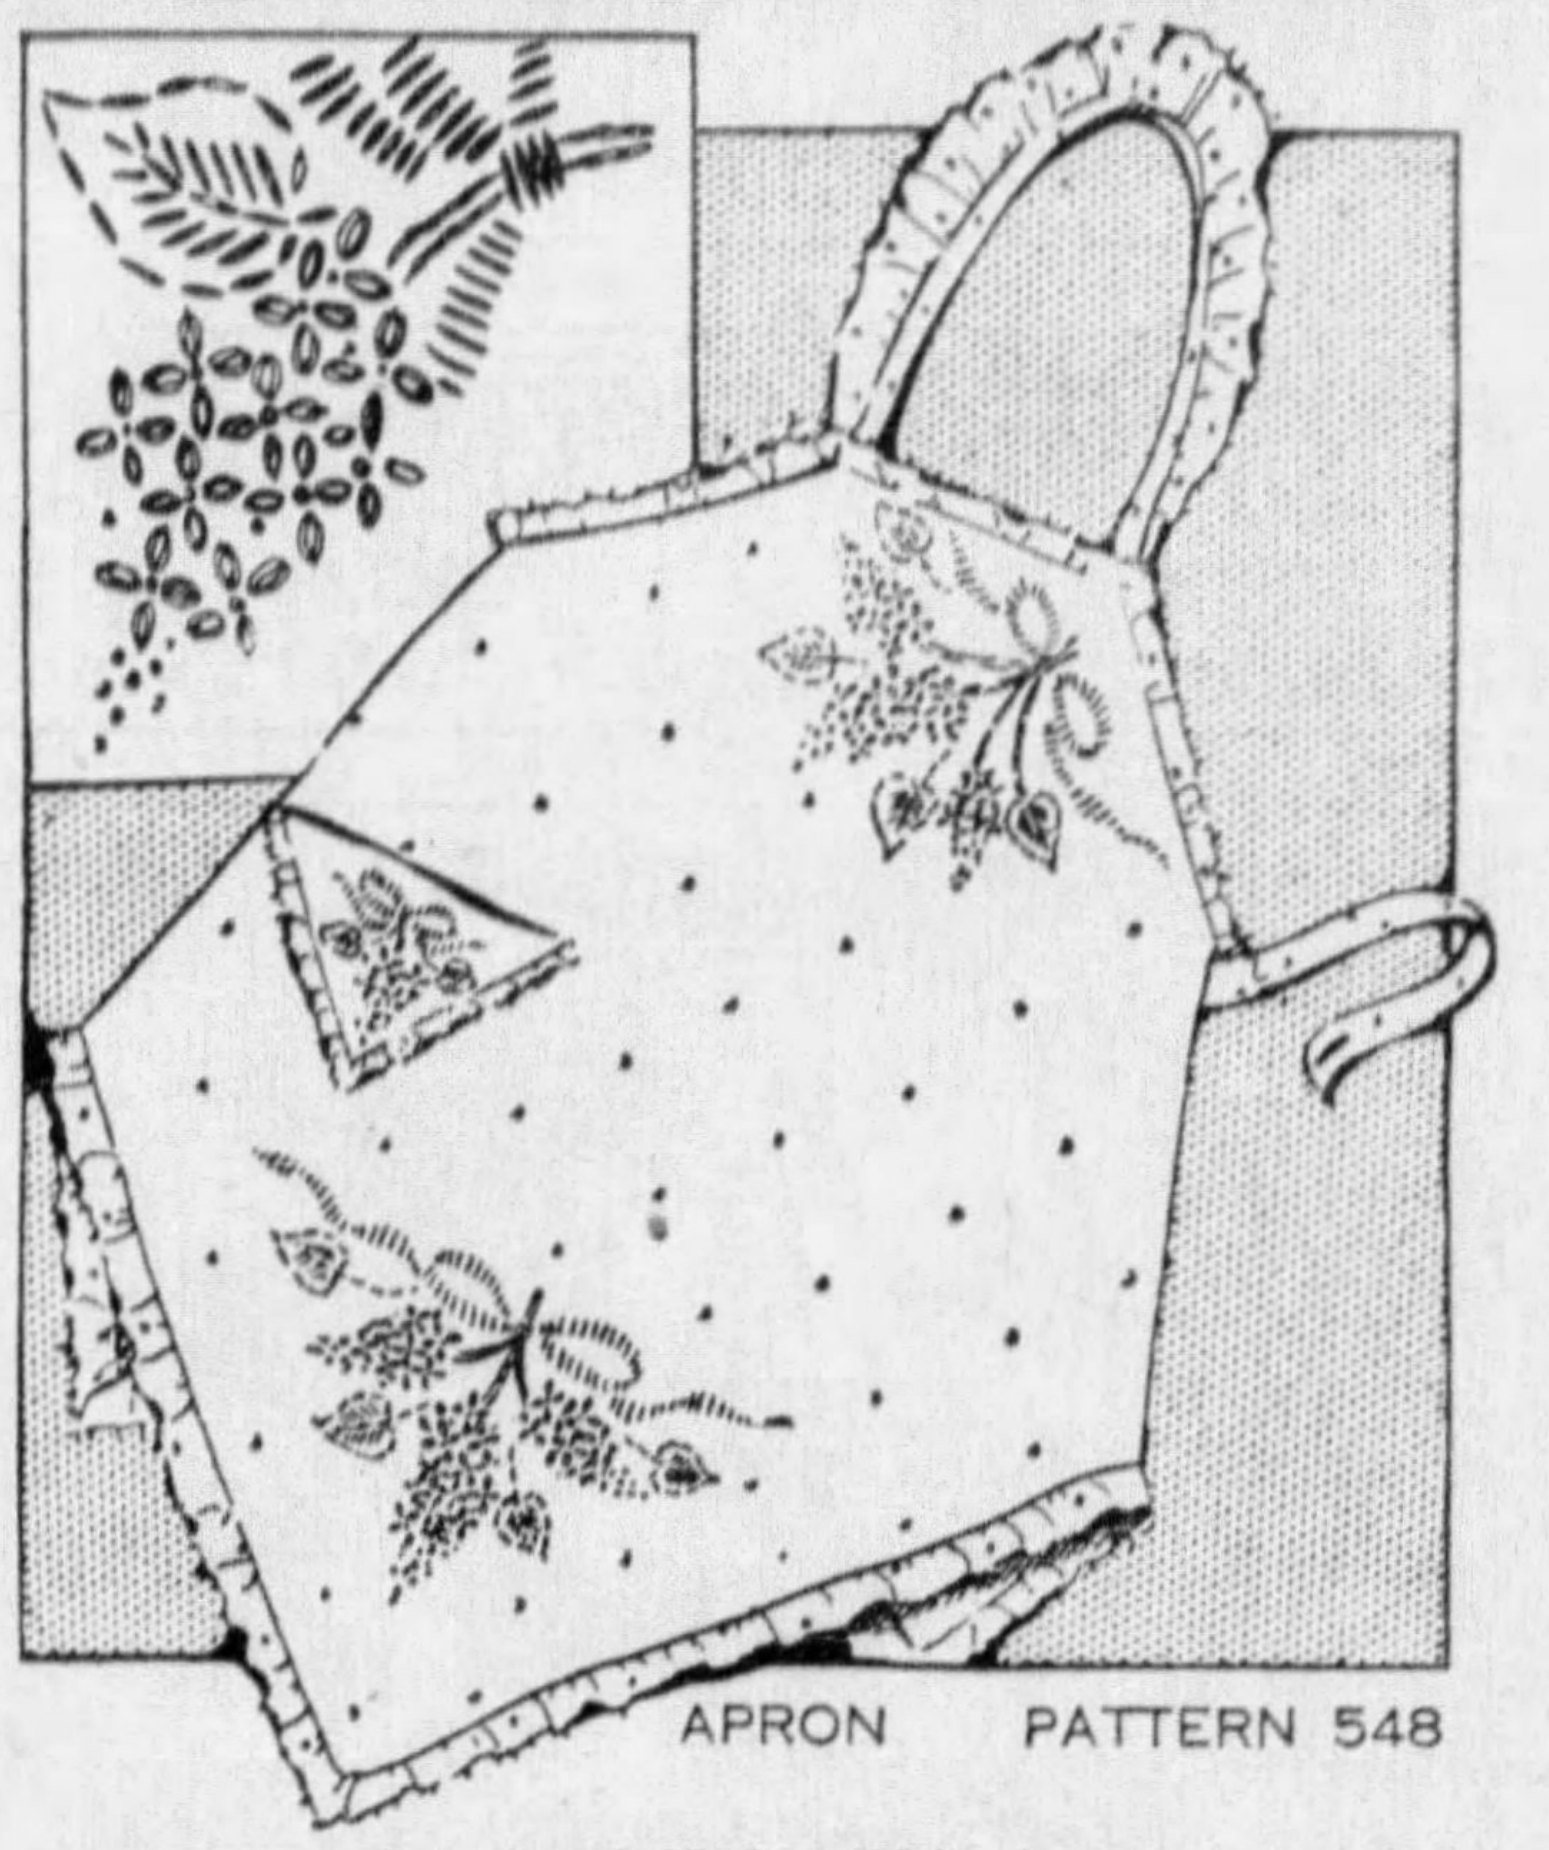
LAURA WHEELER DESIGNS



One Yard Makes This Apron

No housewife—and that goes even for the one with a one-room apartment—can have too many aprons. Here is an opportunity to dash off something charming and it may be a dainty one or a sturdy muslin apron, as you choose. It is made of a square trimmed up with ruffles of lace or of the material if it is made of organdy, dotted swiss or some other dainty material and bound with bias binding if the practical muslin is used. A simple ruffled bend makes a collar that is most flattering and the lovely lilac embroidery gives it the proper touch of decoration. These lilacs made of lazy daisy stitch and French knots are quickly made and are fun to do. You can choose either wool or rope silk and have them most effective.

Pattern 548 comes to you with a transfer pattern containing three lilac sprays 10 inches square and three smaller ones, detailed directions and yardages for making the apron and color suggestions.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Christmas Card Photograph

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have noticed at a local photographer's that they are making up Christmas greeting cards which have a photograph of the giver on one side and an appropriate greeting on the other. These cards really look very nice and I have been wondering as to whether sending cards of this type is considered good taste, and if so, to whom should they be sent? By this I mean, should the sending of such cards be restricted to relatives and close friends, or may they also be sent to relatives with whom we are not so intimate but still like to remember at Christmas? B.

This kind of Christmas card is a matter of personal taste, but I do think, as you apparently do, too, that if you do decide to have them, they should be sent only to relatives and close friends. This kind of card, with one's photograph on it, is such a definitely personal affair that it wouldn't, to me, seem appropriate for a general list. I think too that the similar idea of cards, when the photograph is also a personal one but one, say, of the doorway of our home or of the fireplace in the living room or of some other view or corner of the living room, or of the garden, is, in general, a more charming and appropriate picture to send on a card.

Congratulations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Would it be proper for me to send a card of congratulation to a young couple who have had an "addition to the family" if I know only one member? I went with the young man for a long while and when we broke off he went with another girl and they were married. I do not know her . . . in fact, I have met her only once, but I still like him and we meet occasionally. Please tell me what to do.

2—I have a young cousin (a young man) who has left for a theological seminary to study for the ministry. We meet and visit about once a year. His address at the seminary was sent to me. Would it be proper to write to him and congratulate him on his decision? If so, how should I word such a letter? C.

1—There doesn't seem to me to be very much point in your sending such a card.

2—By all means write this young cousin of yours a "cousinly" letter of congratulation on this fine decision of his. Tell him how splendid you think his plan is, how enthusiastic you are about it, how much you wish for his happiness and success in his studies and in his life, and how eagerly and devotedly you will follow his work.

COLDS ARE NOW REACHING OUT FOR VICTIMS!

Be Wise—Be Careful—Adopt This Simple Precautionary Measure!

Colds are increasing. In some sections Influenza is breaking out. Don't be alarmed, but don't be careless.

A cold is much easier avoided than cured! Do the sensible thing and adopt the ounce of prevention policy. Stay out of crowds as much as you can. Avoid coughers and sneezers. Dress warmly, keep your feet dry and sleep in a well-ventilated room.

Every morning and night take a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This will keep the bowels open and combat infection by cold germs.

Millions know Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine as an excellent cold remedy, but not enough know it is an equally excellent preventive. Learn its efficacy and keep a package handy all winter long as your "safety first" measure.

If you have already caught cold there is nothing better you can take than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It doesn't merely suppress the cold—it drives it completely out of the system. At the same time, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

For more than forty years, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Now in two sizes—30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and look for the initials L B Q stamped on every tablet. Reliable dealers will not try to sell you a substitute.

"HONEYSUCKLE" Is a Gorgeous Doll

Dear Little Girls:

"Honeysuckle" is 18 inches tall, just the right size the average little girl would like to cuddle up to. The word beautiful doesn't really describe her. She's more than beautiful—she's GORGEOUS.

"Honysuckle" has flexible rubber arms and hands and rubber legs that can be washed just the same as you would wash your baby brother's or sister's. And WHAT A SMILE! And behind that smile are the most lovable, most roguish eyes you ever looked into. They open and close and she rolls them from side to side like a real flirt. By pressing her legs or by moving her body forward or back, she says "Ma-ma" in the sweetest voice you ever heard. She's dressed like a little queen in dainty organdy and lace, with bonnet and shoes to match.

Oh, we forgot to mention her cute dimples, and just as this was written "Honeysuckle" looked up and seemed to say, "Yes, you forgot to tell them about my rubber panties."

"Honeysuckle" is really the DOLL OF ALL DOLLS, and she is going to be so easy to get for Christmas. Shall I save a "Honeysuckle" for you?

JOE BACH . . . MAY BE DUKES' NEW COACH

MICKEY COCHRANE CONNIE MACK LEFTY GROVE

Veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, Mack is parting with his star battery, Pitcher Grove and Catcher Cochrane, in another of the periodic breakups to which his clubs have been subject. Along with Grove and Cochrane go Max Bishop, Rube Walberg and George Earnshaw. The White Sox, Red Sox and Tigers are the beneficiaries. Heavy financial losses are given by Mack as his reason for disposing of these aces to other clubs. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

COACH LEAVES ALMA MATER WITH PLEASANT THOUGHTS AND HAPPY MEMORIES

'Willing to Step Out if It Is Better for Notre Dame, and Ready to Help Successor, Elmer Layden;' Will Send His Son to Irish Institution.

By HEARTLY W. (HUNK) ANDERSON
Former Notre Dame Football Coach.

In leaving Notre Dame, I can truthfully say that I have nothing but the highest regard for everyone connected with the school and nothing but the pleasantest memories of my years spent on the Notre Dame campus.

My playing career from 1918 to 1921 was a pleasure. It was a real pleasure to play under Knute Rockne and later to work under him as his assistant coach.

I was glad to return to Notre Dame in 1930, after two years as head coach at St. Louis University, and I was highly honored to step in as head coach after Rock's tragic death.

It has been a distinct honor to work with the football men of Notre Dame, both as assistant coach and as head coach. I have made some wonderful friendships among the many players I have coached, none more strong than those made during the past year with the fighting team of 1933. It seemed that nothing the players or coaches could do was able to stem the tide of defeats, but those players kept fighting, and they were rewarded with a glorious victory over Army in the last game for the 11 seniors who saw action in that contest.

The priests, students and professors, as well as my many close friends in South Bend, stood by me loyally and it always was a consolation to know that they were still my friends, win or lose. I am willing to step out now if it is better for Notre Dame, and I stand ready to help my successor in any way possible.

When my young son, William Heartly, Jr., is old enough to play football, he will play for Notre Dame. Little Hunk is just approaching the age of 3 years, but he's already learning to play guard.

Hunk Anderson

While Notre Dame won only three games, losing five and tying one, the Notre Dame system is not ready for discard by any means. Of the major teams using the Notre Dame system, very few had a losing season. Teams coached by former Notre Dame players won 100 games, losing 54. Of the 54 lost, 16 were lost to other teams coached by former Notre Dame men.

Alabama, coached by Frank Thomas, won seven games, lost to Fordham, which is coached by Jimmy Crowley, and tied with Mississippi, winning an undisputed claim to the Southeastern Conference title. Auburn, coached by Chet Wynne and Rog Kiley, broke even in this Conference and won five of its nine games.

Catholic University won six out of nine games, losing to two Notre Dame-coached teams, Holy Cross and Detroit.

LAUDS NOTRE DAME SYSTEM

Elmer Layden, at Duquesne University, lost only to Pittsburgh in 10 games. Fordham won six out of eight games, losing one to Slip Madigan's St. Mary's team. St. Mary's won five of its nine games, tying with Santa Clara. Santa Clara, coached by Maurice (Clipper) Smith, won three, lost two and tied one.

Harry Stuhldreher won seven games, lost two and tied one at Villanova. Detroit, under Gus Dorais, won seven games and lost only to Duquesne. Harry Mehre, at Georgia, finished fourth in the Southeastern Conference, winning eight of his 10 games. One defeat was at the hands of Auburn.

Dr. Eddie Anderson, in his first year at Holy Cross, won seven out of nine games, losing to Detroit. Charley Bachman, in his first year at Michigan State, won four, tied two and lost two. One of the defeats was at the hands of Detroit. Purdue under Noble Kizer, won six of its eight games, tying one and losing to Iowa.

North Carolina, Chuck Collins' team, finished third in the Southern Conference, breaking even in eight games. One defeat was at the hands of Georgia. Navy's greatly improved team won five of its nine games under Edgar (Rip) Miller. Washington, under Jimmy Phelan, won five games and lost four.

Frank Carideo's Missouri team, with only one victory in eight starts; North Carolina State, the team coached by Johnny Smith, and Notre Dame were the only teams coached by former Notre Dame players in the major circles to lose more games than they won. North Carolina State lost five games, tying three and winning only one.

I submit these records to show that the Notre Dame system still probably is the greatest of any being used today, although the success of any system depends upon a number of other circumstances.

MIDDLE WEST TOUGHEST GRID SPOT

Winding up the Middle Western football panorama, I stick more strongly than ever by my contention that the best football in 1933 was played in this territory. To clinch the point, let us look at the outstanding intersectional games of the fall. Chicago defeated Dartmouth, 39 to 0. Detroit defeated Catholic University and Holy Cross, losing to Duquesne. Drake lost to Temple, 20 to 14. Haskell lost to Temple, 31 to 0. Illinois, fifth in the Big Ten, lost to Army by only 6 to 0. Marquette tied West Virginia. Michigan defeated Cornell, 40 to 0. Michigan State defeated Syracuse, 27 to 3, and tied Carnegie Tech. Minnesota defeated Pittsburgh, 7 to 3. Nebraska defeated Texas and lost to Pittsburgh. Northwestern, which won only one Conference game, tied Stanford.

Notre Dame, defeated by Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh and Navy in the East and Southern California on the Coast, won a lucky game from Army's undefeated and untied team, 13 to 12. Ohio State defeated Virginia, Vanderbilt and Pennsylvania. Oklahoma defeated Texas and tied Vanderbilt. Purdue defeated Carnegie Tech. Wisconsin defeated West Virginia.

This brief survey covers the major Middle Western teams which played intersectional games. The score is predominantly in favor of these teams. The close scores in games between Middle Western teams indicates the evenness of competition and reflects the all-round superiority of football in this section during the past season.

ONLY FOUR HUB STARTERS OF 1932 REMAIN

In sharp contrast to the operations of Connie Mack in wrecking the powerful A's, a record job of building up has been performed by Eddie Collins and Tom Yawkey in reconstructing the Red Sox weaklings. The heads of the Boston Americans have set a new mark for player maneuvering this week. In the narrow span of two days, they hauled in such big fish as Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg, Max Bishop and Carl Reynolds, and unloaded eight of their old players in Bob Kline, Hal Warstler, Ivy Andrews, Smead Jolley, Dale Alexander, Curtis Fullerton, Harry Stumpf and Mel Alameda.

Eddie Collins

And that's only the latest chapter in the story of Boston's new deal. Previously, in the present off-season, the Hub chiefs put the skids under Manager Marty McManus, Pitcher Johnny Michaels, Outfielders Tom Oliver and Tom Winsett, Infielder Johnny Hodapp and Catcher Johnny Gooch. On the other side of the book, they signed Bucky Harris as manager, bought Outfielder Julius Solters, a Pittsburgher, from Baltimore, drafted First Baseman Eddie Morgan from New Orleans, and purchased Pitcher Fred Ostermuller from Rochester.

CLUB ALMOST WIPED OUT IN TWO YEARS

Within two years, the old Hub crew has been almost completely rubbed out. Of all the players who started the 1932 season with the Bosox, only four remain, these being Catcher Ed Connolly, Infielder Urbane Pickering, and Pitchers Bob Weiland and Justin McLaughlin. Pitchers Dusty Rhodes, Henry Johnson and John Welch, still on the roster, also were with the club that year, but did not join until after the start of the race.

Of the 1931 team, the only survivors are Catcher Connolly and Infielder Pickering. A real ball club now supplants the eighth-place outfit that lost 111 games in 1932 and the seventh-place team that lost 86 in 1933. Just about an all-time record for a quick make-over.

PICKS STRONG ITALIAN-AMERICAN ELEVEN

No country is able to boast a greater all-around sport record than Italy. There is hardly a branch of athletics in which stars of Italian birth or descent are not right up around the top. As usual, there were so many Italian-American players of exceptional ability in football this year that you could pick from their ranks exclusively a team comparing favorably with any of the all-star aggregations.

FINE TEAM OF SAME TYPE POSSIBLE HERE

That any other city could show as fine an array of Italian collegiate players as Pittsburgh is extremely doubtful. Not

YAROSZ ENDS FISTIC WORK FOR YEAR

Ted Yarosz and his manager, Ray Foutts, are back home from Boston, where they witnessed the Vince Dundee-Andy Callahan fight, and Holyoke, Mass., where Teddy defeated Tony D'Allesandro on Monday. The Monaca middleweight will not box again before the end of the year. He had a healing eye cut brushed up in the Holyoke bout and will lay off for a couple of weeks to give the skin a chance to grow over the injury.

Meanwhile, Yarosz has a number of offers for bouts. The Boston Madison Square Garden wants him for January 5, and is trying to dig up a good opponent for him; Milwaukee is after him to box Frankie Battaglia on New Year's Day, and New York's Madison Square Garden also is anxious to arrange a match for him.

ARENA CARD CHANGED

The card for the reopening boxing show at the Arena on the North Side tomorrow night has been changed to give the fans four six-round preliminaries instead of two sixes and three fours, backing up the Jimmy Smith-Young Terry 10-round main event.

Marty Gornick is in with Young Bordell in the semi-final, and Ray Winbush boxes General Burrow, Johnny Durso meets Johnny Birek again and Tony Di Piero tangles with Curly Klaas.

Tiger Joe Randall will meet an opponent to be named at Elyria, O., on January 15.

Gino Garibaldi will head the third straight wrestling card in Motor Square Garden next Wednesday night, it was announced today. His opponent will be Paul Jones, of Texas. Hans Kampfer, the German, will appear in the semi-final.

UMPIRES' WORK ATTACKED

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—George Gibson, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, aired his grievances against National League umpires at a conference between the managers and President John A. Heydler, of the National League, here yesterday.

Gibson cited several instances in which umpires at Forbes Field games in Pittsburgh had reversed themselves last season.

Skibo Icers Hold Second Drill Today

The varsity will be built around Fred Dubin, former Connecticut star; Paul Hudson, of Kiski; Charles Hauk, of Shady Side Academy; W. A. Adamson, of the Ontario Amateur Association, and C. Dixon, C. Dana and Frank Jeige.

Corum Tips Stuhldreher As Dartmouth Coach

By BILL CORUM
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—We're going to guess that before the week is out Harry Stuhledreher will be named the new head football coach of Dartmouth, which probably could have used him this past fall. The Big Green was pretty bad all season, to tell the truth, and the echo of the final whistle was still quivering through the autumn air when Jack Cannell announced his resignation and Dartmouth announced another new deal.

This new deal, apparently, is going to be largely Studledreher, just as the big new deal is largely Roosevelt. All of you remember Harry, of course. He was the jockey (quarterback) of the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame—Stuhledreher to Miller to Crowley to Layden. Lately he's been the coach at Villanova.

Remind me to send a telegram to the Mayor of Philadelphia warning him that he'd better get Connie Mack out of Chicago before he sells City Hall Square to Bob Yawkey.

Personal guess — Connie has made some extremly shrewd deals in this general house-cleaning. And, even if he hasn't, what right have the Philadelphia fans to squawk if they don't support his team?

PITT, PEABODY GET TROPHIES

The University of Pittsburgh football team, collegiate champion of Pittsburgh, and the Peabody High School eleven, champion of the City League, were presented trophies at the seventh annual luncheon given by the Chamber of Commerce to the local titleholders.

Pitt has won the collegiate trophy six times in seven years, while for Peabody it was the first time it had won the City crown.

Wettach, who accepted the trophy for the University of Pittsburgh; Principal D. E. Miller, of Peabody; Mayor John S. Herron, Elmer Layden, of Duquesne; Dr. John B. Sutherland, of the University of Pittsburgh, and Coach Richard S. Meyers, of Peabody.

The program was broadcast by stations KQV and WJAS.

MANOS DEFEATS KAUBEK

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Theos Manos, the city champion, today became a finalist in the Keystone Athletic Club invitation handball tournament, defeating Frank Koubek, also of the Keystone A. C., 21-16, 21-15, in their semi-final encounter on the K. A. C. courts.

On Saturday, Manos will meet the winner of the Parker Smith-Steve Meyers match, which will be played later today, for the championship.

Manos entered the penultimate bracket by dint of a hard-won victory over Carl Deberthine, up-and-coming Y. M. C. A. contender, 21-10, 16-21, 21-7. Koubek was pushed aplenty by his clubmate, M. P. Hinnebusch, but kept the situation well in hand at all times as far as the scoring was concerned and emerged on top by 21-15, 21-7 margin.

Myers hung up an impressive quarter-final triumph over Dr. Phil Lapidus, last survivor of the Y. M. H. A. troupe, 21-10, 21-12.

DUQUESNE MAY MAKE KNOWN COACH TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER

If an agreement with all concerned is reached between now and first course time, Duquesne University will announce the signing of Joe Bach as head football coach, succeeding Elmer Layden, at the annual alumni football dinner at Webster Hall this evening.

Bach, assistant to the new Notre Dame mentor for the past five years, is understood to have the inside track in the race for the position. More than 100 applications have been received for the job, but Bach is said to rate as first choice.

CALLAHAN UNCERTAIN

Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of the university, who is confined to Mercy Hospital with illness, said yesterday, after a conference with Vice President M. J. Brannigan and other university officials, that it had not been definitely decided whether the university would name Layden's successor at tonight's affair. Rev. Callahan said no agreement had been reached and that it was not likely one would be before late this afternoon.

The alumni, and there will be some 600 of them in attendance tonight, are hoping they'll be the first to hear the name of the new coach and the majority of them are pulling for Bach.

Bob Waddell, former coach at Carnegie Tech, is to be the principal speaker at the dinner. Others on the program will be Coach Layden, Bach, Father H. A. Carlin, Vice President Brannigan, who will represent President Callahan, and Leo J. McGlinchey.

PITT TEAM DEPARTS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Temple's basketball team defeated Johns Hopkins, 34 to 17, last night in the opening game of the season for both universities.

JACKETS DRILL FOR TORONTO

For several seasons the Leafs have been the Jackets' leading rivals for world championship honors. Toronto was nosed out by the Montreal Canadiens (the Yellow Jackets of today) in a playoff for the title last spring, and Sutherland expects tomorrow's battle to be the roughest and toughest of the season here.

The locals escaped serious injury in the game with Milwaukee Tuesday and are in excellent condition to defend their league lead.

BAILEY FIGHTS FOR LIFE

International News Service.

BOSTON, Dec. 14.—While Irvin (Ace) Bailey, Toronto Maple Leaf hockey star, was waging a fight for his life at Audubon Hospital today with a five-inch fracture of the skull and a cerebral hemorrage. Dr. Donald Munroe, brain specialist, conferred with Dr. Martin Crotty, Boston Bruins' physician, over the advisability of performing an immediate operation.

Bailey's condition was unchanged. He was still semi-conscious and on the dangerous list.

Mrs. Bailey and their young daughter rushed from Toronto to be at the bedside of the seriously injured player.

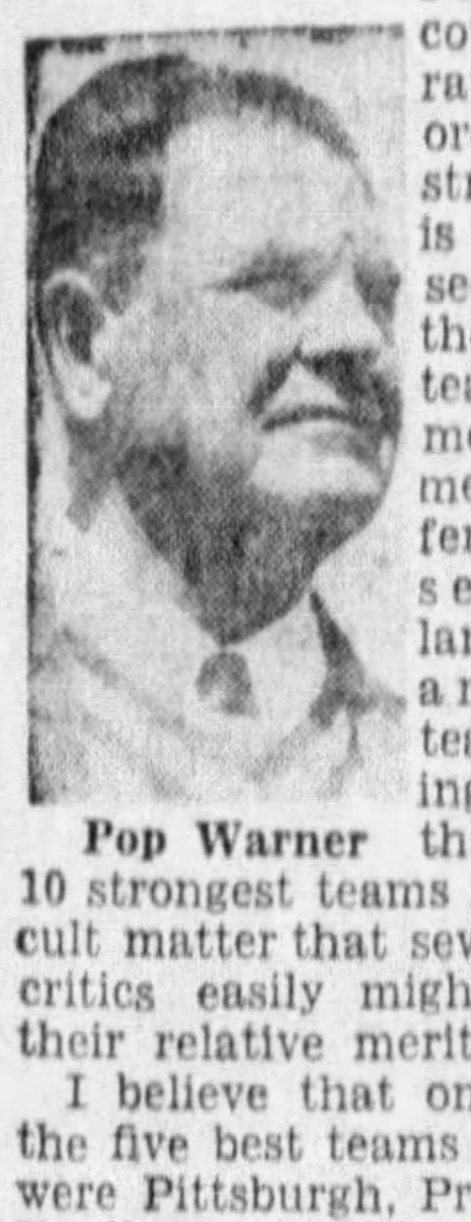
The Leafs right winger was knocked to the ice during the Leafs-Bruins game here Tuesday night when Eddie Shore, Bruin defense man, crashed into him. Shore, with seven stiches in his scalp from a bruise he suffered when Red Horner knocked him down, and Horner, were suspended indefinitely by Frank Patrick, manager of the National Hockey League.

Meanwhile, Connie Smythe, manager of the Toronto team, was at liberty in bail of $100 for trial on December 27, after he pleaded not guilty in District Court to a warrant sworn out against him by Leonard Kenworthy, a spectator at the Leafs-Bruins game. He charged that Smythe struck him in the eye, breaking his spectacles, while hurrying to the dressing room after Bailey was carried off the ice.

PITT ELEVEN BEST IN EAST, WARNER SAYS

DUKES RATED AHEAD OF COLUMBIA

By GLENN S. (POP) WARNER
Member, All-America Board of Football
(Reg. U. S. Pat. Office)



Pop Warner

It is much more difficult to dope out the comparative strength of football teams in the Eastern section of the country and to rate them in the order of their strength than it is in most other sections, where there are fewer teams and where most teams are members of conferences. The section is so large and there are so many teams not playing each other that picking the 10 strongest teams is such a difficult matter that several competent critics easily might differ as to their relative merits.

I believe that on their records the five best teams in this section were Pittsburgh, Princeton, Army, Fordham, and Colgate. None of these teams lost more than one game, and those single defeats were by very scant margins by very high-class opponents. Princeton was undefeated, but I would rate Pittsburgh the best team in the East because of coming through a much tougher schedule than Princeton with only a defeat at the hands of Minnesota by a very close score to mar the Panthers' record. I would rate Army third, Forham fourth and Colgate fifth.

DUKES RATED SIXTH

In the second group of five I would put Duquesne, Columbia, Bucknell, Boston College and Villanova, and I believe they should be rated in about that order. Duquesne lost only to a great Pittsburgh team, by a close score. Columbia, playing an easier schedule, lost only one game, by quite a sizable 20-0 score, to Princeton. Bucknell lost only to Duquesne and Western Maryland, two strong teams, by the narrowest of margins, while Villanova was only beaten by Bucknell and Boston College.

The highlights of the season from a national standpoint were Southern California's upset at the hands of Stanford, Notre Dame's unimpressive showing, and the Ramblers' great comeback in their final game against the Army.

SEASON OF UPSETS

It was a season of many upsets and many games in which there was little scoring by either team—this latter fact further emphasizes the fact that the defense has gradually been getting too strong for the offense. Numerous games were played in which only Dame Fortune decided the winner, and the number of undefeated teams was unusually small.

One reason for this and also for the many upsets was because teams were playing harder schedules this year than ever before. They did so because in numerous instances budgets required the revenue that only games with tough opponents every Saturday would bring in. Another reason was because nearly all colleges were represented by stronger teams than ever before. Even the so-called minor colleges have been improving their football teams so much that there are very few set-ups among them.

Hanley's selections follow: Robinson and Sid Gillman, Ohio State, ends; Bill Riley, Northwestern, tackle; Francis Schammel, Iowa; Joe Gallus, Ohio State, and Bob Jones, Indiana, guards; Chuck Bernard, Michigan, center; Joe Laws, Iowa; Paul Pardonner, Purdue; Herman Everhardus, Michigan, and Nick Lukats, Notre Dame, backs.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: AN EXTRAORDINARY FEAT OF MEMORY—The historian, Thomas Babington, Baron Macaulay, was a voracious reader in his boyhood and his power of memory was extraordinary. Forty years after reading two poems in the "poet's corner" of his country newspaper in 1813, he repeated the poems perfectly from memory. All during the 40-year interval, he had not recalled the poems even once, yet his recitation was as perfect as if he had memorized them only the day before.

TOMORROW: LOVE IS STRONGER THAN DEATH

SPORT VIGNETTES

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

The trouble with the Gates plan at Penn, it seems, is that it closes the door to victories. But Penn says there's no Harman that.

Just why Harry Kipke should want to quit Michigan, where he has had so much success, to coach at Yale is a mystery to the average man. But maybe he wants to combine business with pleasure and buy a lock.

Max Baer is said to be proud of his new title—the Mae West of the ring.

This will be a sad night in Duquesne University's football history, with the departure of Elmer Layden as head coach putting a damper on what should have been rejoicing over a fine season at the annual banquet. If Layden were going anywhere else than to Notre Dame he wouldn't be going at all, for every string would be pulled to keep him here. He turned down a job at Kentucky.

Layden's family comes first with him. The day he was named, unofficially, as the new coach at Notre Dame, he sat in his office, his wife at his side, and said:

"My home and my family are first in my thoughts. They come before team, school and myself. I have their future to think about."

Difference between lacrosse and boxing, they say, is lacrosse and doublecross.

Wrestling is all right so long as the grapplers don't think they're supposed to be resting.

Babe Ruth's All-America Board of Baseball meets in New York Sunday night, at which time the Babe may have an important announcement to make regarding his future.

Hunk Anderson does not discuss the gold standard or the NRA in his own story of his departure from Notre Dame in today's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, so don't be afraid to read it.

RING SHOW OFF

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 14.—Due to the poor condition of roads, many boxers scheduled to appear in the local trials of the Western Pennsylvania amateur boxing tournament were unable to do so, necessitating the calling off of last night's scheduled show.

GRID CONTEST ENTRANTS DO BIG JOB

Wow!

Wotta contest!

It ended last midnight—the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph All-America Football Contest, the winners of which will receive All-America football blankets.

It's a good thing the contest is over now, or Uncle Sam never would get around to delivering his Christmas packages. Sack after sack of letters has been deposited in the Contest Editor's sanctum until he has had to yell for help to get out for a bite to eat.

TEAM APPEARS SUNDAY

It will be days and days before he'll finish sorting through the letters and picking the 10 winners, so you'll have to be patient with him.

The All-America Board of Football's team, against which the letters will be checked, will be published next Sunday, but the task of checking the entries in the contest will extend many days after that. It will be a thorough job.

You'd be surprised how many of the contestants have gone to a great deal of trouble to do a neat job on their efforts. One of the entrants has sent his contribution in the form of a large blueprint, with figures of football players sketched in. Others have cut out pictures of the players named from booklets, magazines and newspapers, and pasted them alongside the names of their heroes, while still others have done the work in colors.

WATCH FOR DATE

Foxx Denies Yarn Naming Him as A's Holdout

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Jimmy Foxx has denied a published report he had demanded from Connie Mack a salary of $40,000 before he would put on an Athletic uniform in 1934. He said:

"I've never said anything to Mr. Mack about a new contract. I am waiting for word from him."

According to a Philadelphia newspaper, Mack refused Foxx's demand for $40,000 a year, but invited the slugger to discuss the matter with him again. The newspaper quotes Foxx as saying:

"You can't blame a fellow for asking when he thinks he deserves it. Ruth got $52,000 last season and I am sure I can hit them as far and more often than Babe did. Why shouldn't I get a little of that money they are passing around?"

SEALS ON AIR TONIGHT

A sports melange is the weekly radio offering of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight.

Harry Keck, sports editor, will fill the bill, and he'll deliver a sports talk mixed with poetry. There will be a tribute to the race horse of the year, the great Equipoise, and another for the bowlers—a takeoff on "Casey at the Bat" of baseball fame.

Tune in at 7. It's a 15-minute program.

Pitt Turns Down New Orleans Game

The University of Pittsburgh has declined a bid to play Louisiana State University in a New Year's Day football game at New Orleans.

W. Don Harrison, Pitt athletic director, notified the Southerners that their offer came too late to receive consideration, the squad already having been disbanded.

CENTRAL LEAGUE CLUBS MEET SATURDAY

By TOM BIRKS

With only a single soccer game carded for Sunday afternoon, that being the national open challenge cup battle at Greenlee Field, with Morgan, local member of the Keystone League, meeting the Rochester Celtics, of Rochester, N. Y., soccerites will have a fine card of Central League games on Saturday afternoon to whet their appetites for the important game the following day.

At the Westinghouse High School Field, Clan Douglas and the undefeated Arsenal eleven will meet in an effort to settle that unfinished game that terminated so abruptly at the Butler street grounds a few weeks ago.

Arsenal looks better as the season rolls along. Duff is playing a great game at center halfback, Sammy and Angus Grey are leading a very capable line composed of Eicher, Green and Smith.

Old Carnegie has a chance to play a game at home with Aliquippa providing the opposition. The Rovers go to Warrington Playgrounds to meet Beltzhoover, and the Union Switch and Signal aggregation travels to Ambridge to meet the Bridge Workers.

Really Fresh Eggs

New Plan Effective Dec. 14th Will Assure You Eggs Averaging From One to Five Days Fresh!

THE most sensational announcement, so far, in the improved food and service campaign of the Thompson Restaurants in Pittsburgh . . .

Thompson's have always served Fresh eggs—judged by any standard. Now a step further and a guarantee to serve only "Extra Quality" Fresh eggs, according to official Pennsylvania gradings.

For months we have been perfecting a system of gathering eggs from nearby Pennsylvania farms and delivering them direct to our restaurants. You can see the size of this task when you know that the normal requirements of Thompson's restaurants in Pittsburgh are approximately fifty thousand eggs each week!

So much easier to buy and sell the usual "Fresh" eggs and let well enough alone . . . But you know the Thompson policy, and we're off . . . Here's a better egg!

In the 20 years these restaurants have been in Pittsburgh they have never enjoyed such a faultless system to guarantee such marvelous eggs as these.

YOU who know, love and demand the finest possible eggs are invited to enjoy them at Thompson's

MAGNATES MEET

STANDARD BALL QUESTION UP AT CONFAB

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Major league club owners drew off by themselves today for their joint meeting, while the traders gathered around to get in their last licks before the annual pow-wow broke up.

Foremost on the program of the joint meeting was the discussion of a standard baseball, and it was expected that both leagues would be committed to the use of a similar sphere by the time the meeting ended. Five of the six National League managers present yesterday took the initiative in the movement, recommending that a livelier ball be adopted. Only Bill Terry, leader of the World Champion New York Giants, voted against the recommendation, which was not unexpected considering the capable way in which his hurlers maneuvered with the less lively ball used in the league last summer.

TRADING HEAVY

Trading continued at a record clip again yesterday, and there was plenty of life in the pastime today. The St. Louis Browns, with Rogers Hornsby doing the negotiating, headed the list yesterday. He traded Outfielder Carl Reynolds to the still unsatisfied Boston Red Sox for Pitcher Ivy Paul Andrews and Outfielder Smead Jolley. He no sooner had his hands on Jolley than he included the big slugger in a deal with the Hollywood Stars for Shortstop Allen Strange. The Browns also parted with Pitcher Wallace Hebert and Shortstop Jim Levey in the transaction. Hornsby called it a day after buying George Puccinello, former Cardinal outfielder, from Rochester.

Boston kept busy by sending Dale Alexander, who won the American League batting title in 1932; Pitcher Curtis Fullerton and Outfielders Harry Stumpf and Mel Alameda, to Kansas City, of the American Association. The Red Sox also entered into a working agreement with Kansas City, which engaged Roger Peckinpaugh, former pilot of the Cleveland Indians, as manager.

TIGERS GET GOSLIN

Detroit traded Jonathan Stone, a young outfielder, to Washington for the veteran Leon (Goose) Goslin, and sent Infielder Bill Rhiel to Montreal. The New York Yankees purchased Harry Smythe, a left-handed pitcher, from Baltimore for cash and a pitcher.

Still hanging was a deal involving the Yaskees and Chicago. The Yanks wanted Shortstop Luke Appling and were reported ready to give up Charley Ruffing, right-handed pitcher; Outfielder Sammy Byrd and Shortstop Lyn Lary. The Sox were said to be holding out for Tony Lazzeri instead of Lary.

The Cubs and Chuck' Klein came to an agreement on salary terms. His salary was reported to have been fixed at somewhere between $21,000 and $28,000. The Phillie management said Burt Shotten was still manager, but the latter did not attend the meeting and rumors insisted that Jimmy Wilson, obtained in a recent trade with St. Louis, would lead the team next year.

The all-star inter-league game, first played in Chicago last summer, will become an annual feature, and the 1934 renewal probably will be played in New York.

Ferrara Ineligible For Bowl Battle

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Continuing their indoor practice, Columbia's regulars had a letup yesterday in the hard work of preparing for the Rose Bowl football game against Stanford.

The first team did not engage in contact work during the two-hour session but went through a drill on fundamentals and spent most of the time running through signals. Al Ciampa alternated with Newt Wilder at center for the regulars, while Joe Richavich replaced the ineligible Joe Ferrara at tackle. It was the first move toward breaking in a substitute for Ferrara, who has been declared ineligible due to scholastic difficulties.

MANAGER APPOINTED

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 14.—Guy Sturdy, first baseman of the Little Rock team of the Southern Association last year, was chosen playing manager of the Johnstown team of the Middle Atlantic League.

EQUIPOISE . . . . YEAR'S GREATEST STAKE RACER

SPORTS COMMENT

By JAMES J. LONG

only do local fans feel that the above lineup could be improved by the insertion of some of the men aside from Burzio, who played on Pittsburgh elevens this year, but they challenge any other town to produce from its college ranks a team to equal one that could be selected here.

There are Walton, of Pitt, and Niccolai and Vidoni, of Duquesne, for the tackles; Burzio, of Carnegie; Rado, of Duquesne, and Onder, of Pitt, for the guards; Ciccone, of Duquesne, for center; Bevevino, of Carnegie, and Cutrona, of Duquesne, for quarterbacks; Sebastian, of Pitt, and DeLuca, of Duquesne, for the halfback posts, and Zaninelli, of Duquesne, for fullback. Chapella, of Duquesne, is the only end available, but in a pinch you might fill the hole at the other terminal with one of the two quarterbacks available.

ZOMBRO'S WIN RECALLS OTHER LONG SHOTS

Horseracing followers still are fanning about the luck of those who had a ticket on Zombro when that runner scored his surprising victory at Charles Town last week. Each $2 mutuel on him paid $590. However, it was by no means a record. Turf veterans recall that the greatest winning pay-off horse in the United States in the last 25 years was Wishing Ring, at the Latonia track on July 17, 1912, when the holder of each $2 mutuel ticket hauled in $1,884. The largest sum ever paid for a place ticket was $970 for $2 on Baal at Hialeah Park, February 4, 1932.

The world record long shot was 3,400 to 1 at Haydack Park, England, four years ago. Mrs. Answorth, wife of a Liverpool physician, bet two shillings on Coole to win a hurdle race and collected $1,705 for the equivalent of 50 cents. The record double pay-off was $4,678.80 for a $2 ticket on Escobilla and Hoatzin at Agua Caliente, Mexico, on August 27, 1931. A $2 daily double on J. George and Lilac Bloom at Fairmount Park on September 22, 1932, paid $4,330.92, the American record.

TIP JAP SWIMMERS TO SWEEP OLYMPICS

That the United States will have to get busy and make a great advance in swimming in the next two years, or see the Japanese natators sweep the Olympic Games in 1936, as they almost did in 1932, is the tip of three globe-trotting diving stars. Farid Simaika, the Egyptian champion; Harold (Dutch) Smith and Ralph Summeril, who have returned to Los Angeles from a diving tour of 16 countries, report that they were greatly impressed by the continued progress of Japanese swimmers, and predict the Japs will be ripe for a complete clean-up in the next Olympics unless the development of American talent is speeded up in the meantime.

Simaika, Smith and Summeril gave exhibitions in Japan, China, the Philippine Islands, Colombo, Aden, Egypt, Italy, Hungary, Austria, Poland, Belgium, France, Spain, Germany and Central America. They are agreed that Japanese and Polish amateurs are better organized than the athletes of other foreign federations and that more champions should be developed there as a result. Germany, they feel, ought to produce the best divers among the men, though more women than men take part in swimming and diving competition in that country. It is predicted Japanese women divers will provide dangerous competition for American women. Italy is conceded by the touring trio to have the most beautiful swimming pools in the world.

New Boxing Board Tangle Develops

Commenting upon a report from Harrisburg that he was not authorized to act as boxing commissioner for the Western Pennsylvania district, since he was not confirmed by the Senate after being named by Gov. Pinchot to succeed Havey J. Boyle, on November 29, Dr. W. D. McClelland today was non-committal and said he would act upon instructions from Harrisburg.

Dr. McClelland's name was withdrawn when it was opposed by Senator James J. Coyne in the Senate, and it is understood he will be given a recess appointment by the Governor when the Legislature adjourns next week.

Ponzi Holds Top In Cue Tourney

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Although not highly rated in the advance dope, Andrew Ponzi, Philadelphia Italian, today was the man to beat in the world pocket billiards title tournament.

He had a close call yesterday, lagging a long way behind Charles Seaback, of Astoria, N. Y., but rallied to win, 125 to 109, in 25 innings for his fifth straight victory.

MONEY POLICY DIRECTED BY PRESIDENT

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Gradually the administration has served notice on the country that President Roosevelt—and not Prof. George F. Warren, of Cornell—is directing the monetary policy of the United States.

Mr. Rukeyser

These signs have been definite.

In the first place, the Treasury let it be known recently that it is not taking advice from Professor Warren exclusively.

Then, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, in his excellent address in New York last week, indicated that the President had approached the Warren theory with intellectual detachment, not as a convinced disciple.

DOGMA REPUDIATED

Finally, in his admirable message to the Federal Farm Bureau Federation, President Roosevelt in effect repudiated the Warren dogma that manipulation of the price of gold is enough to cure our price woes.

The President indicated:

"It is of the utmost importance that we guard against letting a rise in farm income tempt us to forget the realities of supply and demand."

As a matter of fact, the Roosevelt administration, far from staking all on monetary dogmas, has proceeded in a vastly more business-like manner than the predecessor administration. Under Hoover, the Federal Farm Board sought to aid the farmer by buying up crops, without assuring a correction of the oversupply, which had hurt prices, through crop reduction measures.

Even on the day that he announced the new gold policy, Mr. Roosevelt indicated that it was only one of a series of plans. He declared that a prime objective was to get farm prices better in line with the general price level, and in the nature of things that could not be accomplished by monetary manipulation alone.

In this new technique of seeking to meet the problems of government and business in the spirit of applied science, the President naturally calls upon various consultants for advice. This does not mean that he takes over hook, line and sinker the recommendations of each adviser.

DIFFERS WITH WARREN

A "new deal" economist, who, however, differs radically with Prof. Warren's thesis of the relationship between the price of gold and the price level, pointed out:

"The advocates of the commodity dollar maintain that when the output of gold increases, then after a lapse of years the general price level tends to rise. Correspondingly when the output of gold declines the general price level tends to decline. However the correlation between the output of gold and the general price level has been shown by Dr. R. S. Tucker to be without foundation. The commodity dollar advocates utterly ignore in their interpretations the factors of changes in the demand and supply, due to technical advances, war, etc. However, in granting even the assumption that there is a correlation, the question arises whether changes in the output of gold produce changes in the general price level or the reverse.

"The answer is simple, as any gold miner can testify. In periods of depression there is a fall of commodity prices, of wages and of costs of mining gold. When the selling price of gold is fixed, as under the old gold standard, declining production costs result in an increase of profits to the gold miner. In a depression, when the selling price of everything else is falling, the fixed price for gold makes the industry unique. Furthermore in depressions there is generally talk of changing the currency and as a result gold is hoarded and is in demand.

MINING STIMULATED

"Therefore during a depression gold mining is stimulated. The demand for gold is practically without limit, as the world's mints will buy all the gold that is offered. Mines are then prospected and mills are enlarged. After a reasonable lag the new properties begin to produce. Gold production rises. Then because of the general economic readjustments, as of supply and demand for commodities, the depression passes. As business recovery ensues, commodity prices rise; wages are raised; the cost of producing gold increases; profits from gold mining decrease; the industry becomes checked. In other words, the fluctuations in the output of gold are the result and not the cause of the business cycle.

"The actual sequence of events is very clear. A rising output of gold is caused by falling commodity prices and greatly declining costs of mining. To attempt to reverse this chain of events and to say that a rising output of gold produces rising commodity prices and prosperity is to ignore the experience of gold miners throughout the world. Chanticleer crows when the sun rises. His crowing does not make the sun rise."

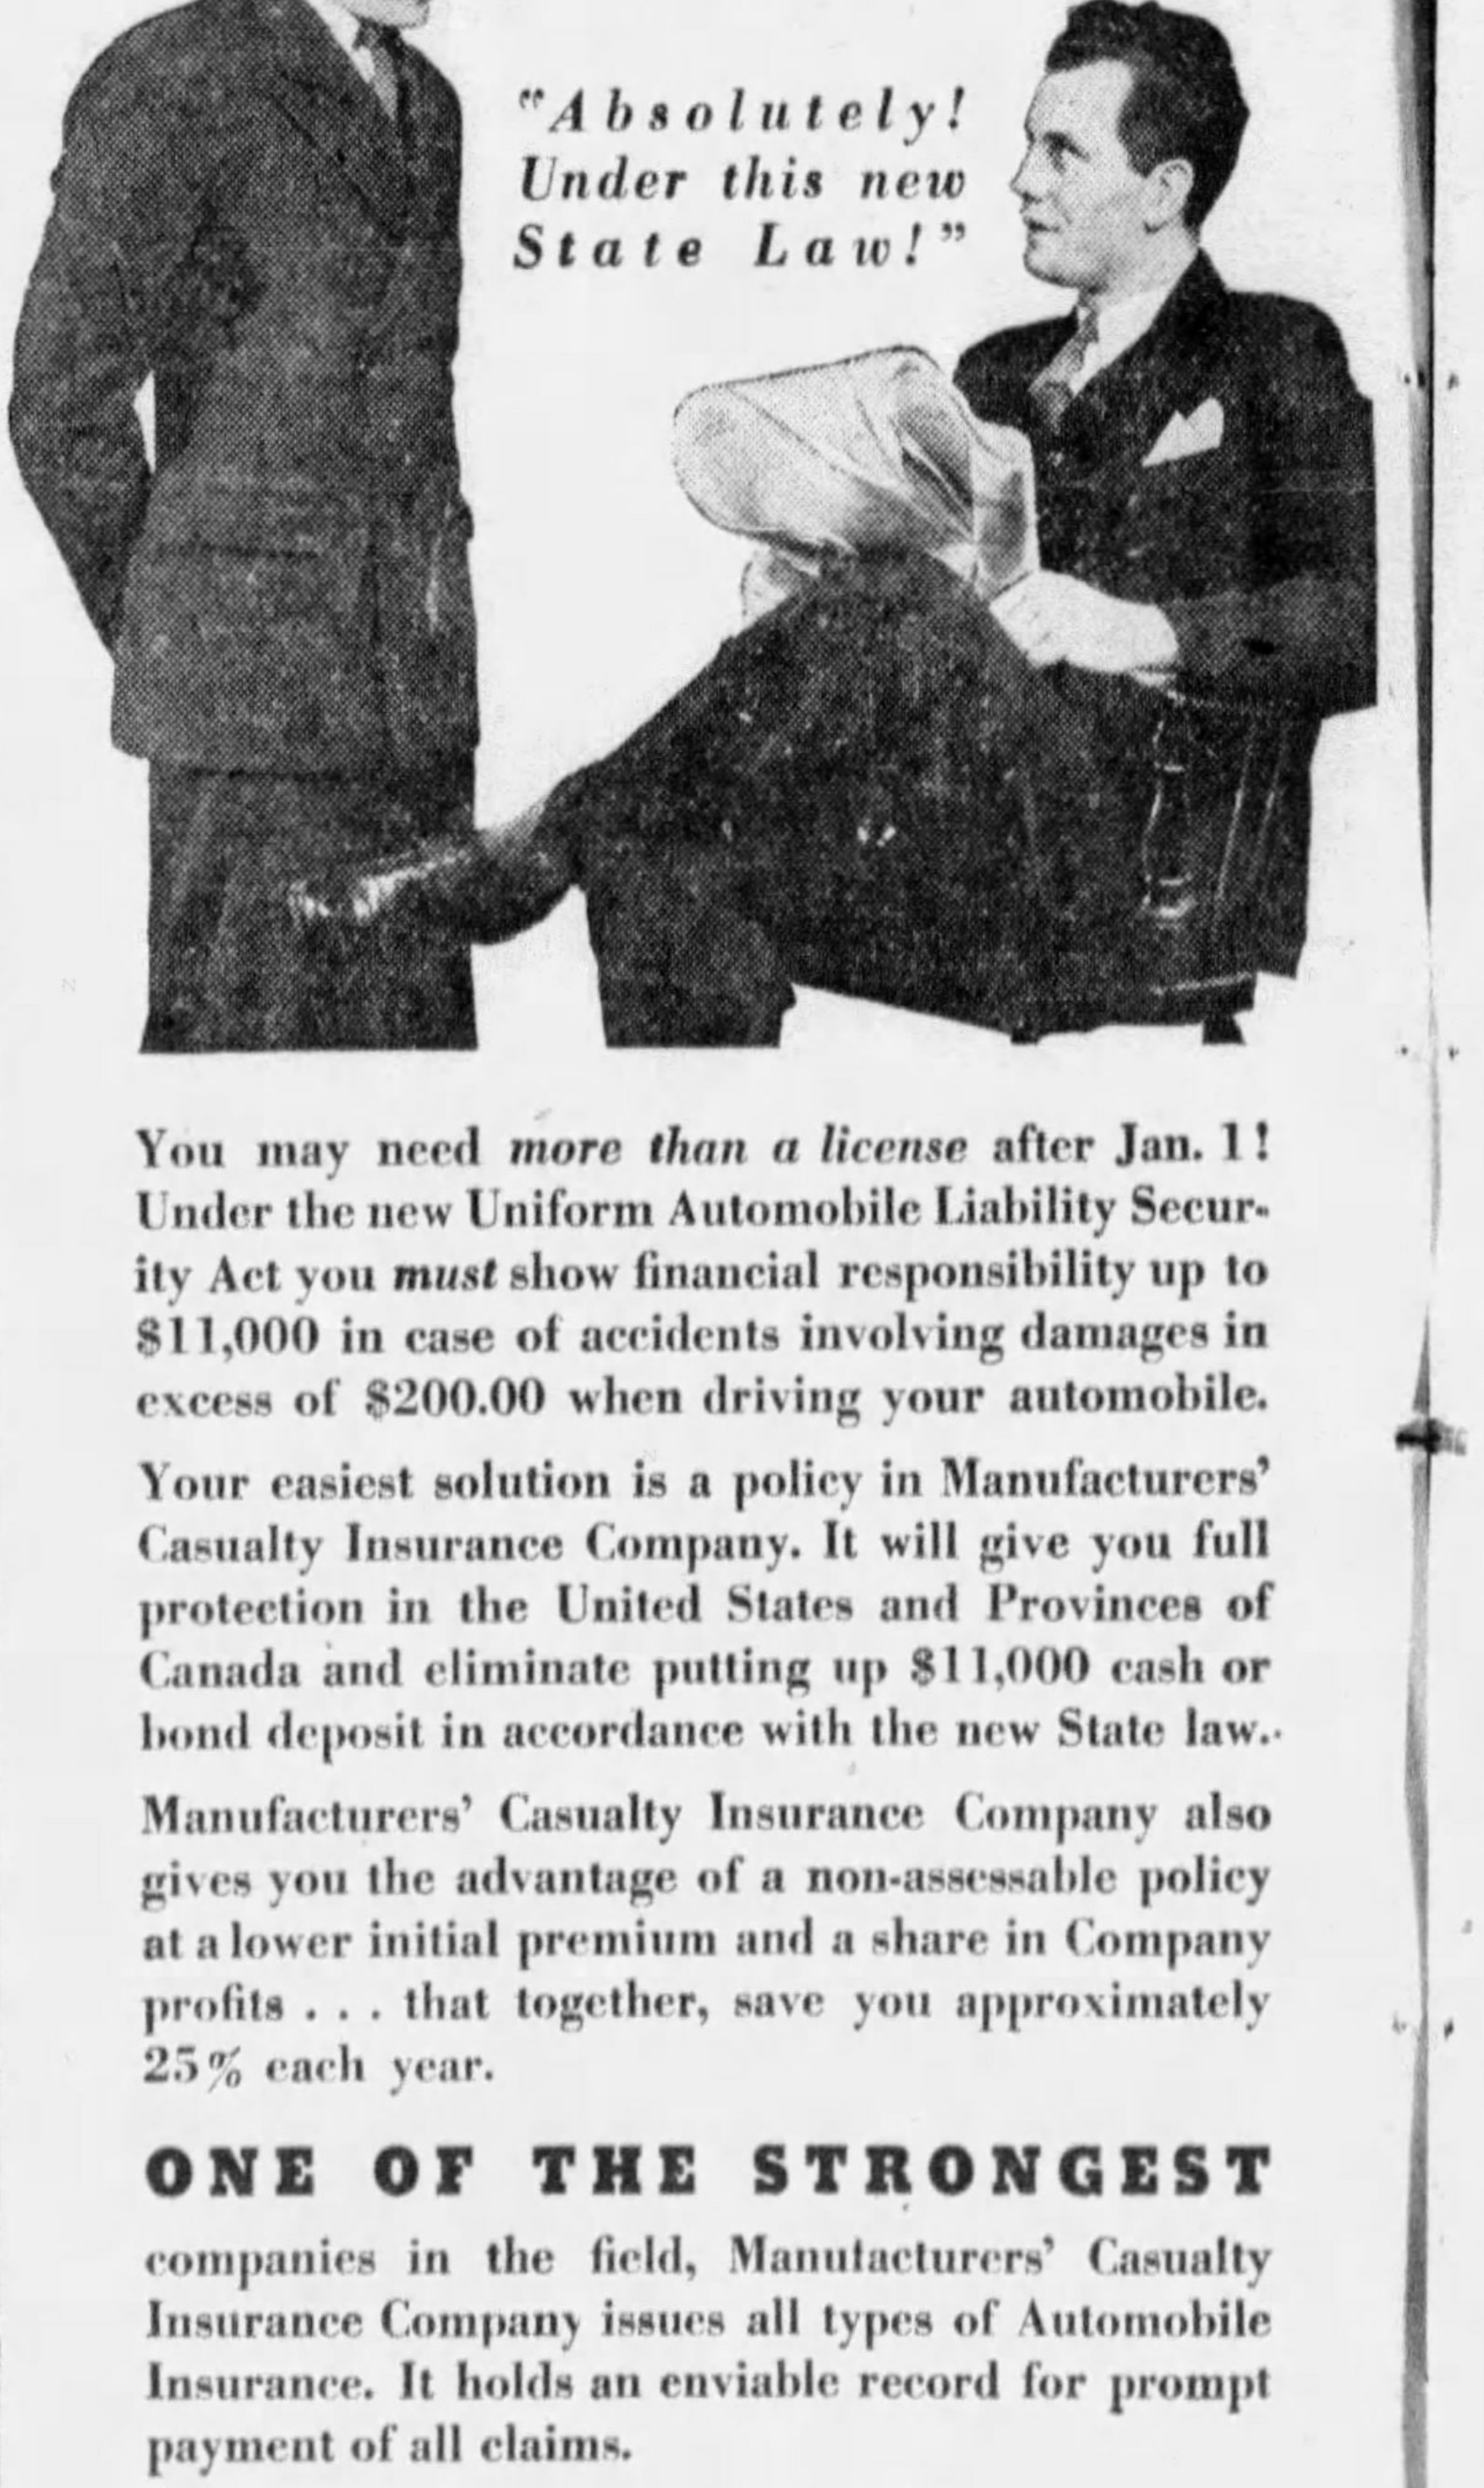
Meeting Notices

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 13, 1933.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the MONESSEN SOUTHWESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY will be held at the principal office of the company, No. 700 Union Trust Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., on Monday, January 8, 1934, commencing at 3 o'clock p. m., for the election of a president and a board of directors to serve for the ensuing year, and such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

RAY MAXWELL, Secretary.

WILL YOU BE AN EXCEPTION?



"You mean I'm liable to lose my driver's license?"
"Absolutely! Under this new State Law!"

You may need more than a license after Jan. 1! Under the new Uniform Automobile Liability Security Act you must show financial responsibility up to $11,000 in case of accidents involving damages in excess of $200.00 when driving your automobile.

Your easiest solution is a policy in Manufacturers' Casualty Insurance Company. It will give you full protection in the United States and Provinces of Canada and eliminate putting up $11,000 cash or bond deposit in accordance with the new State law.

Manufacturers' Casualty Insurance Company also gives you the advantage of a non-assessable policy at a lower initial premium and a share in Company profits . . . that together, save you approximately 25% each year.

ONE OF THE STRONGEST companies in the field, Manufacturers' Casualty Insurance Company issues all types of Automobile Insurance. It holds an enviable record for prompt payment of all claims.

STOCKS PLOD FORWARD IN DULL TRADING

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Stocks plodded upward today, stepping slowly but firmly as the gold price continued static and dollar "pegging" rumors formed the principal topic of discussion in trading circles.

Despite the unchanged gold price, the dollar dropped rather sharply in foreign exchange dealings. Sterling rallied about 6 cents and the French franc gained more than .1 of a cent. At the same time, wheat and the other cereals were just about steady and cotton showed no especial exuberance.

Silver and rubber improved. Bonds were quiet and mildly mixed. A few equity specialties showed pronounced strength, but general gains ranged from fractions to around 2 points. The volume was little greater than that of the previous session.

While Wall street appeared somewhat disappointed that the gold rate was not given a small tilt—there were many rumors late yesterday that this would be done—the financial district seemed resigned to currency stabilization possibilities. The opinion was expressed in some quarters that, notwithstanding Treasury denials, conversations between Washington, London and Paris had been under way for several days. Leading bankers, however, were skeptical regarding any immediate monetary agreement.

Reports from the capital that Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, one of the chief exponents of the cheaper dollar, had again demanded that no stabilization be attempted at the present dollar levels, were extremely interesting to those trading circles which believe, with the solon, that at least a 50-cent basis must be reached if commodity prices are to be raised to the desired peaks. There was some talk of betting in the board rooms on stabilization, but wagers of this sort, if there were any, were unconfirmable.

Aside from the monetary problem, market observers were watching closely the apparent growth of the national budget. Word from the capital that the administration would ask Congress for between $5,000,000,000 and $6,000,000,000 at the coming session offered little surprise to the financial section. Evidence of the growing need for funds to promote the recovery program was seen in the report of the RFC, which showed a distribution of $598,118,403 during October.

WHEAT CLOSES AT DECLINE

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Notable setbacks of grain markets took place late today following a moderate show of strength earlier.

Weakness of corn became a decided bearish factor, with considerable stop-loss selling in evidence. Large receipts of corn at northwestern markets attracted attention, together with reports that farmers in Monnesota and South Dakota were reluctant about accepting the government loan policy as to corn.

Wheat closed nervous, -1½ under yesterday's finish; corn, ⅝-⅞ off; oats, ¼ down to ⅛ up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12 cents.

Foreign Exchange Fluctuations Again Noted as Influence in Stock Market

The action of stocks in the last day or two and again this morning tended to indicate that traders are again keeping rather close watch on the fluctuations in sterling exchange. At least, it is poinetd out, the flurry of selling which came into the list yesterday coincided with a dip in British exchange. And early activity on the side of the advance today was accompanied by strength in exchange on London. Easing of sterling after announcement that our gold price was unchanged reflected in a simmering down of interest in stocks. Traders apparently are watching exchange closely in consequence of reports which have been around touching on the possibilities of a move to work out dollar-sterling stabilization.

Alcohol shares came to the fore again after their recent period of hesitation. Boasting substantial speculative sponsorship this group apparently is responsive to the continued heavy demand for liquor and the indications that there is little chance for any appreciable letdown in the buying movement at least over the holiday. The sustained demand, which is taxing the ability of retailers to handle it naturally is expected to register substantial profits for leading producers for the final quarter.

With the Washington gold price holding unchanged for the twelfth successive day at $34.01 an ounce, the street heard reports of a nearby change in the recent order of things. Rumors were abroad late yesterday and again today hinting at the possibility tha the price would be stepped up sharply over the next litle while in rapid lifts as a prelude to stabilization.

Support entered the New York silver market yesterday in the form of purchasing orders received from India, the first of supch orders to be seen since the latter part of October. The orders were comparatively small, but unusual interest attaches to the transaction inasmuch as the New York price was above both the London and Bombay parities so that it was evident the purchases did not represent arbitrage on New York. It was possible the incident was a reflection of some Indian operation in sterling, but New York silver circles could shed no real light on the reason.

Frederick H. Prince, Boston banker, who arrived in New York yesterday from abroad, will leave within a day or two for Chicago where he will confer with officials of Armour & Co. Mr. Prince recently acquired a substantial interest in both the common and preferred stocks of Armour & Co., of Illinois, sufficient to include him as one of the company's largest stockholders. His interest in the Armour shares was originally taken at the invitation of the Armour management. Mr. Prince refused to comment on the possibilities of an early reorganization of the capital resumption of preferred dividends, although admitting that in view of his substantial stock holdings he would probably sit in on any conference regarding submission of a new plan.

In a Christmas letter to employes of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, W. C. Teagle president, states that while the company lost money for the first six months, as did virtually all integrated oil companies, "we have done much better since stoppage of excessive production and illegal shipments." Mr. Teagle says that with federal control of production the stage is set in the oil industry for a normal recovery. "The industry is closing the year with greatly improved prospects," he says. "The United States with great natural wealth, its agricultural possibilities and still substantial stores of underground treasure is not going bankrupt."

'TIPS' ON GOLD UNSOLVED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The mysterious leak in the government daily price for newly mined American gold, under investigation by the Treasury Department for several days, remains as much a mystery as ever, Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau declared today.

No new facts to show how certain London brokerage firms have been able to receive the RFC daily price of newly-mined domestic gold before the quotations were transmitted through regular channels have been uncovered. Morgenthau said:

"There is nothing new on the gold leak. We are surrounding the gold price with all possible secrecy. If any information concerning a gold leak is available, the Treasury Department would welcome the facts in the case."

NEW ADDRESSOGRAPH AIDE

J. S. VanLeer, formerly secretary of the executive committee of Curtis Candy Company, of Chicago, has been elected treasurer of Addressograph-Multigraph Corporation. Charles R. Battin, who previously was secretary and treasurer, continues as secretary.

METAL HOUSE OPENED

The Universal House Corporation has formerly opened its first metal home near Zanesville, O. All metal used in construction was supplied by the American Rolling Mill Company.

SPEAR & CO. TO CUT CAPITAL

LOCAL MARKET IN NARROW RANGE

Dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today showed no important change from yesterday's rate of turnover and the price movement remained narrow. Activity was fairly well distributed throughout the list with no noticeable concentration of trading in any particular issue or group of stocks.

The market here was inclined to ignore the improvement registered on the "big board" during the first half of the session. Fuels held within small fractional range of the quotations recorded on the close last night and miscellaneous industrials marked time in the face of the better tone noted in this section of the New York market. While there is a generally improved attitude toward the share market, there is an evident disposition on the part of traders to "keep close to shore" and accept relatively small profits when available.

R.F.C. ADVANCES AT NEW HIGH

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Gold purchases by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, during the month of October, amounted to only $2,128,743, according to its monthly report filed with the clerk of the House today.

The advances include $236,104,543 for financial institutions and railroads, and $253,479,000 to the huge commodity credit corporation formed by President Roosevelt. Comparatively little of the huge total has actually been disbursed.

The exceedingly high total includes advances to many government bureaus, including advances under the law by which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation finances relief work of the federal government.

Dividend Notices

INTERNATIONAL PETROLEUM COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOTICE OF DIVIDEND NO. 39.

NOTICE is hereby given that a dividend of 28 cents Canadian currency per share has been declared, and that the same will be payable on or after the 15th day of December, 1933, in respect to the shares specified in any Bearer Share Warrants of the company of the 1929 issue upon presentation and delivery of coupons No. 39 at:

The Royal Bank of Canada,
King and Church Streets Branch, Toronto, Canada.

The payment to shareholders of record at the close of business on the 30th day of November, 1933, and whose shares are represented by registered certificates of the 1929 issue, will be made by cheque, mailed from the offices of the company on the 14th day of December, 1933.

The transfer books will be closed from the 1st day of December to the 15th day of December, 1933, inclusive, and no bearer share warrants will be "split" during that period.

The income war tax act of the Dominion of Canada having been amended, effective April 1st, 1933, to provide that a tax of 5% shall be imposed and deducted at the source on all dividends payable by Canadian debtors to nonresidents of Canada, the above mentioned tax will be deducted from all dividend cheques mailed to nonresident shareholders and the company's bankers will deduct the 5% tax when paying coupons to or for account of nonresident shareholders. Ownership certificates will be required by the paying bankers in respect of all dividend coupons presented for payment by residents of Canada.

Shareholders resident in the United States are advised that a credit for the 5% Canadian tax withheld at source is allowable against the tax shown on their United States federal income tax return. If it is desired to claim such credit the United States tax authorities require evidence of the deduction of said tax. In order to secure such proof ownership certificates (form No. 601) must be completed in duplicate and the bank cashing the coupon will endorse both copies with a certificate relative to the deduction and payment of 5% tax, and return one certificate to the shareholder. If forms No. 601 are not available at local United States banks they can be secured from the company's office or the Royal Bank of Canada, Toronto.

By Order of the Board,
J. R. CLARKE, Secretary.
56 Church Street Toronto 2, Canada.
20th November, 1933.

BRISK SELLING SENDS STOCKS DOWN

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The market met resistance Monday as the composite averages closed the "gap" made on September 21. It had to take so much selling that after a lively start, prices closed near the low of the day.

Then, on Tuesday, prices sagged a little, though the volume for the day was lower.

Evidently the technical strength of the market was sufficient to prevent prices from spurting on up. As I have previously suggested, there has probably been considerable "support stock" (bought some two months ago) to come out. Also some profit-taking by traders who have bought during the past two weeks, was apparent.

LITTLE PRICE CHANGE

For the present, it seems wise to consider the market action as rather similar to that of the mid-November period. For example, on November 11 the market acted much as it did day before yesterday, and under similar circumstances.

At that time, there was little change in prices for four days.

Then there came another one-day pushup, followed by a few days of irregularity.

Then the market reacted moderately in the last week of the month.

Something like this may happen now. If such a "pattern" is to be repeated, however, the averages must be well maintained. The Dow-Jones industrials should not sink much below 100, and certainly not under 99.

The gist of the matter is that there seems to be difficulty in going through on the upside. So a little period of letdown and "consideration" of position would be natural.

'LONGS' RETICENT

Fundamental considerations seem to be of little significance at the moment. The bulls point to the fact that the volume of trading has declined on the reaction, and argue that dullness on reactions shows lack of selling pressure. I note, too, that "asked" prices have held up relatively well, indicating that "longs" are not anxious to sell.

The bears say the market has gradually lost momentum on the rise, and that on Tuesday the averages were unable to get as high as on Monday. They say that technical strength has been exhausted and that a reaction is called for.

As a matter of fact, the main groups of stocks have been acting quite differently. The "industrials" show a notable rounding off in their rise and a loss of momentum. A correction of technical position would seem logical.

The "rails" are at a resistance level. They opened up with a gap Monday. Early car loading reports for the week are not bullish. Either the rails are headed up to close the big gap they left on the September break or there is going to be considerable disappointment on the part of those who have been backing them lately.

The "utilities" have really been doing nothing but bump along on the bottom. There may be some accumulation going on in the case of the sounder companies (not the over-capitalized "holding" companies), and it seems that some of them are selling low enough, but as long as government policies are to uncertain and inflation remains a threat, no move is likely.

PASSING THE BUCK

Evidently the general scheme now is to soft-pedal inflation, work on schemes to "stimulate" business, and not to "rock the boat." I think the idea is to pass the buck as to inflation, and to let Congress decide.

But this merely makes a lull. I would not throw over any sound "inventory stocks" on the assumption that "stabilization" is at hand. I would not buy stocks which would not be heaped by inflation. Congress is coming! The commodity price level is not rising and is far below the "objective."

And any spurt in business at this time is bound to be inflationary at bottom, because it will be based on government spending and growing public debt.

BOARD EXPECTS INCREASE

Business in the Pittsburgh district will be 10.3 per cent greater in the first three months of the new year than in the final three months of 1933.

This forecast was made by delegates to the annual convention of the Allegheny Regional Advisory Board at the Hotel Schenley today. The estimate is compiled from answers to questionnaires sent to all shippers in this district whose shipments equal 10 cars or more a month. These shippers were asked how much traffic they expected to originate in the coming three months.

The greatest expected increase is in paving brick, which has an estimated gain of 154 per cent. Second comes machinery with a gain of 147 per cent. Iron and steel are expected to gain 13.1 per cent and castings 59.3 per cent.

Socony Approves Deal With Jersey

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Stockholders of the Socony-Vacuum Corporation have approved merger of the company's marketing outlet in the Far East with the producing and refining properties of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in the Dutch East Indies into a jointly-owned subsidiary. The stock of the new company, $10,000,000 and assets of between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000, will be owned equally by Socony and Standard of New Jersey.

Biggest Order Since 1929 Goes To Brake Firm

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 14.—A $1,300,000 order for new air brakes, announced by the New York Air Brake Company, here, is the largest of that nature in four years, the company said.

The order includes the manufacture of air brake equipment for more than 8,000 freight cars for the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Nickle Plate and the Erie and is a result of government loans to the railroads to enable them to purchase new rolling stock.

The Air Brake Company has been closed down during the week to permit inventory, but its force was called back to rush the order.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The government's gold price remained unchanged today at $34.01 per ounce.

It marked the twelfth consecutive business day in which no change has been made.

The long period in which no advance or recession in the price has been noted tended to revive rumors that a gentleman's agreement had been reached between the New York Federal Reserve Bank, the Bank of England and the Bank of France to stabilize the price of gold close to the $34 figure.

No confirmation of this was obtainable at the Treasury. On the contrary, Treasury officials denied that any stabilization agreement had been made, or that any negotiations were in progress.

Treasury officials have consistently declined to reveal details of the gold-purchasing operations because of the speculative features involved.

Rails 1934 Maturities Over 217 Million

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The railroad industry was forced to take some high jumps to meet 1933 bond maturities, and it is now trying to get its second wind while surveying its financing requirements for the coming year.

According to estimates prepared by Moody's, the steam carriers are faced with contracts to redeem a total of $217,247,000 in bonds next year. Of this aggregate approximately $102,262,000 represents maturing equipment trusts and the remainder bonds of various classes.

For 1933 the class one railroads had to meet, in one way or another, maturities amounting to something more than $295,000,000 which included about $107,500,000 of equipment trusts.

In an "ordinary" year the carriers could be expected to finance themselves for these or even larger amounts without particular difficulty. This year, however, the roads found themselves up against a combination of barriers which forced a resort to expedients that would be foreign to established financial policies in good times.

Executives of the roads which have to pay off large maturities next year freely admit that they would approach the problem in a more comfortable frame of mind if they could feel assured that the major or handicaps of 1933 will have disappeared before their securities become due.

A revival in the long dormant investment market would help, as would a sufficient increase in railroad revenues to restore to rail investments some of their former popularity.

Under the present uncertain outlook, however, it appears that many of the carriers will again have to depend on government aid and the willingness of bondholders to accept part of their due in cash and part in new securities, the formula by which most of the roads were able to get by in 1933.

COTTON PRICES RULE LOWER

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 1 to 5 lower, on disappointing Liverpool cable, January liquidation and Southern selling. December, 9.97; January, 9.97; March, 10.12; May, 10.26; July, 10.40; October, 10.59.

There was also some selling here through houses with foreign connections, but initial offerings were absorbed by trade buying and a little commission house demand encouraged by the opening tone of the stock market. January liquidation continued in evidence after the opening with considerable switching of January to later deliveries, but general business was quiet after the call and prices held fairly steady. March contracts after selling off to 10.11c under the early pressure rallied to 10.14c, active months showing net losses of about 2 to 4 points at the end of the first half hour.

The market remained quiet later in the morning, but showed a generally steady tone in sympathy with the action of the stock market and a rally in foreign exchange. March contracts worked up to 10.17c with the general market ruling within a point or two either way of yesterday's closing quotations at midday.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 14.—Cotton, 1,000 bales, American nil. Sinclair Gallonage Shows Big Increase

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Sinclair Refining Company, the marketing end of Consolidated Oil Corporation, reports for the first eight months of 1933 an increase in sales of all products of 300,000,000 gallons over corresponding period of 1932. Sales of all products in November of this year were 14 per cent greater than the corresponding month last year.

November Cotton Consumption Down

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The Census Bureau reports lint cotton consumed in mills of the United States in November totaled 475,366 running bales, compared with 503,873 bales in October and 502,434 in November, 1932.

Consumption for the four months ended November 30 totals 2,067,297 bales, as against 1,901,566 in the like 1932 period.

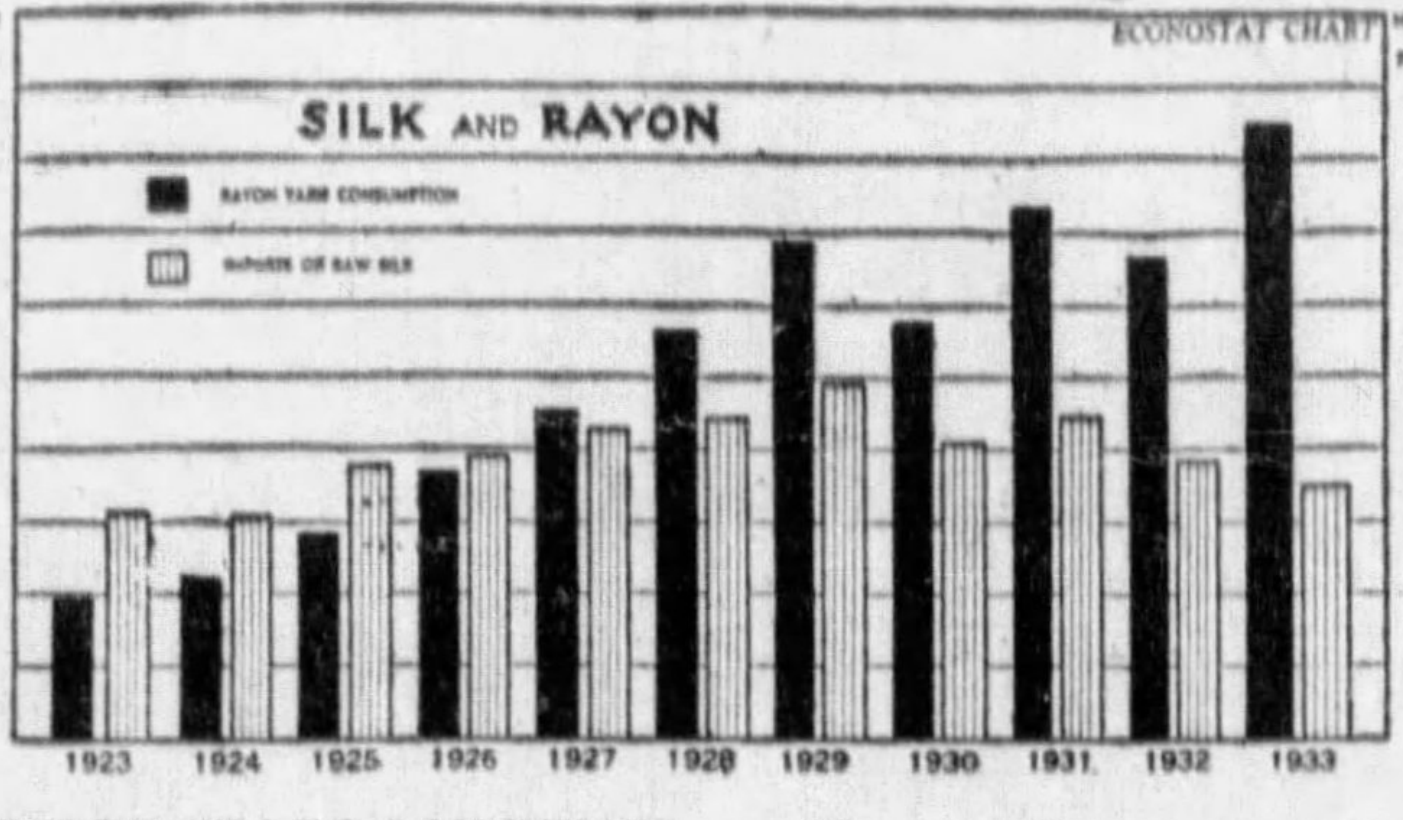
New Government Policy May Cut Silk Imports



By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE,
Editor, The Econostat.

This chart presents another interesting aspect of economic nationalism. As is well known, rayon and silk are for many purposes interchangeable and, for that matter to thousands of consumers, indistinguishable. Rayon is produced in American plants by American workers from domestic raw material. Silk is an import coming almost entirely from Japan. Even before the government adopted any conscious nationalistic policy, silk suffered in comparison with rayon.

It may be noted that silk consumption in the years 1923 to 1926 exceeded rayon yarn consumption. After 1927, however, rayon has each year exceeded silk and, in fact, in spite of the depression has shown a sharply rising trend during the past five years. In contrast, silk touched its high point in 1929 and with the exception of 1931 shows a continuous decline.

The question now raised is whether the government will pursue to its logical end the policy of self-containment so evident in many of its actions. Should it do so it would obviously be called upon to increase tariff barriers against silk and further encourage the home consumption of rayon.

This nationalistic tendency, of course, is not confined to the United States. Only recently President de Valera of Ireland broke sod for two new beet sugar factories. Ireland has always imported all its sugar. Former President Cosgrave, however, conceived the idea of experimenting with sugar and found its production to be practical. As a result, Ireland now aspires to raise its own sugar and is trying to do the same with wheat.

Such internationalism, of course, is possible for countries that have an ample supply of agricultural land and are not overcrowded. It is difficult for a country like Japan or England, both of which have specialized intensively in industrial production.

Rulings Give Advantage To Pittsburgh Coal

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor

A FEDERAL COURT at Cleveland has handed down a decision giving the Pittsburgh Coal Company a distinct advantage in supplying river coal to the Youngstown district while, within a day, the Interstate Commerce Commission dealt a telling blow at other river coal producers when it boosted freight rates on coal from Conway and other Ohio River points to the Youngstown district.

The fact that the two decisions came at almost the same time, one Tuesday and one yesterday, appears to have been mere coincidence, but they had the combined effect of nearly barring all independent river coal producers from the Youngstown market while they tossed the business in the lap of Pittsburgh Coal, largest producer in this district.

Contest Lasts Several Years

For several years coal operators with mines on the Monongahela River have been trying to improve their competitive position in selling coal to Youngstown by arranging to ship coal down the rivers to Conway, Colona and nearby points and then shipping by rail to Youngstown.

The plan was to take advantage of low-cost river transportation for part of the haul and to get a freight rate for the rail portion so that the combined cost would be lower than the all-rail rate.

Pittsburgh Coal originally led the fight when it bought the Pittsburgh, Lisbon and Western Railroad and applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to build two extensions to the line, one south to the Ohio River and one north to Youngstown. The commission turned down the proposal.

Coal Company Buys Railroad

PITTSBURGH COAL then bought the Youngstown and Suburban Railway, which would fit into the scheme and renewed its application. The commission again turned the plan down but ordered the existing railroads to supply the service.

The railroads then built docks at Colona and Conway but attempted to put rates into force which would take away the advantage to be gained by using the rivers for part of the haul. The coal companies were successful in getting a rate which would make the river-rail route practical.

But the commission's decision of yesterday, boosting the rail charge 13 cents a ton to 90 cents for shipments to Youngstown, makes the rail-river cost nearly as high as the all-rail charge and removes advantages enjoyed by the river mines in this district.

Court Upholds Rail Building

WHILE THE FIGHT over rates was going on, Pittsburgh Coal was quietly building a private railroad from the river to the lines which it owns. The work was carried on in the face of attempts by the Pennsylvania Railroad and other carriers to secure injunctions to stop the work. The coal company clamed that the line was not to be a common carrier and hence was not under the jurisdiction of the commission.

Federal Judge Samuel H. West on Tuesday denied a permanent injunction against the line, asked by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The 13-mile line from Smiths Ferry, Pa., to Negley, O., which completes the link between the units going to Youngstown, has been completed so that Pittsburgh Coal is in a position to ignore the freight rates.

Since the railroad is a private one, Pittsburgh Coal cannot haul anyone's coal but its own. Also Pittsburgh Coal does not have to worry about rates since it is a private operation similar to a track running down into a mine.

The upshot is that Pittsburgh Coal has all the possible advantages in competing from this district for Youngstown business while the other operators are out in the cold.

OIL INDUSTRY WAITS U. S. CONTROL

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 14.—A new experiment in control was in prospect for petroleum today as Administrator Ickes and his advisers studied two agreements reached after important conferences of dominant factions within the industry.

Signed by 26 parent companies, the agreements represent the desires of between 85 and 90 per cent of the productive and financial power of the 12 billion dollar industry.

SEEK TWO GOALS

There are two basic goals sought, and proponents of the pacts contend their achievement would destroy two factors that have been largely instrumental in bringing the industry to its knees.

Larger companies for many months have been taking "distress" gasoline off the market in an effort to hold the petroleum structure steady. This necessarily was done quietly, because the Sherman anti-trust law was effective then and oil men had a healthy fear that what they were doing might be construed as a violation.

The practice never had a permanent effect because there was no NRA code or law which would keep such floating gasoline from being produced anew.

The second, and almost equally important factor sought, is elimination of the so-called suicidal contracts into which marketers have entered in the perennial battle for gallonage.

POLICING SEEN

Purchasing of all distress gasoline, if the pacts are approvel, will entail rigid policing of rebellious operators by the signers as well as by the federal agency in charge, in an effort to prevent the production of excessive quantities of crude oil and its subsequent processing into gasoline.

Unless the source of this supply is shut off, the signers agree, the pacts will be no more effective than the work of the now defunct federal farm board, which purchased huge quantities of wheat and cotton in an ineffectual attempt to stabilize prices.

Restating of the oil code's 18.5 ratio between the price of crude oil and the refinery price of 60-64 octane gasoline, with set margins for reseller and retailer, is the substitute found to quiet the demands of those who wished outright price determination. The agreement would bind its signers to maintain this relationship between the price of motor fuel and the present prices of crude oil.

CIGARET OUTPUT DOWN 12%

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Production of cigarets in the United States during November total approximately 6,700,000,000 or a drop of just over 12 per cent from the 7,613,941,573 produced in November, 1932, a canvass of the industry shows. In October this year 9,176,407,703 cigarets were produced, which was an increase of 9.88 per cent over the output in October, 1932. This brings the 11 months total output up to about 103,828,000,000 cigarets, compared with 96,266,771,699 in the first 11 months of last year and 106,153,550,220 in the first 11 months of 1931.

Here Are the Simple Rules

Every day we will publish an unfinished rhyme. Read these Christmas Shopping Hint ads and select an article from these ads to use in making your own last line. Then clip this square, fill in your line, or write the whole rhyme on a piece of paper and mail to the Want Ad Contest Editor, Sun-Telegraph, giving, at the same time, the name of the dealer from whose ad you made the selection.

The best rhyme on each day's contest, judged from the points of originality, neatness and accuracy, will win a $5.00 merchandise order on any advertiser in the Christmas Shopping Hints which the winner may select. The second best $2.00 and the next three best $1.00 each. Two prizes of $5.00 each will be given on each of the last two days of the contest.

Answers to today's contest must be in our hands by 4 P. M., Tuesday, December 19.

In case of a tie duplicate awards will be made. You need not buy anything to compete and all persons are eligible except Sun-Telegraph employees and their families.

OPERATOR 13

She was barely in time to see him turn eastward again toward Broadway. If only there were a hack in sight! But there was none. And at Broadway and Eighth street the boy had vanished into the crowd.

Operator 13 went back to St. George's Place to wash off the makeup and remove spectacles and wig and Paisley shawl and rusty skirt and prunellas, and dress her prettiest for a hired carriage drive in Central Park where, it was understood, many young bucks of southern ancestry took their morning exercise a-horse. But none among them that she ever trailed showed any suspicious activities, and she never yet had seen John Gailliard there a-riding at his ease and pleasure.

And every day thereafter she took dinner and supper at 123 Clinton place and never learned more than she had learned the first day she set foot there.

Late in June it was rumored that Lee had started North, and all the militia regiments in New York City departed with their music playing to help repel the Rebel invaders. On Friday, June 26, Lee was in Chambersburg, Pa. The invasion had begun.

Battle of Gettysburg

On June 30, the Union and Confederate armies rolled toward each other like two huge storm clouds. At 8 o'clock in the morning of the first of July came the first clash of lightning and the first reverberation of thunder. Then the great storm of battle broke, shaking the civilized world.

That stifling night of July 1 the New York newsboys made darkness hideous with their goblin yelps. Operator 13, already abed, got up and went down to the front door in her bare feet and nightgown to buy a paper. It was the first day of the Battle of Gettysburg. The end of everything was beginning with Union disaster once more.

On Thursday the North knew that the great battle was continuing.

Hooker was gone; Meade commanded. His First and Eleventh Army Corps had been cut to pieces in Wednesday's fighting. And by Thursday night the newsboys were bawling disaster again.

Poor Miss Trimble smiled palely through her tears—the professional tears to order of Operator 13 were the despair of other Thespians!—but joined tremulously in the subdued cheering when extra editions of hysterical afternoon papers described the loosened fury of Jeb Stuart's cavalry.

Claire Quilter told Miss Trimble that Chambersburg was burning. It was not. "Maybe," she said, "the Yankees will understand now what a town afire looks like."

Afraid to Ask

Operator 13 dared make no inquiries regarding John Gailliard for, except on that first day, his name was never mentioned. Nor did he ever come to 123, as far as she could learn.

But on Friday evening, when she arrived for supper, the latest newspapers had prepared her for the altered looks and deep gloom which reigned at the table at 123 Clinton place. For on that day when the sun was going down, the last blow for victory had been struck by Wade Hampton's furious sabers. But George Pickett had already made his immortal charge and his red battle flags were in the dust.

Claire Quilter whispered tearfully, dabbing at her eyes with a wet handkerchief: "Dick Garnett fell dead; Armistead died; Kemper is gone. You were right when you spoke of Ashby, Pelham and Jackson; our paladins of the South are dying fast, dear Miss Trimble, and very soon we may all hear the melancholy horn of Roland quavering over the death-field of a nation."

"What will happen," said Andrews savagely, "is that our armies will tie up their wounds and March on Philadelphia. And, by God, we must continue busy and get ready for them when they come!"

"What does Jack Gailliard say?" whispered Mrs. Dorn.

"I am quoting him, ma'am. And I agree with him that we remain unbeaten and unterrified; and that the Yankees, war-weary and choked with their own blood, will sicken of this butchery and demand peace. Half the North are of that mind already. A battalion of Stuart's cavalry could take this city. And the city will be ready to get rid of its tyrants very soon, I expect."

Shadow of Death

"Nobody could hear me."

"You don't know who may be listening outside the window in the dark," retorted Claire Quilter.

"Have you seen Capt. Gailliard?" asked Mrs. Dorn.

"I have, and everything is all right," replied the boy sullenly. "You'll see for yourself before very long."

Miss Trimble rose from the table, took leave of the boarders in her quaint, timid way, and went out like a mouse. Not far away, in the dusk, a hack awaited her; she got into it in silence, and she and the driver—Secret Service Operator Harry Simms, No. 143—waited until Mr. Andrews emerged from the house.

But once more they trailed him in vain through the gaslight, for he went to Burton's.

At a gallop the hack deposited Operator 13 in St. George's place, where she swiftly transformed herself into a swaggering lad, reeking of cheap perfume and hair oil.

Back at a gallop and into theater alley, where she slipped out of the hack and around to Burton's; and for 15 cents found herself in the Niggers' Heaven with "Pocahontas" proceeding in its hilarious course with Jonn Bougham on the stage.

Carefree Song

Sang Mrs. Bougham:
Oh, sume'r right—"
Powhatan Why Smith!
Powhatan Why Smith!
And Indians: Why Smith!
"And some'r wrong—"
AND INDIANS: Why Smith!
"And some get tight—"
POWHATAN Why Smith!
And INDIANS: Why Smith!
"And sing this song
The whole day long!"

CAPT. JOHN SMITH POWHATAN, POCAHONTAS, AND INDIANS:
"Oh, right or wrong
Oh, get me tight
And sing the song,
O Summer Night.
For only when I'm tight I long
To sing that sentimental song!"

And gallery and Nigger heaven were chanting with the chorus amid the subdued wave of laughter from box to pit.

FIRST RELIEF OF LUCKNOW BY HIGHLANDERS

In 1857 the Indians revolted, threatening to massacre the British. The revolt was subdued with much bloodshed. This mutiny led to the transfer of the government from the East India Company to the British crown, Queen Victoria becoming Empress of India.

INSECTS—MAN'S CHIEF COMPETITORS

Insects, a class of the jointed leggers (twelfth phylum, arthropoda) comprise about 600,000 species, that is five-sixths of all existing. Insects include grass-hoppers, beetles, bugs, ants, roaches, lice, dragon flies, butterflies, moths, etc. They have hard skin (exoskeleton), which is split off (mold) to grow in the new soft skin until that hardens. Shape from mold to mold generally changes—larva, pupa, adult—called indirect metamorphosis. If succeeding shapes are similar, the metamorphosis is called direct. Insects destroy great quantities of plants, carry diseases; many species are beneficial, doing scavenger work, distribute pollen.

Crustacea	Many	Cephalothorax, abdomen	Two pairs	Gills
Myriapoda	Many	Head, trunk	One pair	Tracheal system*
Arachnida	Four pairs	Cephalothorax, abdomen	None	Book lungs†
Insecta	Three pairs	Head, thorax, abdomen	One pair	Tracheal system*

* The tracheal system is a network of air tubes running through the animal's body.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM McKINLEY AND HIS CABINET

The "unlucky years" of President Cleveland were followed by a bitter presidential campaign (1896) in which McKinley, Republican, won the presidency against William J. Bryan, Democrat, advocator of silver-backed money. McKinley's first administration (1897-1901) is remembered chiefly for the Spanish-American War, of which the immediate cause was the blowing up of the U. S. battleship Maine, February 15, 1898, on a friendly visit to Havana. This disaster, costing the lives of 266 men and officers, was attributed to the Spaniards. Congress demanded (April 19, 1898) the immediate withdrawal of Spain from Cuba, authorizing the President to carry out this resolution by arms. (U. S. History)

RESCUED "FRIDAY" THANKS CRUSOE

Robinson Crusoe by Daniel Defoe (1659-1731), the "first great journalist" of England, is a masterpiece of fiction, presenting the story of the struggles of a shipwrecked mariner on an uninhabited island. The vivid imagination and direct language of Defoe not only fascinate the reader, but make him participate in hardships and joys of the hero. Above: Friday, the savage, shows his gratitude to Crusoe for saving his life.

Some other works of Defoe: Memoirs of a Cavalier; Life, Adventures, Piracies of Captain Singleton: A Journal of the Plague Year. Defoe's genius was acknowledged only after his death. (English Literature)

WROUGHT IRON—PRODUCT OF PUDDLING PROCESS

Bugs Baer

Back Home in Bugolopis

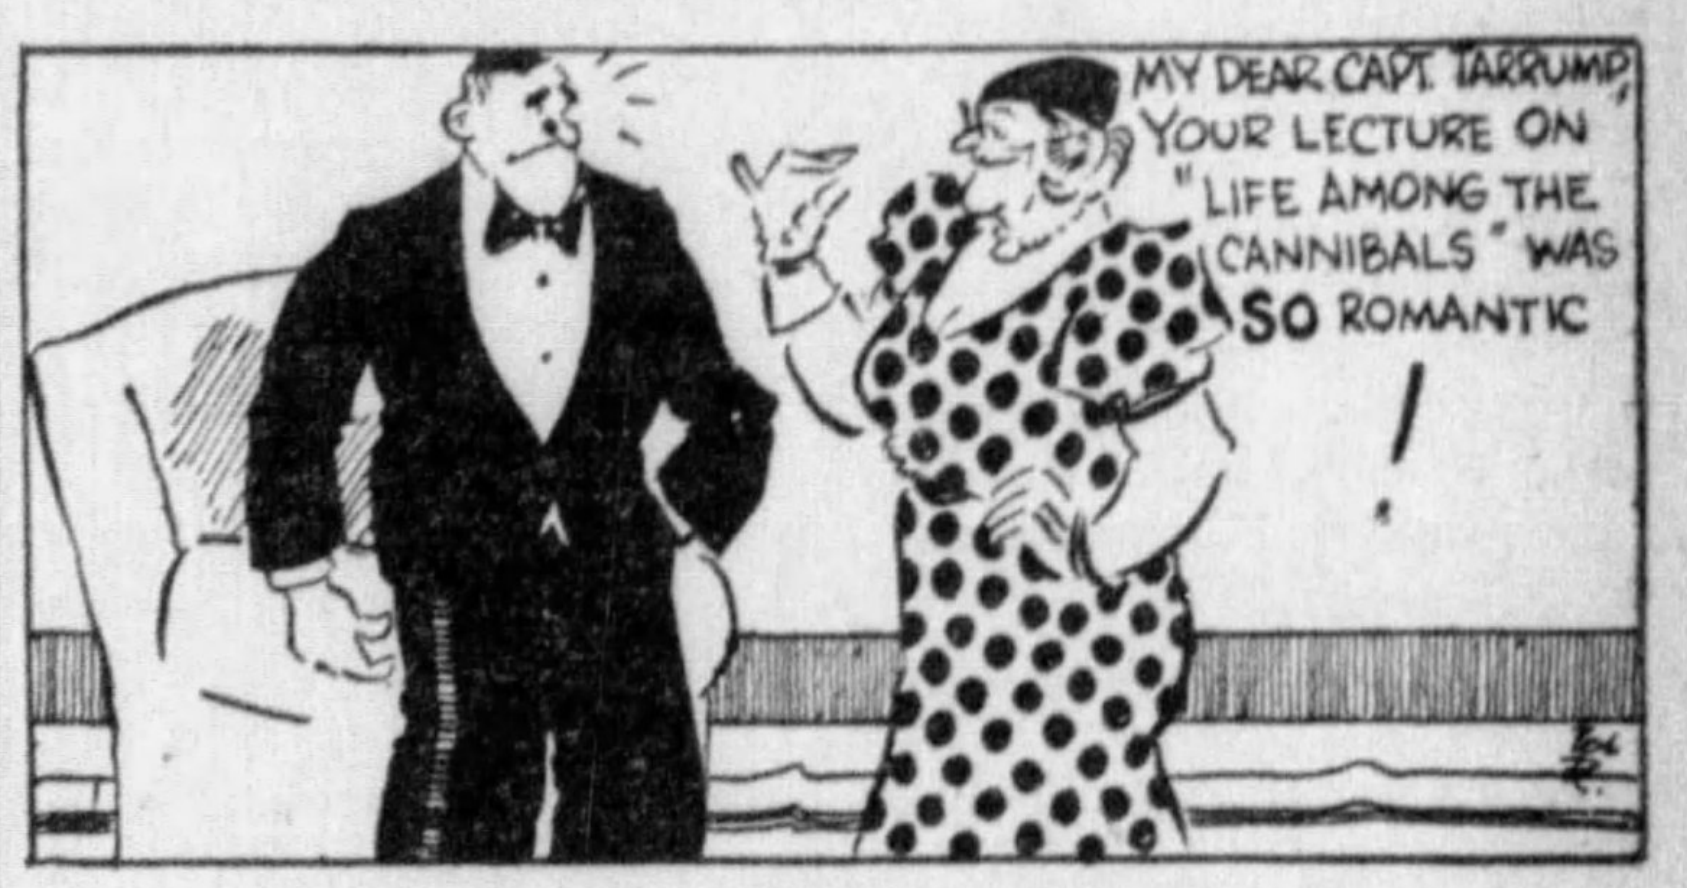
They are all illustrated with stereopticon slides. Children not admitted without a motorcycle escort.

Next Monday we have that intrepid explorer Eric Buttoseffer who reached farthest north on the telephone.

On Christmas Eve we shall have the postponed pleasure of listening to Miss Ella Garroop who went around the world on elapsed street car transfers.

That popular lecture, "Bring 'Em in Exhausted," is an epic of the free ambulance service and Christmas shoppers.

"How the Other Half Lives," is not the story of a split mackerel. We have heard this enjoyable lecture before and it gets better every time we forget it. Mr. Billgurp has been visiting our little town every winter since 1892, arriving by dog sledge, on foot and by parcel post. The future looks dark now that the roads are getting better. We are sure Mr. Billgurp will be as welcome here as he ever was, if he ever was. That's one for our side.



MY DEAR CAPT. TARRUMP, YOUR LECTURE ON "LIFE AMONG THE CANNIBALS" WAS SO ROMANTIC !

We all remember "The Face on the Barroom Floor," which Dr. Hod Baggles recites so well with appropriate gestures. Dr. Baggles has been rehearsing in secret and claims to have the face down pat. His recitation will be the feature of graduation week of the windshield wipers of America. Dr. Baggles still has the silver cup he won stroking the eight-oared barge in the flooded mine. Since repeal is back Doc says the face is on the ground floor again.

"Life Among the Cannibals" will be delivered with free samples by Capt. Tarrump. The captain was owner of the world's largest flea circus until they reached here 10 years ago. The captain made the mistake of staging a parade of his circus on a windy day. Then he went into darkest Africa as a meter reader for a gas company. When asked by the king of cannibals to join the tribe, Capt. Tarrump showed the early effect of childhood training when he said, "I'll do it on salary, but not commission."

That's about all we have lined up until February. We were hoping for some mountain music but we can't do anything about it until 1945 when the hillbillies' leases expire on their Fifth avenue apartments. Admission will be 10 cents for the general run of the herd. There will be no season tickets. That's because 10 cents is a season out here now.

A Gain for Temperance

The Comparatively Light Demand for Liquor Licenses Is an Encouraging Sign.

Although virtually any respectable hotel or restaurant keeper who satisfies the fairly liberal requirements can obtain a liquor license, not more than 600 licenses have been issued in Allegheny County. This compares with 1,273 saloons in the county just before prohibition.

Liquor is dearer than before, and people are poorer. Speakeasies no doubt are still getting a considerable share of the trade.

But we believe that the comparatively light demand for licenses is also due in large measure to a decline in the appetite for strong drink. Temperance was making headway in the latter years of the pre-prohibition era, and we are encouraged by this latest development to believe the advance has been resumed.

The fact that people drink in restaurants and hotels instead of saloons also makes for temperance.

Shirking of Civic Duty

Only Three-Fifths of the Eligible Citizens Voted on the Question of Repealing Prohibition.

The Bureau of Elections at Harrisburg has issued a discouraging report on the subject of civic apathy.

Many thousands of Pennsylvania's eligible citizens failed to vote in the election last month on the most burning questions of the day.

Only 2,447,924, or 60 per cent, of the registered voters marked the ballots on the prohibition issue.

It may be said in extenuation of their neglect that prohibition was doomed anyway, and it did not make much difference whether they voted or not.

But that cannot be said concerning neglect to vote for or against the 12 proposed amendments to the State Constitution. Only 40 per cent of those eligible voted on these proposals, and in the case of one of them the total vote was [illegible]99, or only 25 per cent.

Such shirking of civic duty is deplorable.

We do not have true democratic government when great sections of the populace abstain from voting.

A Sensible Precaution

The City Controller's Request for His Own Attorney Has Much to Commend It.

In accordance with the wishes of Dr. James P. Kerr, the City Controller, a bill has been introduced in the Legislature authorizing him to employ an attorney of his own choice when he needs legal advice. At present he is expected to utilize the services of the City Solicitor.

Perhaps some money could be saved by requiring him to continue to get his legal advice from the City Solicitor; but it is also quite conceivable that money might be lost by that course.

The City Solicitor is appointed by the Mayor and naturally is friendly to the Mayor and the Mayor's administration.

The City Controller is an auditor who keeps check on the administration's financial transactions—a "watchdog of the city treasury."

It is well that he should do his work independently, and that he should have the benefit of independent, impartial legal advice.

In a matter discreditable or distasteful to the Mayor or the administration the City Solicitor might give the City Controller advice that would be adverse to the Mayor or his administration. Then, again, he mightn't.

It is better not to run the risk.

Simplified Government

New Survey Should Help the People to Get Rid of Some of the Excessive Officeholders.

With the hearty approval of President Roosevelt, the Social Science Research Council has been organized to make a nation-wide investigation of the work of all employes of the federal, state and local governments of the United States.

The commission of inquiry will be headed by Dr. L. B. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota. Its director of research will be Dr. Luther Gulick, director of the Institute of Public Administration.

Members of seven national scientific societies will co-operate in this valuable survey of public service, which will explore ways and means of simplifying government, raising its standard of administration and making it more responsive to the public will.

This survey will be welcomed by the American people because they are being taxed every year to pay the salaries of 2,500,000 officeholders now on the rolls of federal, state and local governments.

These salaries amount to 63 per cent "of the ordinary operating expenses of the American people through taxes."

In the light of the facts developed by this inquiry, the people of the several states will be the better able to simplify government throughout the country, modernize its machinery, raise the standard of its administration, make it more responsive to the public will, and less burdensome to the public's pocketbook.

But every state in the Union should reinforce this national survey of public service by a state survey that will blaze the way for a reorganization of county and local government.

Until county and local government has been reorganized and simplified in every state in the Union, hundreds of millions of dollars of the people's money will be squandered to support offices no longer needed, while public education, public health and other vital governmental services will continue to suffer from lack of support.

Let Them Eat Turtle

Connecticut's Bright Idea.

Even a depression can have its silver lining.

Our neighbor, Connecticut, for example, has begun the free distribution to its needy families of 23,500 pounds of turtle meat.

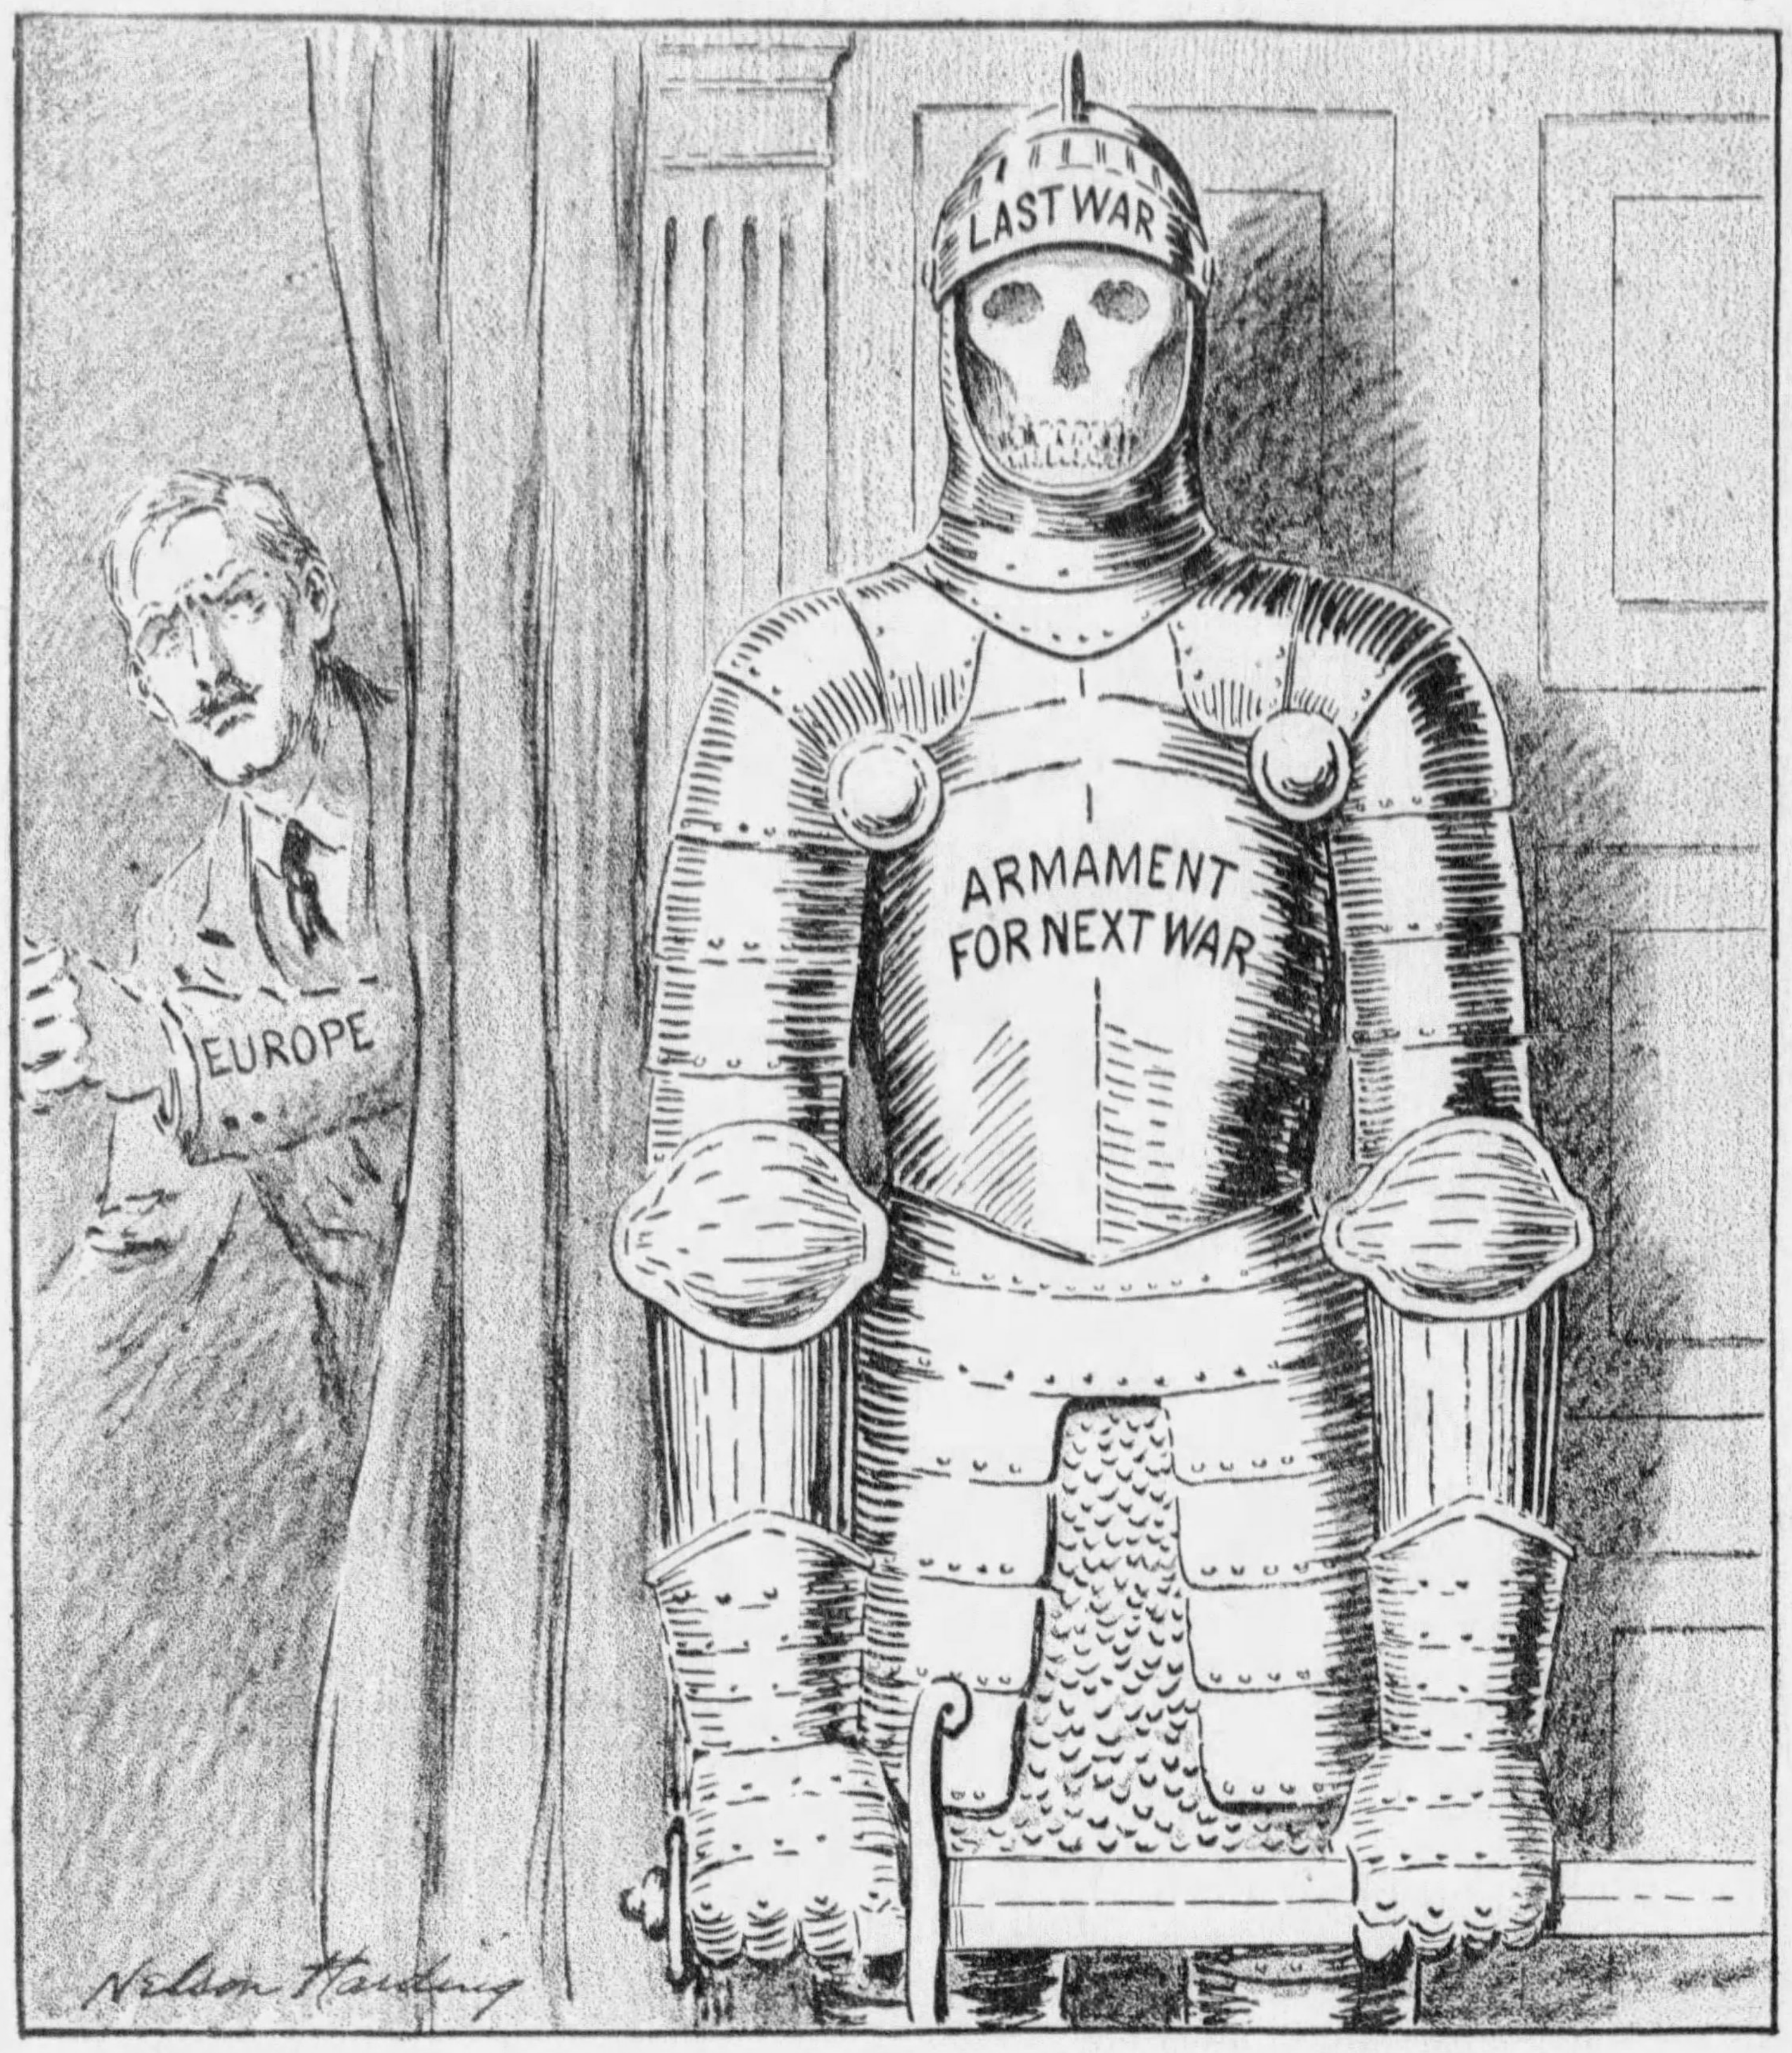
Time was when turtle was a luxury that only millionaires or aldermen could afford.

But Connecticut had a supply of it on hand which had been caught by its game wardens, and wisely decided to give it to the poor.

"If they have no bread, why don't they eat cake?" said the French Queen before the revolution. But it has required the lapse of 150 years and the ingenuity of Connecticut Yankees to put that brilliant idea into practice.

'The Skeleton in Armor'

By Nelson Harding



Still that skeleton, unburied,
Restless spectre of the "Last War"
Stalks an ever present menace
Through the haunted house of Europe

Still that grinning skull is peering
From a brightly burnished helmet
Still equipped for future warfare
Stands "The Skeleton in Armor."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Manhattan now has three small theaters devoted to 45-minute programs of news reels and shorts at 25 cents a throw. The pioneer and best patronized is the Embassy, next door south to the Palace. It gets many bontons in evening dress after dinner.

The other two are Trans-Lux houses, one on Broadway, the other on Madison, self-operated and without ushers. Both have doubled their capacity. Among the confirmed news reel patrons are Bernard Baruch, Jules Bache, Edna Ferber, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Clara Walsh and Dr. Erdmann.

All the news reelers have a change-weekly policy only disrupted by that epical "Three Little Pigs." It played two weeks at one and returned for another five weeks. No other theaters are such certain barometers for political winds, waning popularity and sizing up celebrities.

La Guardia's election was certain if the audience reaction was to be believed. Huey Long was loudly booed before his vane stopped at "This Way Out." Albert Wiggins would not enjoy what news reelers do to him. Oddly enough, the 25-centers recruit perhaps the most cultured audiences.

Mrs. Irving Berlin, the former Ellin Mackay, seems to be the most successful of all the social upper crusters to dabble in super-Bohemia and retain her popularity in the loftier stratum. An etherial, willowy blonde, she may cast her leisure moments with the anagram set one evening and the next against the 400 backdrop.

The best known residence hereabouts is not in the greater metropolis, but in the largest city "next" to New York—Yonkers. The city that inspired Roy McCardell, as a bewildered cub, to inquire of the city editor Chapin: "Yonkers, what are they?" The estate so widely publicized is "Greystone," occupied by Samuel Untermyer, lawyer. The locale of a hundred movie settings, its fascicled garden of rhododendrons each year also brings visitors from everywhere.

Most skillful of the prestidigitateurs is Nate Leipzig, whose sleight-of-hand evanishments, as amazing as they are, do not compare to feats of muscle control. He can place a cane, anybody's cane, across the flat palm of his outstretched hand so it requires a hearty tug to lift. A coin can be made to encircle his hand in lightning snake-like ripples. A table knife placed on his palm, by an imperceptible quick flexing of muscles, flies high in the air.

The adept magician is usually practising. Fred Keating, walking along the streets, is constantly manipulating a coin in his right hand. Now and then he stops at a corner fruit stand, buys an apple, halves it and digs from the interior a juicy bill while the proprietor pushes back his eyes in a sudden jet of wonderment.

The highly-pompadoured Eddie Duchin, shyest of the young orchestra leaders, was recently filmed in a short and for a week thereafter was late at the Casino. Taken to task, he explained: "Gee, I went back to see that short again. Say, I'd work for nothing if they want me. I'm crazy about myself in the movies. I love it."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

You See What You Want to See

For 50 years I've been looking around—and what have I seen?

I'VE SEEN WHAT I WANTED TO SEE.

I've seen hate and malice, viciousness and vulgarity. I've seen constant evidence that we humans are the meanest and weakest of beasts—that there is no real honor; no justice—that love is just the purring of our own ego.

I've seen the hopelessness of our fate—the futility of our struggle—the "proof" that the dice are loaded against us from the start—that life's a mockery and death is the end of everything.

For 50 years, looking around, going hither and yon—I've seen that. Yet, at the same time—

And above those tender, triumphant men and women I have seen God, holding His world in His great hand—waiting, with endless patience, for that little spark of Himself which He placed in every human heart, to smolder and spread and finally break into clean, courageous flame.

Fifty years looking around. Seeing heaven. Seeing hell. And here's the strange part of it—SEEING THEM IN THE SAME PLACE—IN THE SAME PEOPLE.

For I didn't have to pick my spots, or my persons, to make these amazing discoveries. While I stayed in the same spot, worked, day after day, with the same persons, these revelations came to me. Meaning what?

MEANING OF COURSE THAT IT WAS ALL IN MY OWN EYE. I SAW WHAT I WANTED TO SEE. I FOUND WHAT I LOOKED FOR.

When I wanted to see squalor and despair, there they were, mountain high, midnight black, all about me. But when I wanted to see the stars, there they were, shining endlessly. It was all up to me. I could see what I chose to see.

AND SO CAN YOU!

"But that's idiotic!" you say. "Nobody chooses to find misery. It's thrust upon us."

You're right. None of us WANTS to find misery—CONSCIOUSLY. We don't CONSCIOUSLY say, "I want to find proofs, today, that there's nothing decent in the world—that there's no use hoping or fighting—that it's all a wretched mockery, and the sooner we die, the better."

None of us CONSCIOUSLY says that—but we say it UNCONSCIOUSLY. For always there is fear in us. And fear is always snooping, sneering, squirming, hating—and whispering.

Day and night, fear whispering in our hearts, "Don't take a chance! Don't trust! Don't hope! Don't dare to love. See all the cruelty, the dishonesty, the selfishness around you. See the fate of those who've been foolish enough to believe—silly enough to be generous! Can't you see for yourself that kindness doesn't pay—that everybody's out for himself?"

Day and night fear chilling our hearts, darkening our eyes—making us UNCONSCIOUSLY look for mean excuses, squalid evidence.

But always, side by side with savage fear, that greater, braver thing we call the Soul urging us on, lifting us up—pointing to the stars. Not fully grown yet, that Soul. Not yet able to altogether conquer fear. But strong enough to defy it, throttle it at times, sweep away the darkness and show Truth and Beauty shining clear and tall.

So we go along we see what we want to see—what the dominant thing inside us wants to see. In the same places—the same people—we see what we want to see; beauty or ugliness, hope or despair. With the clouded bitter eyes of Fear, or the clear, exultant eyes of the Soul, we see our world, our fellow man—and God.

Christmas in the Czar's Palace—Rare Stamps—
A New Method of Identification

By Edwin C. Hill

IN THE days of the old regime, before the Bolsheviki hammer smashed religion and the old traditions, Christmas was a happy season in the Winter Palace at St. Petersburg. Books were the favorite presents of the Czar and Czarina to their five children, the little Czarevitch Alexis and the four young grand duchesses. "Alice in Wonderland," "Grimm's Fairy Tales," Louisa M. Alcott's "Little Women," Kingsley's "Titus: A Comrade of the Cross," Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities"—children's stories that belong to the world.

Each book with its affectionate inscription: "To Darling Olga, with tender love from Mamma" . . . "To little Tatiana, from her Papa." Many more. All thumbed by childish fingers, and dogeared, and worn, as children's books are apt to be, whether the children live in palaces or hovels.

Well, those books have just been seen at an auction room in East Fifty-ninth street, New York City. Strolling recently through the collection of the Czar's books on sale there, one could not help but think of that bitter Siberian morning, when the Romanoff family—Nicholas and his wife, and the boy, Alexis, and the girls, Tatiana, Marie, Anastasia and Olga—were dragged from their beds and driven into a cellar and shot down and thrown into a pit of quicklime.

Revolutions may have behind them the fury of pent-up justice, of centuries of oppression, but all too often they put into the hands of human tigers the power of life and death.

Fortunes In Rare Stamps

ONE CERTAIN way to insure one's old age against poverty is to build up a collection of rare objects. Start young and keep at it, and by the time frost touches one's head the fortune will be there.

The late Arthur W. Hind of Utica, New York, went in for collecting stamps. He spent a lifetime doing it and had a grand time at it, hobnobbing with kings and common men, good philatelic fellows, all. Arthur Hind passed to his reward and the auctioneer sold off his world-famous collection of tiny engravings in every color of the rainbow. For one collection alone $245,000 was paid. For one stamp alone $10,000 was eagerly paid. Not much bigger than one's thumb nail, it is called the "Baltimore" and is printed on thin, bluish paper.

A stamp issued by the postoffice of Boscawen, New Hampshire, many years ago brought $5,000, and the man who bought it originally for five dollars stood by and saw it knocked down. An unused copy of the fifteen cent issue of 1869, a great prize, went for $7,000 to a gentleman who trembled with elation at his victory.

Identification By 'Sinus Prints'

IF CRIMINALS become so subtle, and are sufficiently willing to submit to the physical pain, it is possible, at least, that finger print identification may lose its value. Thereafter the police will have to identify law breakers by "sinus prints." The method will be by X-ray photographs of the skull rather than camera pictures of finger tips.

The sinus cavities in no two human beings are alike. They are not as similar, even, as finger prints. The contours of all sinus cavities, those small labyrinthine passages at the front of the human skull, are vastly different. Dr. Thomas A. Poole, of Washington, D. C., is as expert on sinus identification as Henry, of Scotland Yard, was, and Faurot, of the New York police department, is, on finger print identification.

The attention of police officials and life insurance experts, to whom Dr. Poole's method of sinus identification would be of use, has been attracted.

Recent cases of lost identification of persons who carried considerable life insurance have embarrassed insurance companies to such an extent that only a little while ago one such company offered $20,000 for proof that a body is or is not that of a certain man.

Finger prints can be destroyed, of course, and are destroyed in the natural disintegration of the body. The argument is made for sinus identification that the bony structure of the cavities is not destroyed, or at least not for many years after death. In the detective story of the future the missing heir may be identified by an X-ray photograph of his sinuses.

Police authorities the country over are disturbed by the report that criminals are going to surgeons to have telltale fingerprints cut off and new skin grafted. Two bank robbers at Ottawa, Ill., were fingerprinted recently and only smudges showed on the prepared paper. It is an entirely possible operation, though extremely painful.

The fingerprinting system is the greatest weapon in the armory of criminal investigation. If lawbreakers could find a way to defeat it, justice would receive a terrific blow. On file in the Department of Justice in Washington are the fingerprints of four million criminals, and two thousand prints a day are received from five thousand police chiefs all over the world.

The fingerprinting system came into general use only in the past 25 years. The late Sir Edward Richard Henry of Scotland Yard noted in India that Chinese coolies gave each other receipts in business transactions by means of thumb prints. He made a study of the system and found that there was just one chance in six hundred and forty billion that the fingerprints of any two persons could be alike. He made it a powerful agency of Scotland Yard.

A Job for One Million Young Americans

By James T. Williams, Jr.

A GREAT adventure awaits the more than 1,000,000 young Americans from Maine to California who will come of age during the new year just ahead.

This is the opportunity to explore, conquer and civilize what has been aptly described as "the dark continent of American politics"—county and local government in the several states.

To engage effectively in this adventure, however, the young pioneers who enter upon it must possess three qualifications:

1—A flaming love of country and a pride in government which, like charity, begins at home.

2—A firm resolve to penetrate the jungle that covers this dark continent of American politics and the courage to face the conditions which this jungle hides.

3—The common sense to follow the trail and the ability to unite in support of a leadership worthy of the cause—a leadership that will not falter until an obsolete system of government "which was built up in the days of the ox-cart," as President Roosevelt says, and has become an insult to civic intelligence and an injury to the public welfare in these days of the automobile.

The conquest of the dark continent of American politics is not a job for partisans. It is a job for young pioneers quickened with the spirit of patriotism strong enough "to put the cause above renown."

* * *

Partisanship Is Not Involved

THIS is no fight for Democrats or Republicans, as such, because as the late Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, who knew the game of politics from A to Z, once indignantly declared:

> "The battle is not so much between political parties, as such, as between the rights of the people and the powers of pillage."

As this American statesman truly said:

> "A political party is not a group of politicians, each with his following, combining to win the spoils of place and power. Such an organization is not a party—it is a band of brigands and its appeals in the name of the party are mere attempts to beguile and defraud the voter for its selfish purposes. Such organizations and men are the tools and agents of lawless interests which know no party, attempt to use all parties and practice only the politics of profit."

This is true of county governments in states all over the Union today; it is true of local governments today in communities north, east, south and west.

President Roosevelt knows what he is talking about when he denounces this outworn system of government because he had to contend with it while he was Governor of the state of New York.

Although the Empire state of the Union is far from being in the heart of "the dark continent," conditions there are bad enough to challenge the organized hostility of all young pioneers who are approaching the voting age or have recently attained it.

* * *

Too Many Units Of Government

FOR example, the state of New York today, outside of New York City, is divided into 57 counties, cut up in 932 towns, 59 cities and 35 villages. In these have been organized fire, water, lighting, sewer, sidewalk and improvement districts to the number of 2,467. In addition are 9,504 school districts, making a total of 13,497 municipal units outside of New York City.

Many citizens of New York state are living under 11 different layers of government. The towns and counties alone have supported over 15,000 officials, and the people are paying tribute to over 11,000 tax collectors.

What is true of New York State is bad enough, but there are conditions in other states of the Union which are even worse. In fact, not one of the 48 states of the Union can yet boast of a system of state and local government sufficiently simplified to meet the challenge of a new day.

Even so well governed a state as the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is still plagued from one end to the other by the extravagances of the county ring and by its sinister grip on county and local government.

Even the states of North Carolina and Virginia, which, under the administration of progressive Governors like Gardner and Byrd, have begun the conquest of their part of "the dark continent," have a long way to go before they complete the job.

And until the dark continent of politics is explored, conquered and civilized by an invading army such as only the younger voters of America can raise, government in the several states will continue to totter, public education to suffer, the administration of justice to falter, and the political racketeers of county and local government to feed at the public trough.

Electricity Routs Danger of Candles; Making Tree Safe

Santa Claus will soon be here
With his presents and his toys
For good little girls and boys.."

Well! Well! Here are the Christmas holidays again and of course there is going to be a greater and keener interest than ever in annual home decoration efforts participated in by homeowners over all the country.

Hundreds of proud homeowners are planning to outdo their neighbors in achieving brilliant and gala effects in both interior and exterior lighting arrangements.

MANY ARE BUYING

All ready nation-wide interest in the yearly pageant is being shown by the many purchases of huge strings of colored lights. These will be strung effectively through low pine trees and shrubbery, along porch railings and pillars.

At night when the lights are turned on, they beckon to passers-by with warm hospitality and cordial good wishes.

Not so many years ago, it was customary to light up the tree with candles late Christmas night. It was a dangerous procedure. Great care had to be exercised in lighting the tiny red and green candles clipped in clasp sockets at strategic points on the tree.

SIZZLING END OF TREE

Even if the dried branches and hanging tinsel did not catch fire, the tree was illuminated only for a very short time. With electric lights, it can glow all during Christmas week.

As for exterior decorations, they were quite impractical. The sole message to the outside world was a candle burning in the window, with the constant danger that any little draft might ignite the curtains.

LIGHTING SAFE TODAY

Food Lasts Long In Refrigerator

All foods which do not have a natural dry coating, as eggs or oranges, should be covered if they are to remain in the electric refrigerator for any length of time.

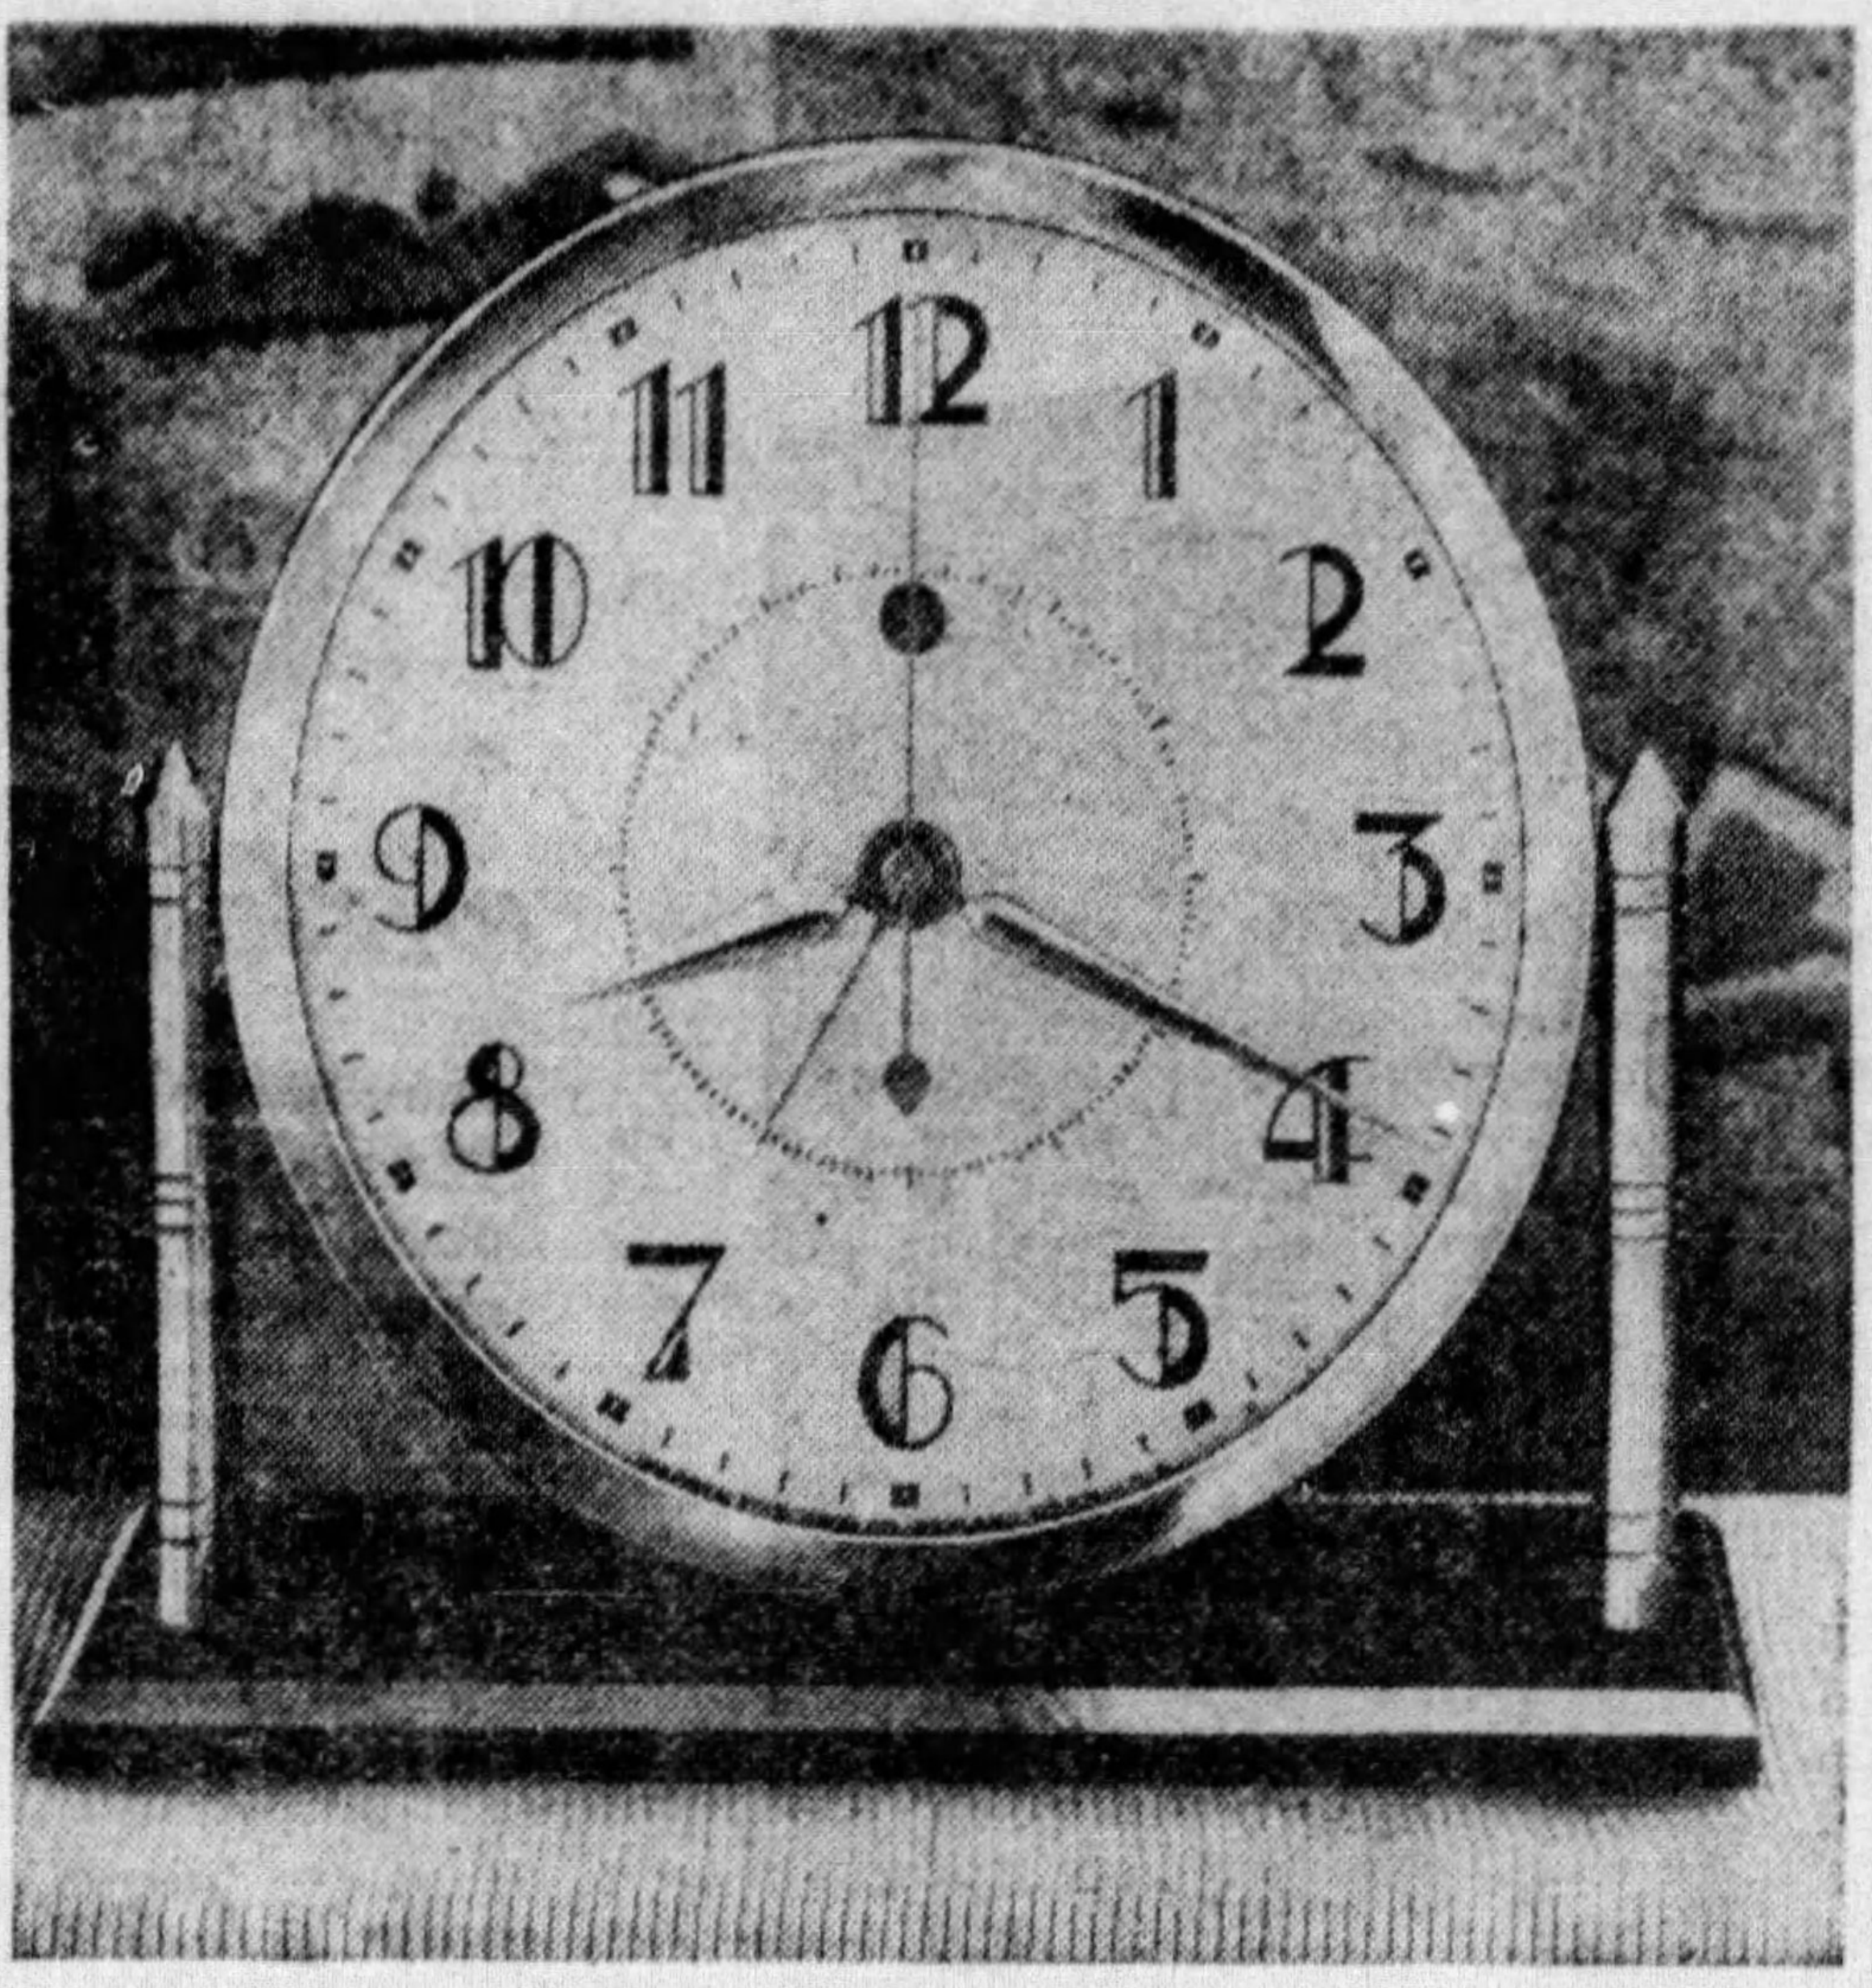
Specially designed square or round bowls are the most convenient containers, but glass jars or bowls covered with parchment paper, aluminum foil or heavy oiled paper also may be used.

ELECTRIC CLOCK



Father Time's latest device to keep track of himself. No precious minutes are lost with an electric clock, because the fallible, human touch is not required to keep it running. When it's time to put the cat out, this clock does not have to be wound. The wizard electricity keeps it going, regardless of human forgetfulness. A blessed gift to any sleepy head of the house.

The Christmas Spirit

It comes with cool December days,

The mystic Christmas Spirit brings
Invades our hearts and lives and sings

And wheresoever we chance to go
Where holly wreaths and mistletoe,

And loving glances pass around
We'll find the Christmas Spirit found
A home and lifted up the latch.

For Christmas without love is spent
In vain. Although of gifts we may
A wealth secure, we're not content
Unless that magic fills the day.

So enter Christmas Spirit with
Your flame of love and hope and cheer,
The evil from our hearts dismiss,

Ripe Fruit Is Best For Flavoring Ices

In selecting fruits for ice creams, the well-ripened fruit will give the most desired flavor. In selecting for a fruit dessert, the fruit canned in syrup holds its own and is more attractive than the well-ripened fruit.

Electrical Dealers Join To Aid Yuletide Shopper

Clocks Make Splendid Gift For Any One

Electrically Operated Are Found In All Styles

Those who are having difficulty deciding what presents to give to friends and relatives may well take a hint from the fact that there is so little "time" left to make up their minds.

There are all kinds of electric clocks, in fact, one for every room in the house. Kitchen clocks of all sizes and shapes, come in all colors.

For the living room, there is a clock in keeping with the Tudor or Victorian furnishings. Or, if the room is early American, you can find a number of designs of charming simplicity, exact reproductions of the clocks that graced the walls and fireplaces of our early ancestors.

It's a never failing wonder to me that millions of radio enthusiasts who are so alert to the slightest gossip of radio stations and radio stars; who keep so critical an ear on the orchestras, comedians and orators of the air, have so little conception of what a radio program really sounds like as it leaves the modern studio and transmitter.

And that's my cue for stepping out of my bailiwick, to discuss something besides radio stars and programs.

Cook Turned Into Magician By Electricity

Refrigerator Works Marvels for Aide In Kitchen

These frozen delights, paradoxically, will melt the hearts of the most difficult to please and will be a welcome relief from the usual desserts.

SOME SUGGESTIONS

APRICOT MARLOBET

Four ounces dried apricots.
Two cups water.
One-quarter cup orange juice.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One-quarter cup egg whites.

Wash apricots and soak over night in two cups water. Simmer until tender in same water and press through a strainer. (There should be three-fourths cup pulp and one cup juice). Mix apricot and orange juice. Melt marshmallows over hot water, in the fruit juice, stirring frequently. Add pulp and chill until slightly thickened. Beat the egg whites, add sugar. Blend the two mixtures. This may be frozen either without stirring at all or stirring once after it has frozen solid for about one inch from the edge of the pan.

BUTTERMILK SHERBET

Two-thirds cup sugar.
One cup crushed pineapple.
One egg white.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Dash of salt.

Mix buttermilk, two-thirds of the sugar, the salt, pineapple and vanilla and freeze to a mush (about 45 minutes). Whip egg whites until stiff, add sugar and fold into the well beaten pineapple mixture. Freeze without further stirring.

BANANA GRAPENUT SHERBET

Two tablespoons lemon juice.
Juice of two oranges.
One-half cup sugar.
One cup whipping cream.
One-third cup grapenuts.

Boil sugar and water together for three minutes. Cool. Peal bananas and put through a potato ricer and add fruit juices and syrup. Add to freezing tray and freeze until solid for about one inch from the edge of the freezing tray (about one hour). Beat thoroughly. Add grapenuts and fold in the whipped cream. Freeze for about two hours more and serve.

Power Gifts End Worry For Husband

Electrical Presents Offer Big Field For Selection

He ponders for months. He wonders what size she wears in this or that garment. He is afraid she will not like this or that color.

As a result, many a wife has concealed her annoyance at ill-chosen gifts and made a fuss over things which do not fit her or suit her type.

She has beamed her appreciation for a blue and red silken kimona when deep down in her heart she wishes it were a pink flannel robe.

The dozen pairs of fawn-colored hose, a size and a half too small, which were selected with such painstaking and loving care, she secretly hoped would be sun-tan.

How can a mere man be expected to differentiate between subtle shades of brown? How can he know that black, not green, is the important color this year?

Where to Store Foods in Your Refrigerator

In the effective storing of foods in different sections of the electric refrigerator, it is important to remember just one simple rule of physics: Cold air drops.

Therefore the bottom of the refrigerator is the place for milk, meat broth and left-over creamed foods, for bacteria multiply rapidly in these foods unless they are kept very cold.

Electric Grills Are Just Tiny Ranges

They can be used to prepare luncheons and suppers and even more elaborate meals without the necessity of entering the kitchen.

This unit is so placed that food may be cooked either above or below, or in both places at the same time.

Never Whip Cream Thick, Tip for Ices

Several Uses Given Where Refrigerator Is at Hand

Cream should be whipped only until the consistency of custard, but never until it is very thick.

If it is over-whipped, the stirring necessary to blend it with other ingredients, will make the ice cream granular, and give it a buttery texture.

If coffee cream is thoroughly chilled, but not frozen, in the electric refrigerator, it may be whipped to serve on desserts.

Mixer Found 'Handy Man' For Kitchen

Gadget Operated by Electricity Does The Odd Jobs

The number of little tasks this kitchen aid can do is almost inconceivable: Mixing batters, whipping cream, squeezing fruit, chopping meats and vegetables and many others.

DOES ODD JOBS

The time element alone is important. This handy electric appliance takes care of all the odd jobs that ordinarily slow up cooking processes and tire the arm and shoulder muscles.

Batters are mixed much more thoroughly in half the time. Deserts are whipped to delightful frothiness.

AND IT'S COMPACT

It is compact, too, and can be conveniently pushed back into a corner, out of the way.

The kitchen mixer is an ideal gift because it combines real usefulness with the spirit of holiday giving.

Vari-Colored Bulbs Add to Yule Cheer

Instead of flickering feebly, as the candles did, they light up each tree ornament, blending the multitude of colors with the green of the tree, the white of the snow, into a spectacle of rare beauty.

Most large cities conduct local contests for exterior home decoration. Great local interest and keen rivalry always has marked these contests.

GET IN THE SWING!

Loaf Chilled 2 Hrs. Makes Tasty Sandwiches

RIBBON SANDWICH LOAF

One and one-half pounds, cream cheese.
Four tablespoons chopped green pepper.
Three tablespoons chopped pimento.
Two egg yolksfi hard cooked.
Onion. Water. Salt.
Vegetable colorings.

Remove all crusts from bread with a very sharp knife, or get your baker to do it for you. Slice bread into three slices lengthwise, so that each will be the length of the loaf and about three-fourths inch thick. Divide the cream cheese into three bowls, placing about three-fourths cup in two bowls and the rest in a third. Add two teaspoons of water to each of the bowls and beat until smooth, so that it may be easily spread. Season one with pimento, adding salt and a bit of pink vegetable coloring. To the second add the pepper and green coloring matter. To the third add the egg yolk which has been pressed through a fine strainer, and a drop or two of onion juice. Spread pimento and green mixtures about one-half inch thick between the slices of bread and press firmly together. Cover the outside with the egg yolk mixture and garnish with a tulip made of green pepper and red pimento in a flower pot of egg plant. Chill two hours in the electric refrigerator. Serve in three-fourths inch slices Garnish each service with celery stuffed with Roquefort cheese or olives and radishes.

SHREDDING CABBAGE

DEMONSTRATING ONE OF MANY USES OF AN ELECTRIC MIXER

Refrigerator Solves Last Minute Rush

Many Foodstuffs May be Fixed In Advance

Electric refrigerator meals need not consist of cold foods, but of those that may be prepared well in advance and stored away in the refrigerator until cooking time.

Then you can be free of kitchen duties most of the day, and still serve a substantial, appetizing refrigerator meal in the evening.

Wrapping Slows Up Chilling of Meat

Some Left Overs Not to Be Stored

Proper air circulation throughout the food compartments of an electric refrigerator is essential for efficient preservation.

Tinted Cubes Lend Air to Dining Table

Making Own Ice Opens Many Doors For Hostess

Ice for chilled drinks always is available in an electric refrigerator. Many hostesses make ice cubes from tea, coffee, ginger ale or fruit juice.

Ice cubes made from water to which vegetable coloring has been added, lend a gay, festive touch to bridge or luncheon tables.

Ice cubes which have been decorated with maraschino cherries, mint or water cress, quarter slices of orange or lemon, with a small flower or emerlettes or rubyettes, are smart and pretty additions to water, tea or ginger ale.

Do not attempt to freeze mint leaves with the water, or they will turn black. Just lay them on an ice block and freeze in place.

A large block of ice may be made for use in a punch bowl, or may be placed on a tray and used instead of finger bowls at a buffet meal.

Then moisten with a little water and add sprigs of green leaves such as mint, rose, parsley or water cress, using small blossoms or maraschino cherries for contrasting color.

When the decorations are well set, add about an inch of water and freeze again. This is very easy to do and makes a very effective decoration.

A small space in your refrigerator will hold all the essentials for refreshing drinks on short notice: a bottle of sugar syrup, some fruit, coffee or chocolate syrup, ginger ale and a bottle of grape juice. With these and the ever ready supply of sparkling ice cubes, you can do wonders.

Freeze water to which a quarter cup of lemon juice has been added to two cups of water, to serve in iced tea.

Pour grape juice into a tray without the partitions and freeze to an icy mush.

SUGAR SYRUP

On cup sugar.
One cup water.

Put sugar and water in a saucepan and stir until sugar is dissolved. Bring to boil and boil without stirring for about five minutes. Cool. Pour into covered jar and keep in refrigerator cabinet, using as needed.

COFFEE SYRUP

Follow directions for sugar syrup, using strong coffee instead of water, and boiling for 10 minutes instead of five minutes.

CHOCOLATE SYRUP

One cup water.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
Two cups sugar.
Two teaspoons vanilla.

Coow cocoa and water together over direct heat, stirring until smooth. Add sugar and salt and continue stirring until they are dissolved. Boil three minutes; add vanilla. Pour into a pint jar. Seal with a rubber ring and keep in refrigerator. After each using, replace rubber and cover and seal tightly. Keeping air-tight prevents sugaring.

LEMONADE

Six cups water.
Sugar syrup.
Juice of four lemons.

Mix water and lemon juice. Add sugar syrup to taste. Serve with colored ice cubes or serve a spoonful of grape juice that has been frozen to a mush in each glass.

PINEAPPLE RASPBERRYADE

One cup water.
One cup canned crushed pineapple.

Mix all ingredients together and keep in refrigerator until ready to serve. Serve in tall glasses with ginger ale cubes and fresh mint leaves.

GAPE LEMONADE

Sugar syrup.
Juice of three lemons.

Mix grape juice and lemon juice and add sugar syrup to taste. Chill and serve in tall glasses partially filled with crushed ice cubes.

FRUIT PUNCH

Three-quarter cup orange juice.
One-third cup lemon juice.
One cup pineapple juice.
Slices o' orange and lemon.
One pint ginger ale.
Sugar syrup.

Mix fruit juices and tea. Chill and just before serving add ginger ale, sugar syrup to taste, and slices of orange and lemon. Serve with ice cubes in each glass.

FROSTED COFFEE

Vanilla ice cream.
One cup milk.

Put syrup, milk, and a heaping tablespoon of ice cream into shaker, or tightly covered jar, and shake well. Pour into tall glass and serve more ice cream on top, if desired. (Use one tablespoon syrup if less sweet drink is preferred.)

Waffle Iron Now Permits Mother to Eat With Rest

Also, the waffles had to be made in the kitchen and served in quantity in the dining room.

While the finished waffles waited for a sufficient number to collect to justify a trip into the dining room, the ones prepared earlier grew cold and soggy.

Now all that is changed. All these bothers are eliminated in the home that has a waffle iron. These golden brown delicacies, with many variations of fruit and nuts and flavors, can be, and are, served every day. The waffles are made right on the table, at the housewife's elbow, quickly and without odor.

Refrigeration By Electricity Healthful

Food preservation is the chief function of the electric refrigerator. Food preservation means better health for the family, greater economy and more appetizing meals, because the interior of the refrigerator is kept chilled to an even low temperature which prevents the rapid increase of the bacteria, yeasts and molds which are so prevalent in all foods.

Actual bacteriological tests by the United States Department of Agriculture and other scientific laboratories prove that micro-organisms multiply slowly below 50 degrees.

Generally speaking, the lower the temperature, the slower this multiplication will be — although freezing is not usually desirable.

There also are practical reasons why it is not advisable to permit temperatures to become too low.

Butter kept below 40 degrees is difficult to cut without chipping and is more difficult to cream for cake.

The average temperatures in the food compartment should be about 45 degrees.

A single pan of water or dessert will freeze four or five times as fast as will three pans of water.

The lower the temperature of water or food to be frozen, the less time it will take.

Do not expect a warm dessert to freeze as fast as one which is cool when placed in the refrigerator.

Warm air rushes in to take its place, and must be chilled, before the freezing process continues.

If quick freezing is desired, do not place large quantities of unchilled food in the refrigerator at the same time.

Electric Toasters Need No Attention

Toast prepared the old-fashioned way was a trying operation. Fingers were burned, or else the toast. Fumes filled the kitchen and the job was a long one.

The electric toaster now makes it possible to make toast on the table. Many are automatic, requiring no attention whatever. Some are even equipped so they can be adjusted to a light or a dark toast.

Refrigerator Saves Evaporated Milk

Evaporated milk that has been scalded in a double boiler, chilled till very cold and whipped, may be used as a substitute for whipped cream in most desserts. It is more economical to use.

Or the unopened can may be placed in boiling water and boiled for 30 minutes, and then stored in the electric refrigerator to be ready at any time.

Lamp as Gift Finds Favor With Scores

Electrical Designs Harmonize With Any Setting

Today, lamps play a dual role in our scheme of living.

They serve as lovely ornamental pieces to enhance the elegance of a room. They serve also as a means of supplying us with light to see by, exactly where we want it.

There are lamps that fit into the dignity of an Elizabethan room. There are those designed for the intimacy of the casual room.

JUST A HINT TO HELP

It is therefore well, when considering a lamp as a gift, to think of the receiver's home.

This will be most helpful in the choice of a lamp that is in good taste and which will be both acceptable and useful.

Among them you will find just the type of lamp that will go so well over by Aunt Mary's piano, or that will just suit the end table alongside of Uncle Bill's big leather club chair.

Or there will be a boudoir lamp that is just the thing for Cousin Susan's Louis XIV bedroom.

PRICES LOW, TOO

It is no wonder so many persons this year are turning to lamp gifts as a practical solution of what to give.

They are able to obtain exactly the style of lamp for which they are looking.

Gelatin Suggested For Cold Desserts

It also will keep frozen desserts or salads from melting rapidly after they are served.

Refrigerator Can be Made 'Silent Maid'

Housewife Now Free To be With Guests

Here are some of the things a housewife can do which will relieve that last-minute confusion at mealtime and leave her free to enjoy the company of her family and guests:

Make medium thick white sauce and keep in tightly covered jar. It will be ready for creamed soups, vegetables or for escalloped dishes.

Garbing Home For Christmas Is Easy Task

Plan Decorations In Accord With House Design

This confusion usually is because decorative lighting is regarded as a big undertaking. It really isn't.

UTILIZE SHRUBBERY

It should be remembered that the design is the essential thing in every display.

Quite often a few shrubs that lend themselves to lighting decoration are far more attractive than elaborate displays that outline an entire home.

HOW TO DO IT

Frequently where the beauty of the home is a matter of family pride, the entire structure may be made the background to frame the display.

To save time and to simplify the details of the plan, take a daytime snapshot or make a rough sketch of the house, preferably of post-card size or larger.

After deciding what areas you wish to decorate with lighted streamers, floodlights, wreaths and the like, take some crayon or a pen and spot the locations of lamps and other decorations at the desired locations.

It is not necessary to attempt a painted picture—mere spots will serve as a guide when you start the installation.

PLENTY OF MATERIAL

There is a wealth of material available for decorative lighting to select from.

Probably the simplest equipment to install is a small inexpensive floodlight which may be hidden on the lawn behind a hedge or shrubbery.

With colored glass covers or color screens, floodlights placed at the base of the larger shrubs, create pools of color, which may by accentuated by contrast and give a new complextion to the planting.

A FETCHING SIGHT

This applies particularly to the small evergreens.

The lamps may be so arranged as to give them outline as well as spots of color.

However, it should be kept in mind that the design and not the size of the display is by far the most important point in planning.

"Making the outdoors bright with Christmas light" is now a catching idea.

You will find the neighbors will follow.

Cover Salad Greens, Put in Refrigerator

Lettuce and all vegetables stored in the refrigerator should be washed, and freshened and should have waste removed.

If they are at all wilted, soak in cold water. Store salad greens and vegetales that should be kept crisp in a covered pan containing a little water.

They will stay in good condition for a week or more

Many Kinds Of Frozen Dessert Good

Mousses and New Ice Creams Easy To be Had

There are several types of frozen desserts—the mousses and parfaits that require no stirring and the stirred ice creams, sherbets and water ices.

Many of the new ice cream recipes may be made without any stirring, but usually will be smoother if stirred once.

A mousse or parfait is rich with cream into which air has been beaten. Hence it does not have to be stirred.

Just place these desserts in the freezing tray, decorative molds or paper mousse cups. Then freeze for about three hours.

First freezing requires from one to one and a half hours; complete freezing, three to four hours.

Best of Radio Being Missed By Dial Fans

nouncing, performing, locally and over the networks; program directing, audition hearing and tinkering with studio accoustics, microphones, control gadgets, sound effects and electrical transcriptions.

I've hollered at the old carbon microphones, as some people still do at the telephone, so's to be sure of being heard, and recently whispered into the sensitive modern "mikes," and breathed carefully so that you shouldn't hear me.

MARCH OF PROGRESS

I've seen tremendous improvements come along in transcriptions — those overgrown phonograph records—from those of a year or so ago, with their rasping surface noises, to the beautifully recorded transcriptions of today that you'd mistake for the real thing if the announcer weren't required by law to call it by name.

Perfectly wonderful — wonderfully perfect equipment has been installed in the studios and transmitter outposts to enable the millions of listners to hear sweet, clar, natural music and voices.

And although I've realized it vaguely from time to time, only this week has it dawned on me that only one or two radio listeners in 10 receive the programs in the same clear quality in which they are broadcast with improved studio and transmitting equipment.

I couldn't count the number of times, acquaintances in my home community, 12 miles out of Pittsburgh, have asked me in these days of modern radio receivers:

"Why is it that we can't get this or that station in town?

I never have any trouble getting any one of them. And I have a very inexpensive set . . . but a thoroughly modern one. So I say:

HERE'S THE REASON

I've been house hunting in various suburban communities, and in town, and no fewer than 20 radio sets have been switched on for my benefit.

"Isn't that nice!" the housewife or husband would exclaim proudly, showing off what sounded to me like a gramophone, but what, because they had heard nothing better, they really supposed was good.

The accoustical and mechanical experts of the broadcasting staffs can't put the modern programs into homes with any more quality than the deteriorated receiving sets will receive them.

I have no ax to grind with or for the radio manufacturers. But I have the keenest admiration for their persistent and successful efforts to improve reception in step with broadcasting.

And I'm astounded with the realization that the majority of listeners are lagging so far behind the modern broadcasters.

Many of you still are hearing radio reception in its primitive stages, however handsome and expensive your antique sets may be.

There has never been a season of such promising programs as the one just beginning.

Better music, brighter comedy, more realistic dramas, livelier current events discussions, more broadening educational features and timely discussions of business and government activities deserve a better hearing.

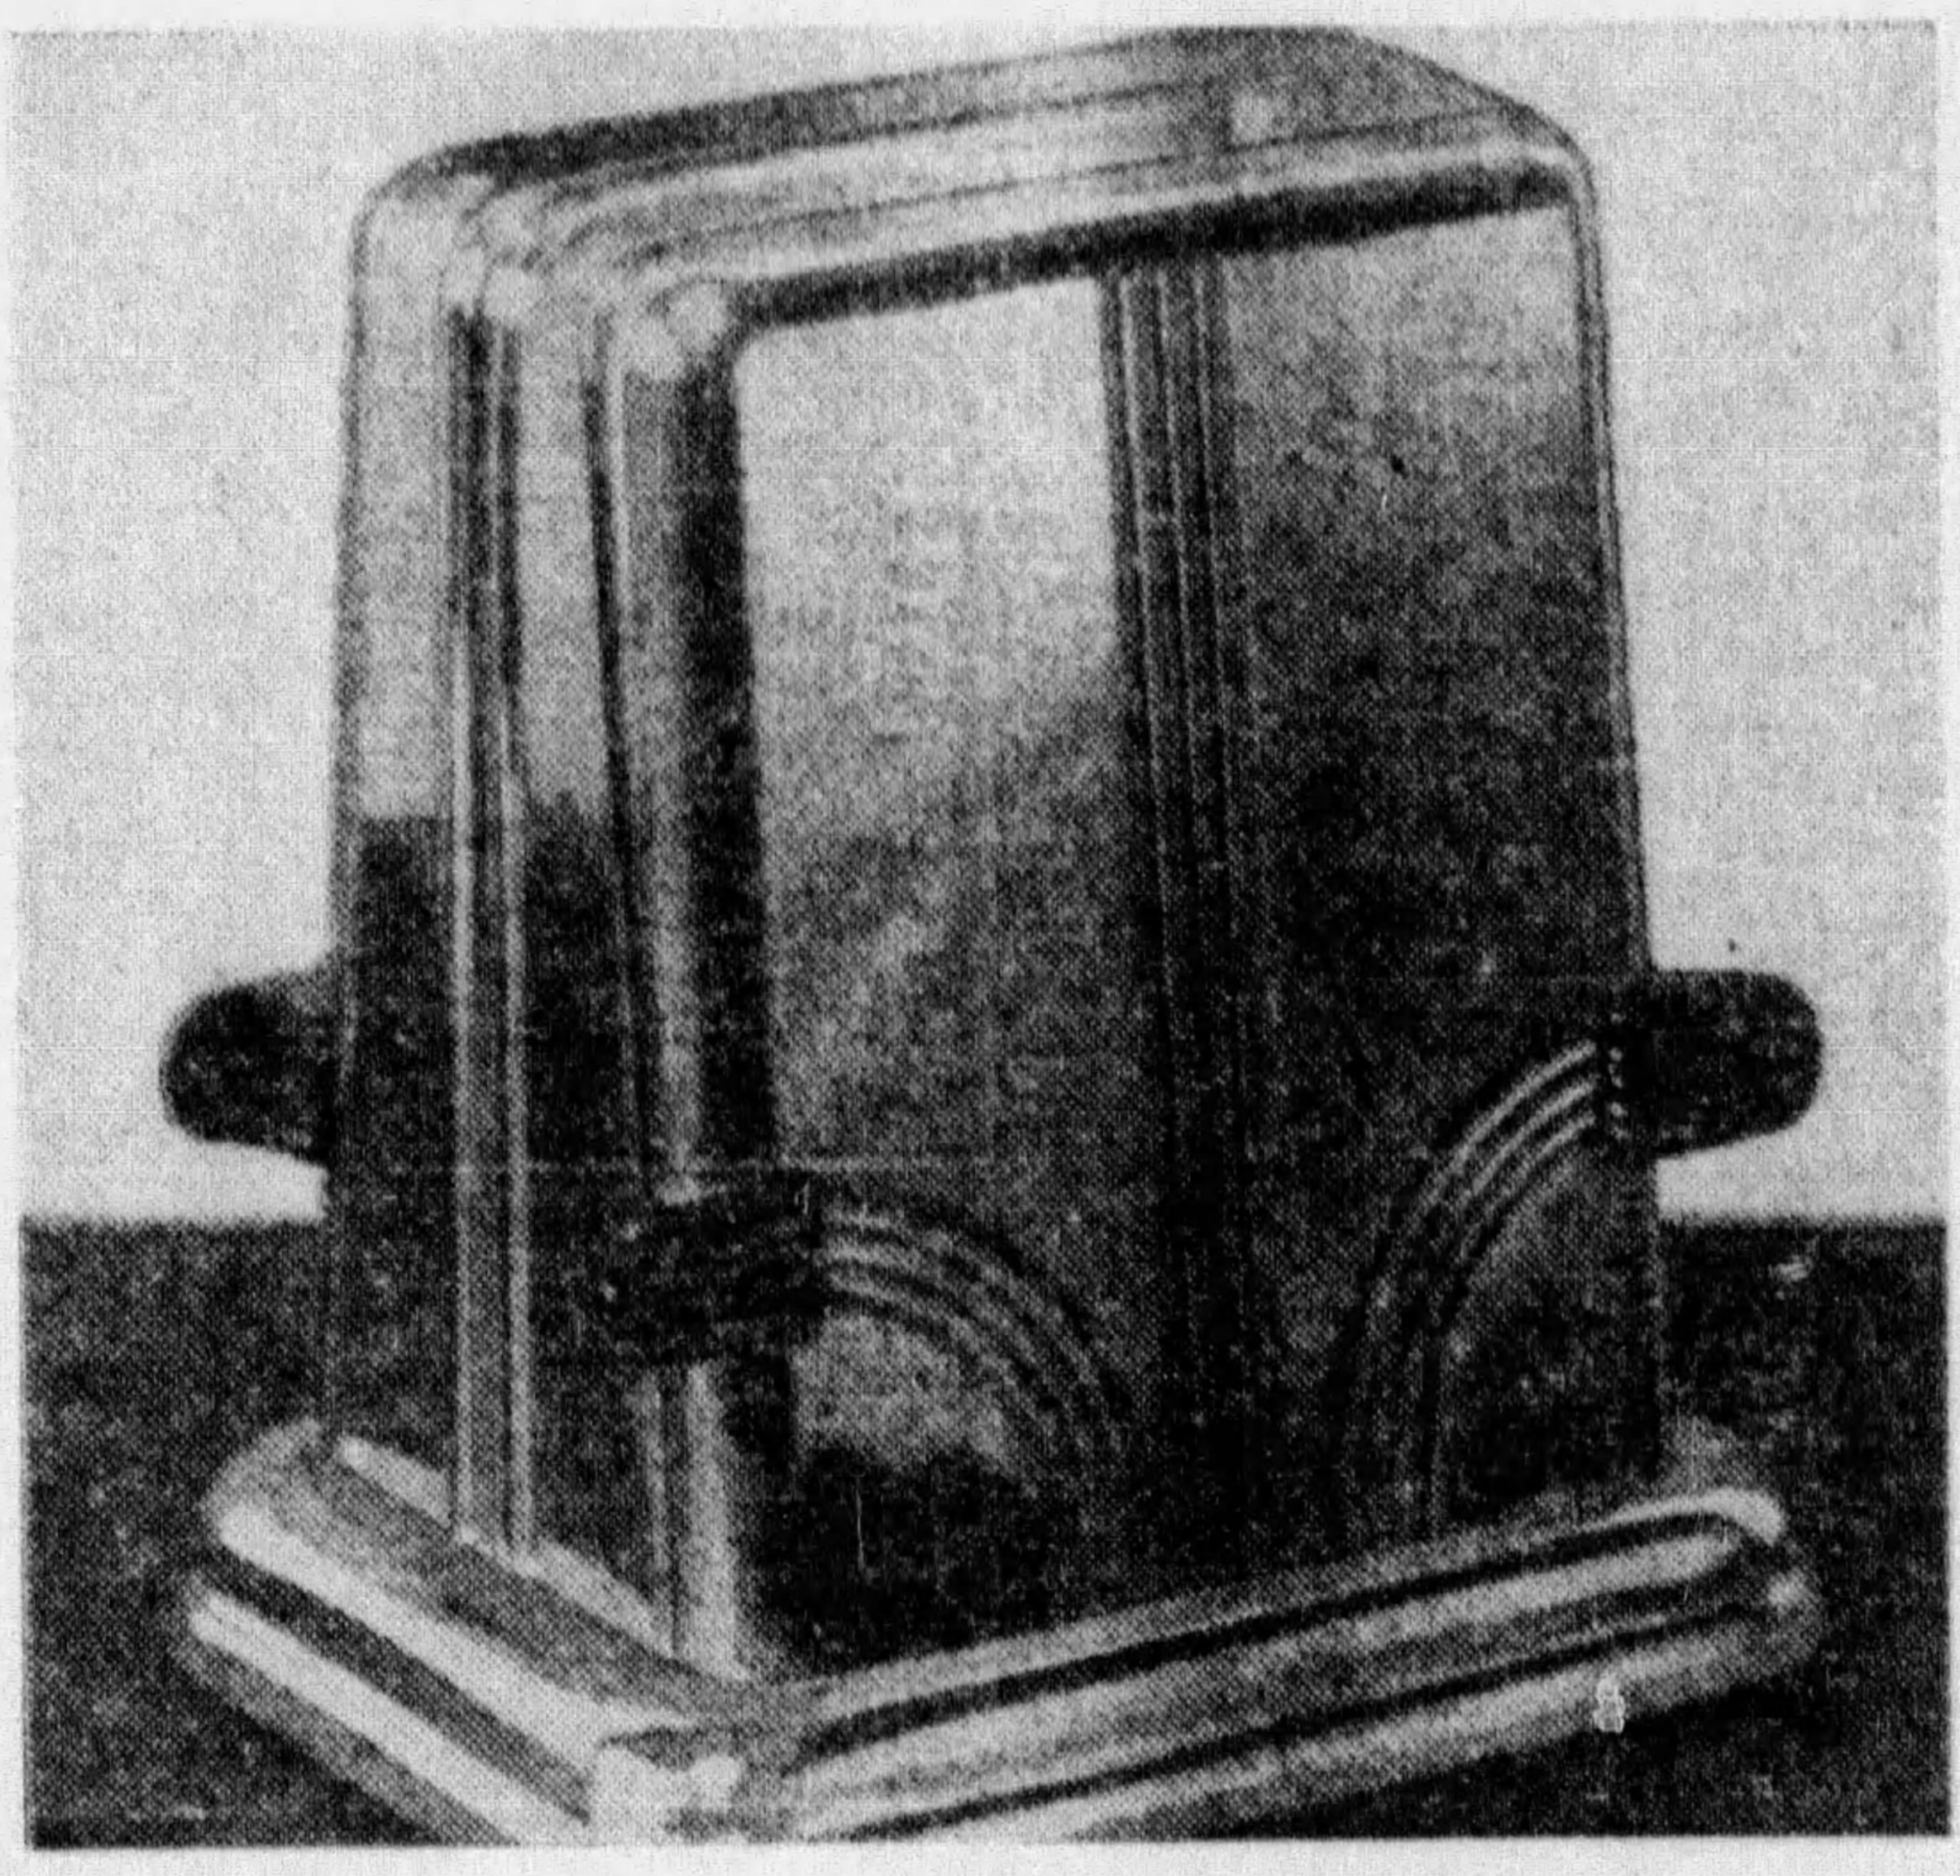
ELECTRIC TOASTER



Saving Light Depends On Bulbs

The ideal gift for the young bride, for the bachelor's apartment, for the girl or boy away at school, for any household, in fact. The last word in beauty of line and practical value. Golden-brown breakfast toast; toasted sandwiches for midnight suppers. A lovely gift.

Wax, Water Are Pals For Refrigerator

A new electric refrigerator should be cleaned thoroughly before it is chilled for the first time, and after each defrosting. Remove racks and all ice trays, wash and scald thoroughly, wipe off shelves also.

Wash the interior of the food compartment with luke warm water, to which a tablespoon of soda has been added to each quart. Rinse and wipe dry.

The exterior of a lacquer cabinet should be carefully cleaned, then a very thin coat of paste or liquid wax should be applied.

After this has been polished with a soft cloth, the lacquer will be easy to keep clean.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

No wonder this mother is pleased. This present of an electric refrigerator means happiness not only on Christmas Day, but all the days of the year. It means not only happiness for her, but day-after-day convenience and economy for the whole family.

Coffee Percolators Shown In Two Attractive Types

Not only is it a means of saving steps, but because of the many beautiful designs in which it may be obtained, it is a lovely decorative piece for the table.

There are two types of percolators—the coffee pot type, which looks very much like a coffee pot and has a long spout through which the finished coffee is poured, and the urn type.

Broiling Pan Adds Flavor to Foods

Designed so the juices from the broiling foods drip into convenient little grooves from which they can be poured easily on the cooked foods, this pan is ideal for broiling chops or steaks at table.

Dont Let Heat Unit Be Dipped in Water

In washing your electric percolator, be sure the heating unit in the base never is immersed in water. Corrosion and rust will start and the heating unit will be apt to be ruined.
